SECOND FREEWAY PROJECT AT GREENBRAE

Work is progressing rapidly on second freeway project at Greenbrae interchange, Highway 101 and Sir Francis Drake boulevard. New project, costing $1,800,000, will provide on-ramp structure (above, right) from Drake boulevard to southbound freeway lanes, plus northbound freeway bridge and pedestrian overcrossing near Lucky drive. Viewing construction scene is Jack Lowell of San Jose, pump operator for Dan Caputo Co., one of the contracting firms on project. West Set To Use Force If W. Berlin Blockaded

Russian Announcement Expected Next Week

BERLIN (UPI)—Authoritative sources reported the West ready tonight to meet force with force if Russia's promised "liquidation" of four-power rights in Berlin turns into a new blockade.

A report that the Russians would turn over control of Western allied lifelines to the East German Communists today turned out to be premature, but Moscow reports said there was no evidence of a change in Soviet intentions.

It was expected now that the official Russian announcement would come early next week, possibly Monday.

Berlin sources said Western commanders already had their orders for dealing with any attempt by Russia or its East German satellite to encroach on the vital air corridors linking this outpost with the West.

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano flew into Berlin today to confer with West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt on the increasingly grave situation, touched off by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's announcement that Russia soon would bring Berlin's occupation status to an end.

Cat-and-mouse tactics in Moscow increased the tension.

An East German radio broadcast said the Soviet Union would make its proposals on the "eradication of the occupation status of Berlin in Moscow this morning."

The United States, Britain and France now maintain an estimated 7,500 troops in West Berlin under terms of the Potsdam agreement, which the Communists now say is no longer valid. Their supplies depend on land and air corridors through the heart of Communist East Germany.

The West has insisted that, regardless of any one-sided action by Moscow, the occupational status of Berlin must continue and that the West will insist on its right of entry into the isolated city.

On his arrival here today, Brentano reiterated that "I do believe that the Berlin position will be maintained, although of course the situation is serious."

WEATHER BALLOON PUTS ON SHOW OVER MARIN

The usual flurry that occurs when a weather balloon drifts over Marin County was manifested again yesterday afternoon.

Phone calls reporting the balloon or asking about the "strange object in the sky" deluged Hamilton Air Force Base and the Independent-Journal. The pattern was the same throughout the Bay Area.

In Marin, the brightly glowing 150-foot diameter balloon was seen from Mill Valley to Novato as it floated east to west at a high altitude.

The balloon was launched from the Navy Weather Research Laboratory at Vernalis in San Joaquin County.

Tells All Departments To Cut Budgets For Next Fiscal Year To Revised Level

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—The White House disclosed today that President Eisenhower has ordered all departments and agencies to make an intensive effort to cut their 1960 budgets in line with his campaign for substantially reducing federal spending.

The chief executive has sent a memorandum to each department and agency head, calling on them to "live with" revisions of their budgets for the next fiscal year as sent back to them by Budget Director Maurice F. Stans.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said the big Defense Department budget remains to be settled. Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy and Stans may fly to Augusta next week to talk over the 1960 budget with the vacationing Eisenhower.

The President's interdepartmental memo was signed and distributed Thursday just before he flew south for a golfing vacation that will extend through the Thanksgiving weekend.

Hagerty said the memo informed the department chiefs that Stans was revising their 1960 budgets and they shortly would receive from the Budget Bureau new—and reduced—spending plans for the coming fiscal year which begins July 1.

"He requested all department and agency heads to live within those figures received from the Budget Bureau unless (in their opinion) they thought those figures would impair the security and welfare of the United States," Hagerty told reporters, after receiving press inquiries about the memoranda.

The press secretary did not want to be drawn into a discussion of details, but he made it plain that the budget bureau revisions involved widespread reductions in original budget estimates.

Sonoma Accident Kills Novato Man

A 46-year-old Novato man was fatally injured last night in a single-vehicle accident in Sonoma County near the Marin line.

Herman A. Cotton, 7 Joan avenue, died of head injuries suffered when his southbound half-ton pickup truck, driven by his wife, Lydia G., 32, crossed the divider strip on Highway 101 and overturned. Cotton was thrown out and crushed by the truck. He was dead on arrival at Petaluma General Hospital.

Sonoma County Deputy Coroner Bob Pope said Mrs. Cotton, who was not injured, was too distraught to explain how she lost control of the truck. Cotton was in the crab business, and the couple was returning from a business trip.

Pope said he believes the Cottons have four children.

Four Hurt In Collision On Puerto Suello Hill

Accident-ridden Puerto Suello Hill was the scene yesterday evening of a two-car collision in which four persons were injured. Most seriously hurt was a 77-year-old Willits woman, a passenger.

A pick-up truck northbound on Highway 101 driven by Simpson Hattan, 52-year-old El Cerrito carpenter, crossed the center divider strip, according to California Highway Patrol Officer Jack Edwards. The truck was hit on its right side by a southbound car driven by John Harold Robinson, 54, a Willits lumber company owner, Officer Edwards said. The accident is still under investigation.

Robinson's mother, Mrs. Mildred Robinson, 77, was admitted to San Rafael General Hospital with severe injuries and was reported in good condition today. The accident happened at 6:50 p.m. yesterday.

Also reported in good condition today at the hospital was Robinson's wife, Alice, 56, who suffered abrasions of the lower abdomen.

The two drivers, Robinson and Hattan, received emergency treatment at the hospital and were released.

In another accident at 2 a.m. today, a San Francisco longshoremen's union clerk, Myron Franks, 56, drove into the side of a car making a left turn from Sir Francis Drake boulevard onto Bolinas road, according to Ross Police Chief Joseph Regoni. Franks was booked at the county jail on a charge of felony drunk driving and released on $1,000 bail at 10 a.m. He is to be arraigned Monday

2 Boys Quizzed In Shooting Of Ex-Marinite

Two San Mateo boys, aged 14 and 15, are being questioned in Truckee in connection with the Nov. 12 shooting of Duffy Lambert Midyett, 23-year-old former San Rafael resident.

Midyett, wounded by a bullet fired from a .22 caliber rifle, is recovering at Tahoe Forest Hospital. He is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Midyett of San Rafael and stepson of Donald E. Midyett, chief criminal investigator for the Marin district attorney's office.

The victim, employed on a Highway 40 construction project near Truckee, told authorities he was shot by one of two teen-aged boys he had ordered to keep away from a pile of lumber.

The two San Mateo boys were picked up in Fallon, Nev., this week on suspicion of nine automobile thefts and an armed robbery. Officers said the youths have admitted they were in Truckee with a .22 caliber rifle the day Midyett was wounded. The boys said they sold the rifle in Truckee.

Purchasing Policy Of County Hit

Marin County's purchasing procedure was attacked, defended and attacked again yesterday in an exchange between a Mill Valley auto dealer and a county official over county purchase of 14 new cars Tuesday.

Bob Dexter Dolman, general manager of Tamalpais Motor Sales, Mill Valley Ford dealership, complained because the board of supervisors made an "across-the-board" contract award for the cars to Ames Ford Sales of San Rafael.

He charged that Ames was low on a total bid for the 14 cars, but that his firm was lower than Ames on two of the vehicles. He said that when the situation was reversed last July, the county awarded contracts for individual cars. This time, it made a single award for all 14.

EXPRESSES DISGUST

Dolman expressed disgust with the procedure, and threatened to stop submitting bids on county car purchases.

Asst. County Administrator Alan Bruce, in the absence of Administrator Donald A. Jensen who recommended the procedure to the board, said there were two reasons for the decision:

1. In the July bidding for 19 cars, Tamalpais Motors was low bidder over-all by $560, but the county found it could save an additional $240 by splitting the awards and buying eight of the cars from Ames. This time, he said, Ames was low over-all by $1,521 and the extra saving through splitting the awards would have amounted to only $11.78—not enough, Bruce said, to cover the administrative costs of the extra paper work involved.

2. In July, Tamalpais Motors was awarded 11 cars and delivered only five.

UNABLE TO DELIVER

On this point, Bruce said Tamalpais Motors claimed it was unable to obtain the cars from the factory "but Ames had no trouble getting theirs. It was quite clear from the discussion at the (supervisors) meeting that they had overstated their trade-in allowance and were therefore backing out of the deal."

Bruce added that of the five

Corte Maderans Hit Sewer Cost Critic

Two of Corte Madera's public officials today disputed a charge of "cynical disregard for cost" on the part of the five directors of Corte Madera Sanitary District.

At stake is an $850,000 general obligation bond issue to be voted on Tuesday. A two-thirds majority is necessary for approval.

The Corte Madera Sanitary District plans to construct its own $505,000 treatment plant with a portion of the bond issue.

Yesterday Harry N. Jenks, consulting engineer for the Ross Valley Sanitary District, charged the Corte Madera district directors with a "cynical disregard for cost" in proposing to go it alone instead of signing an agreement to pay the Ross Valley district for additional capacity at Ross Valley's Greenbrae sewage treatment plant.

Rippe said that Jenks in 1955 estimated Corte Madera would have to contribute $100,000 to enlarge the Greenbrae treatment plant of Ross Valley Sanitary District. "If Jenks truly decries 'cynical disregard for cost' then why did he not comment on the discrepancy between his estimate of $100,000 and the present asking price of $365,000 for 1,175,000 gallons a day capacity at the Greenbrae plant?" asked Rippe.

Continuing his reply, Rippe said as to leaning over backward on the part of Ross Valley district directors, "I can state from knowledge gained while the leaning was going on, which Jenks cannot do, that every concession that was obtained came only after much heat and discussion.

"The proposed contract con-

McCarthy May Try Bay Authority Bill

A bill to consolidate operation of the Bay Area's bridges, airports and port facilities under a single authority may be introduced at the next session of the state Legislature, State Sen. John F. McCarthy of San Rafael said yesterday.

Addressing members of several San Francisco Chamber of Commerce committees, the Marin Republican said action by the Legislature would hinge on recommendations stemming from current independent studies of the proposal.

McCarthy said demands of the Bay Area's population growth make some sort of control agency necessary. He cited lack of local control in the field of bridges, with tolls ranging from 25 cents to 75 cents.

Independent authority of the Golden Gate Bridge "poses a threat to chances for another Marin to San Francisco crossing," McCarthy declared.

He also noted a lack of coordination in planning between the San Francisco and Oakland International Airports and between the ports of the Bay Area. If an over-all Golden Gate Authority were created to administer such operations, McCarthy said, the ultimate "ideal" would be a merger of that agency with the present Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

United Parcel Strike Ends

A four-day tieup of store parcel deliveries in Marin and other West Bay counties has ended with settlement of a drivers' strike against United Parcel Service in San Francisco.

The settlement was approved last night by a 147 to 16 vote of the membership of Teamsters' Local 278, San Francisco. Terms will not be announced until other locals, including Local 624 in San Rafael, have voted on them.

The strike halted United Parcel operations in Marin, although there was no strike by local employees. Stanley Walker, manager of the firm's San Rafael branch, said this week he was forced to lay off 21 drivers because all package sorting is done in San Francisco and there was no merchandise in San Rafael to be delivered.

Turriseburnea Club Benefit On Nov. 29

The Turriseburnea Club is about to reach its goal—its own "home," which will also be a residence club for women. To further this project, Mrs. Attilio Vanucci, club president, has announced a silent auction and tea on Saturday afternoon, Nov. 29 at 2 o'clock at the St. Francis Wood home of Mrs. Paul Spagnoli, 140 San Rafael way. The event will be open to the public.

Miss Marguerite E. Connolly, chairman, is assisted by Mrs. John McMahon. On the reservations committee are Mrs. Daniel O'Hara Jr. and Mrs. Jeanie Langley.

Recent additions to the club roster from Marin are: Mesdames Christian Matthew, Walter Garrett, Joseph Ingrassia and R. J. Poeschl.

Carol Diehl To Be Wed

At a tea yesterday afternoon at their home in Ross, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Charles E. Diehl announced the engagement of their daughter, Carol Ward Diehl to Dan Corley of Lebanon, Tenn.

The prospective benedict is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Corley of Lebanon.

Pouring were Mesdames Max Van Rossum Daum and James A. Sample.

Carol attended Katharine Branson School and Ecole La Harpe in Villars, Switzerland, and the University of Arizona.

Dan was graduated from the Lebanon High School and is in his senior year at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

The wedding will be an event of December.

Grand President YLI Will Visit Sausalito Group

Miss Carol Marshall, grand president of the Young Ladies' Institute, will pay her official visit to the Star of the Sea Institute in southern Marin on Tuesday, Nov. 25, in Perry's Hall on Caledonia street in Sausalito. Mrs. Leo Quadros will be chairman of the evening's entertainment and she will have as her assistants Mesdames Peter Fugina, William Strittmatter, George Hospodar, H. N. Hogarty and Miss Mary Folli.

Nomination and election of officers for the southern Marin Institute will be held at the regular business meeting on Dec. 9. At that meeting plans will be discussed for the annual Christmas Party which will be held on Dec. 23 this year. Miss Mary Folli is in charge of arrangements.

Star of the Sea Institute, YLI, was recent hostess to a combined workshop and council meeting including the Institutes in Marin and Sonoma Counties.

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Invitations Issued To Holiday Parties

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

After this weekend's Big Game parties are over we go right into the holiday season. With the way invitations are pouring in, it looks like a goodly number of popular Marinites will be dashing from one party to another on many a night.

MORE THAN 400 guests will attend the cocktail party to be given a week from tonight at the Meadow Club when the hosts will be the Otto Poehlmanns, Sam Gardiners and Harold Riede. This will be the second year the five have joined forces to entertain their friends during the holiday season.

AT THEIR HOME in San Rafael's Country Club Tract, the Walter Castros Jr. are entertaining 20 couples at a cocktail party a week from tonight.

TO CELEBRATE the birthday of Robert Barret Holland, he and his wife are entertaining at a dinner party for about 30 friends on Sunday, Nov. 30, at their home in Sausalito.

MANY GUESTS have been invited by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee to their cocktail party at their Country Club Tract home on Dec. 7.

A MID-WEEK event will be the dinner the Roger Darrows are giving at the Meadow Club on Dec. 3 and to which they've invited about 50 friends.

"YOU'ALL ARE INVITED" say the two cocktail olives on the invitation sent by the Don Flemings to about 120 friends for their cocktail party and dinner dance at the Meadow Club on Dec. 18. They chose a midweek date so that many of their friends who are duck hunters could attend. The weekends are dedicated for hunting during this time of year.

"CANDLELIGHT FANTASY" is the name two young couples have given to the party they are co-hosting at the Corte Madera Recreation Center. The couples, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Saltzman and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watt, who are now neighbors in Villa Real, gave holiday parties together for five years when they lived in San Francisco and are carrying on the tradition here. Their invitations to about 200 friends read: "Diane and Lorellen (Chick and Dick, too) are focusing the light directly on you. A night filled with gaiety, candlelight and wine, dining and dancing will add to your time. On Dec. 14, at the stroke of eight, the candles will be burning for you and your date."

A FORMAL DINNER will be the Lagunitas Club's holiday event. It will take place on Dec. 20 and now in the planning stage are cocktail parties to precede it.

AN OPEN HOUSE and cocktail party are being hosted by the Waddell Smiths at their home, Pony Express Retreat, in San Rafael on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 7. Waddell, whose major interest these days is the Pony Express Centennial of 1960 (he is president of the National Pony Express Centennial Association) returned on Wednesday from a flying trip. On Monday he visited for more than an hour with the former President, Harry S. Truman, in his offices in the Truman Library in Independence. Waddell, whose great grandfather, William Bradford Waddell, was one of the three founders of the Pony Express which ran from St. Joseph, Mo. to California, and Mr. Truman have many interests in common. Mr. Truman said his grandfather was an overland freighter and had made two trips from Missouri to Sacramento in 1852 and later had made many trips to Salt Lake City from Independence. The pioneer also owned a rancho near Sacramento. On Tuesday Waddell presided at a meeting of the centennial association at the Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs.

Yesterday he went to Beale Air Force Base near Marysville to meet an old friend, Gen. Thomas S. Power, who is commanding general of the Strategic Air Command, having succeeded Gen. Curtis LeMay who is now chief of staff of the Air Force. After lunch with Col. Creasman, the base commander at Beale, Waddell and General Power went pheasant hunting.

A TEA at the Century Club in San Francisco on Dec. 11 is being given by Mrs. Frank Stratford to honor Mrs. John Merryman, who has served as president of the Northgate Group of the Marin Art and Garden Center for two years. On Wednesday Mrs. Merryman entertained at a luncheon at the Alta Mira. Pink predominated in the decor and that was also the color of the champagne served before luncheon. Maryellen Merryman was assisted in decorating the pink cloth covered U-shaped table by Mrs. Curtis Knowles. Centerpiece was a large silver tray filled with Tokay grapes, pink Apollo carnations, eggplant and Osage oranges. This same arrangement was carried out with the large silver tureens at each end of the table. On the place cards for the 34 guests were pink matchboxes ornamented with pearls and glitter.

Mrs. Leavitt Olds was stunning in a gray flannel coat dress with white mink collar and a white mink hat. She arrived with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Newell Dodge of Atherton. Holly red were the suit and satin hat of Mrs. A. C. Daniels. Mrs. S. Nicholas Jacobs came over from San Francisco. Also noted in the group were Mesdames William H. Price, Rolla B. Hess, Russell Westover Jr. and Arthur Feidler.

Maryellen and John have already made plans for the New Year's. On Dec. 31, they're taking their daughter, Memo, and son, Spencer, to the Yosemite where they'll stay at the Ahwahnee.

HOLIDAYS IN HAWAII are being anticipated by the Wallace Scotts of Belvedere who are flying to the islands on Dec. 12. They will headquarter at the Royal Hawaiian for a month.

MODELING in the fashion show of the Sinsters' spectacular Jet Fete on Tuesday night in the new jet hanger at the San Francisco International Airport were two Marin Spinsters, Kathie Kirk and Dorothy Burnett, career girls who share a San Francisco apartment. The models alighted from the United Airlines five million dollar Douglas DC-8 jet airliner which had landed earlier in the day. Theme of the style show was "You're There Before You Know it." It was a feature of the dancing party and champagne supper, a benefit for Travelers' Aid. Katherine Dibblee, daughter of the Harrison Dibblees of Ross, was one of the new Spinsters welcomed at the fete.

FIVE MARIN COUNTY couples, Messrs. and Mesdames John Munson, Gregory Sheehan, James Peggs, George Ball and James McLaughlin entertained at a cocktail and dinner party on Tuesday night before the Cinema Fantasy of the Golden Gate Kindergarten Association Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Munson's father, George Bont, in San Francisco. Among the guests were Dr. and Mrs. James Dawson, Messrs. and Mesdames Ronald Hubbard, Henry Wilks, John D. Morse Jr., Neil Fulton, David Grennsfelder, Philip Crane, Jack Curley, James Greaver, William Curley, Warren Heiman, John Hale, Jack Loutzenheiser, Ed French, Leo Harrison; also Mrs. William Carewe and Mrs. Dean Solinsky whose husbands were out of town on business.

Italian designers plan a giant caravan across the United States. A group called the Italian Festival of Fashion will show 2,200 pounds of clothes and accessories, from high-fashion apparel to ready-to-wear, in six cities. Designers making the trip include Simonetta, Fabiani, Pucci and Emilio.

PLANNING A WEDDING is Betty Lou Miller, whose engagement to Allen Bruce Simontacchi has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Joseph Miller of Dayton, Ohio. The young man is the son of Mrs. Fredia Stumm and Bruno Simontacchi of San Rafael. The wedding will take place in Dayton on Dec. 27.

Space Talks With Russ Given Up

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The United States and its supporters abandoned attempts at outer space negotiations with the Russians and pushed a take-it-or-leave-it proposal today.

The 20 associated nations decided to act on their own after talks broke down between the United States and Russia over makeup of a committee to make recommendations for U.N. supervision of peaceful exploration of outer space.

The group, which already had put a space resolution before the U.N. General Assembly's Political Committee, decided to submit a new draft without further talks with the Soviets. The revised draft was handed in last night.

The Western plan calls for an 18-nation study group that would lay the groundwork for a permanent U.N. space committee.

The list is composed of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union as major powers; Belgium, Italy and Sweden from Western Europe; Czechoslovakia and Poland from the Communist bloc; India, Iran, Japan and the United Arab Republic from the Asian-African bloc; Argentina, Brizil and Mexico from the Latin-American group; Australia and Canada representing nations with special interest in outer space.

The East-West negotiations collapsed yesterday after Soviet Dep. Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin stood fast by his demands for three Soviet satellites on the smaller slate and attempted to dictate who the Western members would be. His list of 11, giving Russia a probable six votes, included the same four major powers, India, the U.A.R., Sweden, Argentina, Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia.

Zorin was reported to have told Lodge his government would agree to naming Canada and two Latin-American countries, provided they were Argentina and Mexico.

Grieving Widow Gives Power A Farewell Kiss

There were 125 other mourners in the tiny Chapel of the Psalms yesterday. Among them Gregory Peck, James Stewart, Loretta Young, Yul Brynner and Henry Fonda.

The other mourners marched out.

As he did so, Mrs. Power gave Ty a farewell kiss. Then she walked to a waiting limousine.

She still was composed as she walked from the limousine to her husband's grave. There, the chaplain delivered the brief committal service for the actor whose heart attack death a week ago today in Madrid stunned movie fans everywhere.

The crowd, in its hurry, gave a circus—or Hollywood Premiere — touch that marred the dignity of the funeral.

Linda Christian, Power's second wife, and their two children did not attend the rites, by express request of the widow.

Rancher Fined $250 For Drunken Driving

Judge Richard M. Sims sentenced Warrington Dorst, 55, who was arrested at Francisco boulevard and Irwin street in San Rafael on Nov. 12. Dorst was also put on 90 days' probation.

Laborer Jailed In Brawl With Wife

A Marin City laborer, jailed yesterday for allegedly hitting his wife, told sheriff's deputies he did it in self defense against a knife.

Willie White, 35, of House 721 was taken to Marin General Hospital for treatment of a three-inch cut on his left arm. Then he was booked in jail on a citizen's arrest by Lee Ella Davis, 38, who lived with him as his wife.

She told investigators she had caught White with another woman and accosted him. She complained he struck her. White declared she attacked with a knife and a hammer, and he was forced to defend himself.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

TV Talks Recess

NEW YORK (AP) — Formal negotiations for a new contract for announcers and performers on the major television-radio networks are off until next week.

However, top level representatives of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists and the networks were reported to be meeting informally.

TWA Grounded

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Trans World Airlines planes were grounded all over the world today by a strike of 6,700 machinists who refused a last-ditch settlement offer by the company. Flights that were in the air yesterday were permitted to go on to their final destination, but all schedules originating after the strike deadline yesterday morning were canceled.

Lopez Concedes

Caril May Appeal

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Attorneys for Caril Ann Fugate, 15, convicted of murder, prepared today to appeal her case to the state Supreme Court if necessary. A jury yesterday found the slim brunette guilty of first-degree murder for aiding and abetting mass killer Charles Starkweather in one of his 11 admitted slayings. A life sentence was prescribed.

Kidnaper Appeals

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Sex-kidnaper Edward S. Wein has asked the California Supreme Court to stay his execution, scheduled for Dec. 5 at San Quentin Prison. The state and U.S. Supreme Courts previously have denied appeals by Wein, convicted in Los Angeles of a series of rape attacks.

France To Vote

PARIS (UPI)—French political experts feared today that confusion and apathy among voters on the eve of tomorrow's first Fifth Republic elections could result in a resurgence of the Communist Party. Previous election predictions had forecast a devastating defeat for the Reds at the polls tomorrow. However, reports from election districts all over the country indicating that only 60 per cent of the voters may cast their ballots raised a new cry of alarm.

Convicts Cut Heels

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three Alcatraz convicts who cut their Achilles tendons with razor blades will have about three weeks immobilized in casts to think it over.

Warden Paul Madigan said it would take that long for the tendons to knit.

He indicated their lack of privileges while in segregated cells—in the dismal D-block—probably was behind the gesture yesterday by two bank robbers and one car thief. Madigan refused to identify them.

Parks On Schedule

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's five-year-plan for state parks is on schedule at the half-way mark, it was reported today by Newton B. Drury, chief of the Division of Beaches and Parks.

He said the state now has 150 parks, beaches and historic monuments, with a total of 615,000 acres and a book value of 73 million dollars.

U.C. Budget Set

BERKELEY (AP)—University of California regents have approved a $140,570,429 operating budget for all campuses for the next fiscal year. This is an increase of $13,849,055 or 10.8 per cent over the current year's budget.

Man's Kisses Bring Charge Of Assault

The girl, Jean Hedwig Thorman, 17, of 1117 Fourth street, Novato, told officers she took the bus about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday from San Rafael, where she is an office worker.

She said Walters sat down next to her and offered her candy, which she refused. Then, during the ride to Novato, he grabbed her by the arm and kissed her on the mouth, neck and cheek, she said.

When she got off at Novato, she said, he followed her out. An unidentified man at Novato saw she was in trouble and led her across the street to where her fiance, John Antonio Jr. was waiting in a car.

Antonio later called the sheriff's office.

Deputies arrested Walters at the golf club and booked him for disturbing the peace, assault and battery and drunkenness. He was freed Thursday on $350 bail.

Burglars Break Into Rug Firm

Burglars broke into the office of the Banfield Rug Co. at 111 Magnolia avenue, Larkspur, some time Thursday night, Police Chief Howard Clark reported.

Chief Clark said a rear door was found open by Mrs. Sue Banfield, co-owner, when she arrived for work yesterday. There was no sign of forcible entry, the chief said. A small cash box was pried open. Mrs. Banfield said there had been no money in the box, however. Nothing else was missing.

Two Events Easing Traffic Situation In San Rafael

Two things have happened in recent days to improve the traffic situation in San Rafael.

First the first city parking lot downtown opened to the public with suitable ceremony. This is only a start. Opened was the smallest of the three lots which are scheduled to be in operation before too long.

But it was a start.

We have some reservations as to the lots and their adequacy, but we can't help congratulating the city council on finally getting at least one of the lots open. We hope the other two are open before Christmas—and this time, we mean Christmas 1958, not 1959.

The other great development was the switch of some streets to parallel parking. If you haven't driven down B street, for example, you won't realize what it has meant. Instead of a clogged, impossible traffic situation, there is a smooth, easy flow of traffic.

True, there are less parking spaces than before, but the traffic movement more than makes up for the loss. And—hopefully — we're going to have the parking in those new lots.

So, Christmas shoppers, things are going to be easier for you in San Rafael this year than previously.

Making Marin Safer Place

Marin is constantly acquiring more traffic lights. As more and more of these traffic pauses are installed, our attention is arrested by one of the facts of driving life.

Have you ever noticed how often the fellow who speeds past you and cuts madly from lane to lane is waiting for you at the next stoplight? For all his reckless capers and frenzied speed, he hasn't gained an inch.

This points up a driving axiom—namely, that the courteous driver is the intelligent driver. Safety, not speed alone is his objective. But in the long run he usually gets where he's going just as fast. And he is not the menace who makes a racetrack of our roads.

Much of this reckless foolishness might be eliminated if these frenzied speedsters would only look around when they pause at the next spotlight. There they would see all those whose lives they risked at peril to their own. If they would reflect for a moment, Marin would be a safer place in which to drive.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

WISDOM CANNOT BE BOUGHT

A 26-year-old graduate of an Eastern university recently brought suit against the institution. He claimed that the college detained him falsely by professing to teach wisdom.

A superior court judge dismissed the young man's plea on the grounds that "wisdom cannot be taught."

No one receives wisdom on a silver spoon. It is acquired only through personal inconvenience and hardship. An old Welsh proverb puts it very well: "All wisdom must be paid for with pain."

All tha tthe home, church or school can do is to present the principles of true wisdom. It is up to each individual to apply them to his own life and the world in which he lives. He will grow in wisdom even when he gives it away.

Be more than humanly wise. By meditation, prayer and effort, cultivate divine wisdom and thus add meaning and purpose to daily living. Keep ever aware that this life is nothing more than a stepping stone to the everlasting happiness of the next.

"If any of you want wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth to all men abundantly." (James 1:5)

Deepen in me, O Holy Spirit, a reverence for divine wisdom.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

Tam Trying Again For Tax Boost; 2/3rds Rule For Bonds Lowered?

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Tamalpais school district trustees have decided to take a third try at raising their district tax rate from $1.65 to $1.90. On the second try, Nov. 4, they failed to make the grade by less than 1,500 votes when the absentee votes were counted this week. This time, they've edcided to hold a special election so that no other issues can cloud up the matter.

There are those who say that the great concentration of "Vote No" propaganda put out by opponents of Propositions 16, 17 and 18 in the last election, spilled over into all other issues; that the "Vote No" momentum for these three initiatives carried a number of issues down with them.

This also was true of the county hospital bonds, although they lost by a greater margin, although getting far more favorable votes. The reason was the bonds needed a two thirds vote.

One of the observations of the political analysts after the election was that if a bond issue only required 60 per cent of the vote instead of 66⅔ per cent, two thirds of the bonds issues that were defeated in the state would have passed.

That was true for the hospital bonds. They got more than 60 per cent. But, it wasn't true of the other two bond issues on the Marin ballot. The county farm and juvenile hall bonds got only slightly over a majority favoring them and the airport bonds were soundly trounced by a two to one No vote.

Don't be surprised, however, if legislation is proposed in January reducing the needed vote for bond passage to 60 per cent.

Dorothy Nielsen, president of the Republican Women of Marin, Federated, was in our office the other day and sketched out the accompanying little seal and motto for the GOP in the next two years. (See cut.)

(Incidentally, we had to send this sketch to our engraving department to be made into a cut. The engaver, Dean Ketchum, is a strong Democrat. He's also a ham radio operator. His call letters are W6END.)

INFORMATION we thought you'd like to know:

Did you know that the phrase for something that's all right—OK—has a political background?

Our spy in charge of obscure facts tells us that OK came from the O.K. Club, which was a Democratic organization supporting President Van Buren for re-election in 1840. The initials stand for Old Kinderhook, N.Y., Van Buren's birthplace. Everybody who voted for him was O.K.

OK?

WONDER WHAT HAPPENED to Bill Bagley's plan to start a new crusade for a county charter? He hasn't shown up at a supervisors meeting yet to propose one, as he declared he would.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Tam Tax Defeat Had Bad Effect

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

You will find enclosed a newspaper article from the latest issue of Redwood H.S.'s newspaper. Knowing that the I-J supported the Tam District's tax raise, I thought you would be interested in this article. A greater per cent of the voters in the Tam district were not interested in supporting this issue, but they might be interested to see what effect their rejection is going to have.

It is indeed a sad day when citizens reject and deny the young people, failing to give them needed opportunities. They may now lament in silence, for they have given up their right to speak out against the activities of our youth. When they read about young people who have gone temporarily astray, they can think how it might have been avoided had an instructor not had an over-crowded class room, and so forth.

People in the Tam district should be proud of their schools' outstanding accomplishments. They can point with pride to the number of talented and successful students. This could very well be a thing of the past, for the future of the Tam district's schools might be one of heading down hill—thanks to our unthinking, selfish voters.

This may be a cry in the dark, but one cannot stand aside and let a thing of this sort go by the wayside unnoticed. Those who voted against this issue need to be brought out of their complacency and made to realize they have lowered or are about to lower our educational system to sub-standard. If that is what they want, the thinking people of Marin County would like to invite them to take up residence in another county.

DON G. PORTER
Mill Valley

(NOTE: The article to which Reader Porter referred dealt with rejection by new teachers of proposed salaries and inaibility of the district to hire 15 additional teachers. Almost as Reader Porter was writing the district trustees decided to try again Feb. 17 for the tax increase.)

What Benefit Will California Gain By Knight's Visit To Hawaii?

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — There's considerable question as to the benefits California's taxpayers will reap through the attendance of Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and the state's First Lady at the Western Governors Conference in Honolulu.

Governor Knight, Mrs. Knight, and his two top secretarial aides, Paul Mason and Howard Schmidt, left San Francisco by plane Thursday, arriving in Honolulu some six hours later. While the conference is scheduled from Sunday through Wednesday, the governor's party is making a more extended stay, remaining on the island to next Friday.

THE FACT that Knight will be leaving official office within about a month of his return from the trip raises some question as to what good he can do for the state of California by attending the session.

But a look at the cast of characters for the conference makes one wonder if the whole session won't be merely a pass-around of the crying towel. Of the 11 governors attending, six were defeated at the recent elections and will not be taking much information back to their home states from the conference.

The five governors in attendance who won re-election, or did not have to stand this year, thus may feel somewhat ill at ease in company with their departing colleagues.

IF ALL THE OTHER governors were attending, there is perhaps some excuse provided for Knight, as California is not a state not to keep up its front, even if the cost of an Hawaiian junket is considerable and even if the official representative of the state is a short-timer in office.

It's unfortunate some provision wasn't made to call in the governors-elect of the six states where the administration will change. Under this proposal, if there is any benefit to be gained from the conference, the states would gain it during the coming four years.

The Hawaiian sojourn no doubt will provide a much needed vacation for the six defeated governors — at the taxpayers' expense.

10 YEARS AGO

Winners of the "I Speak for Democracy" contests in Marin County high schools were announced by George Duncan, chairman of the Marin Junior Chamber of Commerce. They were Paula Freitas of Dominican Convent; Clyde Bradley of San Rafael High; Barnes Riznik of Tamalpais High, and Ferdinand Terza of Tomales High.

Five youths were inducted into the Army in the first Marin call under the new 1948 draft law. They were Robert Henry Mueller, 25, Corte Madera; Louis M. Basso, 24, Novato; Chester Gifford Mitchell, 24, Sausalito; Lee Charles Jett, 23, San Rafael, and Juneau Grenfell Bell, 22, San Anselmo.

A sticky mement in international relations popped up when the English ambassador was escorted through some secret Navy installations in Annapolis. He was out alone for a pre-breakfast stroll one crisp morning when he was suddenly halted by a midshipman on sentry duty.

"Restricted area, sir. You'll have to turn back," said the sentry. "But I'm the British Ambassador," spluttered the visitor. "They've let me see everything up to now. Just what's going on here?"

"Sir." snapped the middy, "it's secret practice for the Army football game."

A Stanford-Cal Story Which Has Nothing At All To Do With Big Game

No matter who wins or loses, Big Game rivalry should never get you in the position Mrs. Beth Burchard of Belvedere found herself a few years ago.

In Germany all alone, she had to undergo an operation. As she lay on the table, thousands of miles from home and friendless, the doctor looked over her personal history. Suddenly he picked up a 16-inch butcher knife and smiled, "Did you say you're from Stanford?" She was. "Well, I'm from Cal," the medic explained quietly as he stalked up to the table fingering the razor sharp blade.

Beth came out in one piece. Cal must have turned out at least one fairly good doctor.

ELECTION IS just past, but they're already looking ahead for who's going to be running for what in the next couple of years.

Prime topic now seems to be who's going to run for the state Assembly post if and when Richard McCollister retires. His post comes up for election every two years and the guessing is that this term will be his last.

Youthful attorney Bill Bagley is being urged to try for the post. When asked about it, he gives out with his disarming smile which indicates he's interested, but how much, we don't know. Then there's Herbert K. Walton Jr. also mentioned. So is Bob Huber of Mill Valley.

Some speculators are hinting that Bill Weissich would like to swap the title of "district attorney" for "assemblyman." There is some indication Weissich won't run for D.A. in 1962. Whether he'll make a political move two years before his present term runs out is the question.

Among Democrats, the name of Supervisor Vera Schultz of Mill Valley has come up as possible state Assemblyman. She ran against McCollister once before—and lost. Gordon Strawbridge is also mentioned.

AS LONG AS we're looking ahead, might as well discuss the judgeship too. There's some talk that a third municipal court judge will be needed for growing Marin in the next few years.

With a Democratic governor holding the power to appoint, prominent names mentioned for judgeship include attorney Sam Gardiner, the hard-working party leader. Public Defender Leonard Thomas' name has also cropped up.

When Thomas was being mentioned as possible opponent to District Attorney Weissich in the June primaries, his backers probably were grooming him for a possible judge's post. But Thomas said he was satisfied with the public defender's post. As public defender, he is well known in the state and could be a strong contender.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Roger Garety has been hinted for a judge's post on the strength of his personal acquaintance with the new governor. Garety is also in line for the D.A.'s post if Weissich moves out.

You'd think the car owner would get sore. But, no. He cheerfully picks up the mail and waves a "thank you" to the caretaker for a free car wash.

IF A FIRE ever breaks out in the military academy at San Rafael, the truck and ladder may show up a few minutes late. Reason: Too many false alarms; almost a weekly occurance these days, according to police. It works like this:

The buildings have an automatic alarm, with gadgets located in rooms and hallways that are sensitive to heat. So the ingenious boys reach up to the ceiling and flick a lighter under the gadget. Works like a charm. Firemen react quickly, risking life and limb and wear and tear to reach the scene. If it happens often enough, you can't blame the firemen for waiting to see flames shoot up before reacting, not that they do so now.

Soviet, Like American Legion, Wants To Wreck UNESCO

The Communists are out to wreck UNESCO on the ground that it is anti-Communist and anti-Soviet.

The evidence which was pieced together to suggest that UNESCO (the United Nations' Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization) was pro-Communist never did stand up against a factual test and it has survived to continue to do good work.

It will undoubtedly survive the new attack from the opposite direction—from the Soviet delegation to UNESCO's tenth general conference now in session in Paris.

THE CHARGES which the Soviets are showering down on UNESCO in Paris—that it is a "tool of the West," that it "helps war-mongers" and that it engages in "anti-Soviet propaganda," are also without proof. In fact, the Soviets make no pretense of proving their charges; they just raise their voice and shout them.

It is for this reason that most friends of UNESCO feel that Moscow's real purpose is to try to make it impossible for it to function at all. Having failed to deter UNESCO by boycotting it for years, the Soviets are seeking to wreck it by systematic obstruction from within.

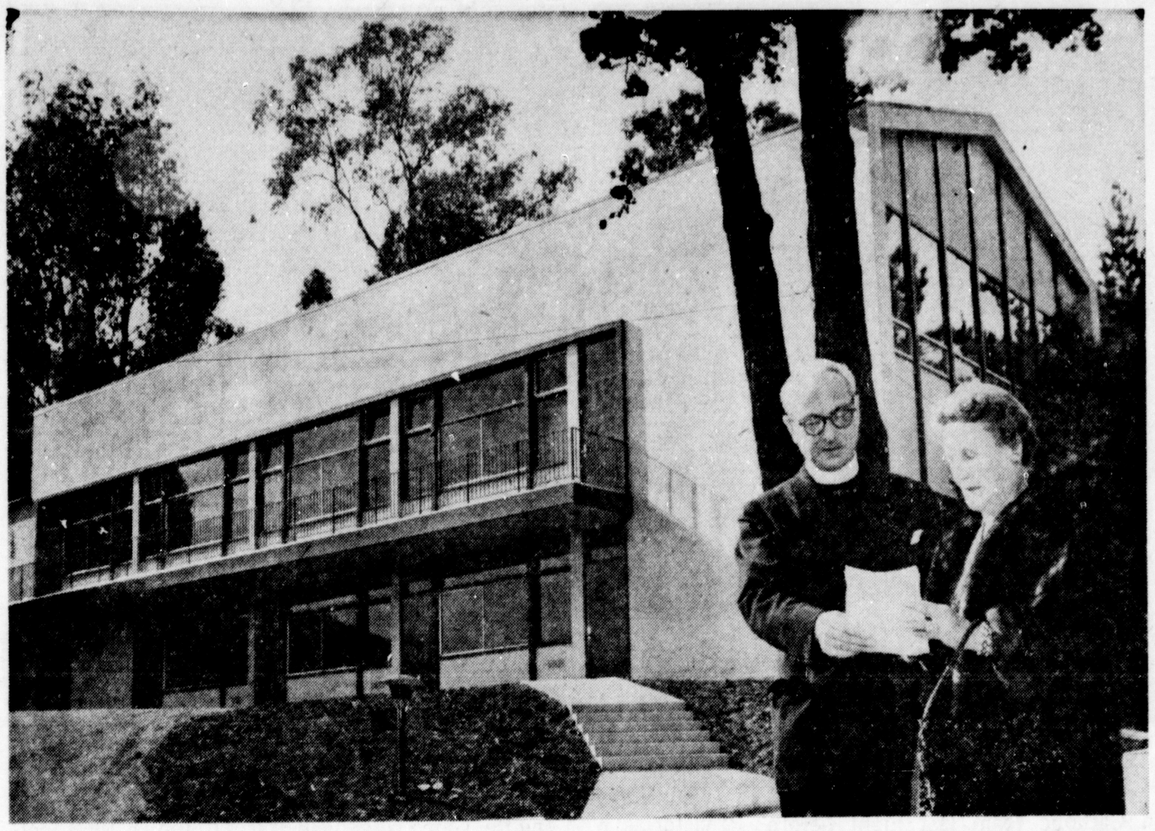
WHEN UNESCO was founded 13 years ago, the Soviet Union refused to become a member in the evident hope that the non-Communist countries would not be able to work together effectively to exchange scientific and cultural knowledge and help each other in their common problem. The Soviets were so annoyed at the popularity of the free libraries which UNESCO brought into being that they branded them with the familiar epithet, "instruments of American imperialism."

This tactic didn't work and in April, 1954, former Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov registered Soviet membership and on the same day the Soviet, Polish, Czech and Hungarian delegates filed into their first conference meeting and made its priority item of business getting Red China, though not a member of the U. N., into UNESCO. This proposal has been decisively defeated every time Moscow has brought it up, as it was in Paris again last week.

The Soviets are now stepping up their hostility to UNESCO and in the current Paris sessions are seeking by every parliamentary maneuver to block the orderly transaction of business.

ON THE EVE of the Paris meeting the chairman of the UNESCO National Commission in the U. S. S. R. charged that it was making "persistent efforts" to serve "the wishes of the U. S. Congress as a tool in the struggle against Communist ideology."

If a freer exchange of people and ideas across national frontiers is "against Communist ideology," then it can be argued that UNESCO rests on a concept which the Soviets reject. This no doubt explains why Moscow so long boycotted UNESCO and now is seeking to hamper its work.



NAMED FOR BENEFACTRESS—Rev. E. J. Mohr, rector, and Mrs. Fred E. Palmer, member of the vestry, stand before St. Stephen's new parish house, Whitaker Hall. The hall is named after the late Mrs. Nettie Mae Whitaker, whose $125,000 bequest has benefitted the Episcopal parish's building program. The hall will be dedicated at a special service at 10 a.m. Thanksgiving Day. (Independent-Journal photo)

Rites To Dedicate New Parish House

Whitaker Hall, the recently completed parish house of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere, will be dedicated at a special service at 10 o'clock Thanksgiving morning, announced Rev. E. J. Mohr, rector of the church.

With the opening of Whitaker Hall, St. Stephen's will complete a building program adopted in 1953 for a $275,000 church and parish house.

The parish house is named after the late Mrs. Nettie Mae Whitaker, whose $125,000 bequest, together with donations from parishioners, enabled the parish to proceed with its building plans sooner than had been expected originally.

Designed by Architect Ernest Whinkler, the parish hall has a large assembly room, offices, kitchen, eight Sunday School rooms, and storage rooms.

It was constructed by the William Horstmeyer Co. of San Francisco. Landscaping was designed by Rudolph Watson Co. of Redwood City.

Lutherans To Install Pastor

Rev. Elmer F. Muhly will be installed as pastor of the Lutheran Church of the Resurrection in Terra Linda next Wednesday at a special 7:30 p. m. installation-Thanksgiving service.

Speaker will be Rev. Arthur C. Nitz of St. Paulus Church, San Francisco, president of the California - Nevada District of the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod.

Neighboring pastors have been invited to participate in the installation.

A native of Cornelius, Ore., Rev. Muhly received his ministerial training at Concordis College in Portland, Concordia College in Oakland and Concordia Theological Seminary in St. Louis, Mo.

He has served parishes in Grand Coulee, Aberdeen and Klickitat, Wash., and Caldwell, Ida. He and his wife have three children, Karen, a student at San Francisco State College, Douglas and Donald.

Church Schedules Evening Of Music

Novato's Good Shepherd Lutheran Church will present an evening of music tomorrow at 7 p. m.

Featured on the program will be the senior choir, children's choir, a string trio led by Asbjorn Aass, a dramtic reading by Mrs. A .E. Syverud and a vocal solo by Mrs. Glen Tovani.

The program will be preceded by a family night fellowship at 5:30 p. m. and will include a potluck supper. Coffee will be provided by the hostesses.

Guest speaker at the church's regular worship service tomorrow will be Rev. A. E. Syverud, executive director of the Lutheran Welfare Service of Northern California.

THANKSGIVING APPEAL

Churches In Drive To Aid World's Needy

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Protestants, Catholics and Jews will join next week in an attempt to lift America's Thanksgiving celebration out of its turkey-and-football rut.

Church and synagogue services throughout the country will stress three facts about the holiday which the Puritans instituted:

1. Its historic purpose is religious — to express gratitude to God for the blessings bestowed upon this nation.

2. A spirit of thankfulness is particularly appropriate now, because America has become an oasis of abundance in a worldwide desert of want.

3. The most fitting way to give thanks is by sharing this abundance with the ragged, hungry and homeless millions of other lands.

Each of the three faiths will suggest a specific way in which the sharing can be done.

Protestant churches will collect special offerings for the "share our surplus" program of Church World Service, the overseas relief agency of the National Council of Churches.

Catholics are asked to contribute 10 million pounds of "good used clothing" through their churches. It will be shipped overseas by Catholic Relief Services, a branch of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

The United Jewish Appeal, sponsored by the Synagogue Council of America, will seek funds for refugees and other impoverished groups abroad.

Religious agencies are the principal channels by which Americans send "person to person" aid abroad. This year they will handle more than 80 per cent of all voluntary U.S. overseas relief.

The Protestant "Share Our Surplus" program is a good example of the charity bargains offered by all of the major religious agencies.

One dollar contributed to "SOS" will send 300 pounds of food abroad. Ten dollars will provide daily bread for 600 undernourished children for more than two weeks.

The reason a dollar goes so far is that the food is provided free by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, out of its bulging warehouses of surplus farm commodities. The government also pays the cost of ocean freight, so that private contributions are needed only for the costs of overseas distribution.

So far, Americans have not gone overboard in taking advantage of this bargain. Last year's "Share Our Surplus" offering totaled only one million dollars, which figures out to about two-and-one-half cents a person for the total membership of the 35 participating denominations.

Church To Mark 4th Anniversary

The First Baptist Church of Corte Madera will observe its fourth anniversary tomorrow with an anniversary and Thanksgiving dinner at 5 p. m. in the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

Rev. Magnus G. Berglund, pastor of Temple Baptist Church of San Francisco, will be the speaker. His subject will be "Building with God." Reginold Chisholm will be soloist.

Mrs. Warren Hoomes is in charge of the dinner. Mrs. Floyd Gaither will prepare the decorations. Mrs. Gene Nolin and Mrs. Muncie Bonner are in charge of table arrangements.

Nazarenes In Brazil

Seminary Faculty

SASKATOON, Sask. (AP)—The faculty of the new Luther Theological Seminary here is a small ecumenical movement in itself. The seven members represent four Lutheran church bodies—the Evangelical Lutheran Church, the Augustana Luthern Church, the American Lutheran Church and the United Lutheran Church in America.

Photos Of Novato Win Over Marin

HAPPY DAYS — Marin Catholic cheerleaders dance happily as their Wildcat footballers battled Novato on even terms for most of last night's game. However, the highly-favored Hornets caught fire late in the game to win going away, and the young ladies above had little to cheer about.

ON TO VICTORY—Novato's cheer leaders kneel in end zone, urging the Hornets to score. They did, and often, too, with a 47-20 victory over a spunky Marin Catholic team last night before approximately 3,500 fans at Kentfield. It was Novato's seventh victory against only one loss; Marin's fourth loss against as many victories, with one tie. Game concluded Marin County's 1958 football season. (Jim Kean photos)

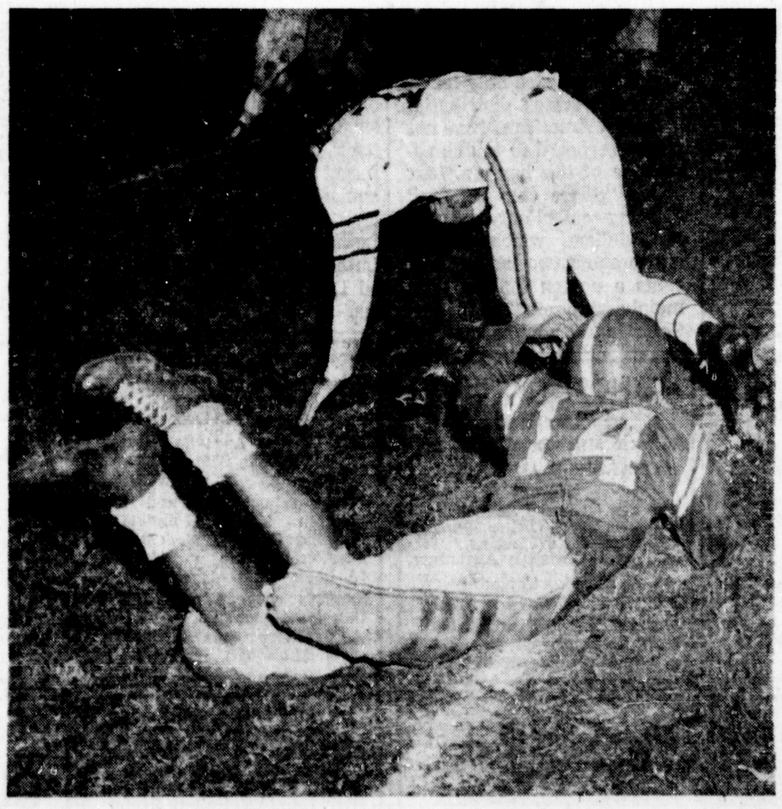
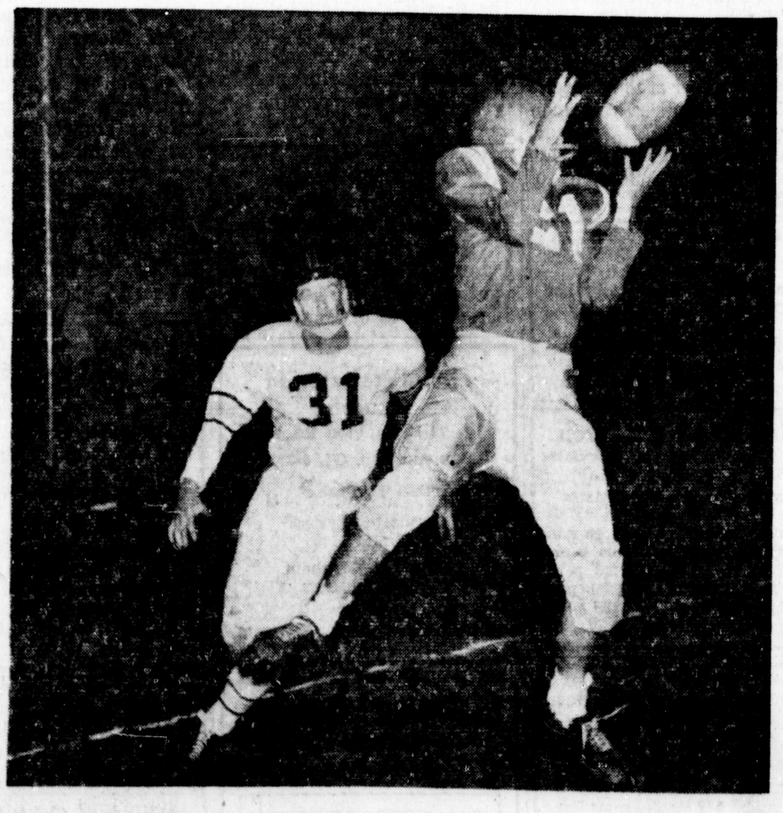
DOWN YOU GO, BOY—Two Novato tacklers gang up on Marin Catholic end Frank Healy, after third quarter pass completion in last night's battle at Kentfield. Marin passing attack kept the underdog Wildcats on even terms with the Hornets for more than two quarters, but Novato pulled away from a slim 22-20 third period edge to a convincing 47-20 victory.

COMPLETION—Novato end Chuck Coleman gets set to pull in a pass from Jack Sparrow for second quarter gain, as Marin's Blake Rodgers rushes in to make the tackle.



BY THE SHOESTRING—Marin halfback, Blake Rodgers (14), trips up Novato's Chuck Coleman after he caught pass in second period.



BIG GAINER—Doug Wilson of Marin catches pass from John Boccabella for 25-yard gain deep in Novato territory in third period. Completion set up Marin's third touchdown, as the Wildcats scored on next play. No. 31, covering play, is Morrie Moberg.

Novato Tops Marin In '58 Finale

By JOHN KLEMPNER

In a wide open contest featuring Marin County's two top quarterbacks, Novato and Jack Sparrow whipped Marin Catholic and John Boccabella, 47-20 at Kentfield last night.

The visiting Hornets surged from a scant 22-20 margin midway through the third period to score four more times while bottling up the Wildcat offense. Novato moved through the air with the greatest of ease in the first half as Sparrow lofted three touchdown aerials which, with a safety, gave the Hornets a 22-14 intermission edge.

It would be extremely difficult to say which of the two big senior quarterbacks is better. Both passed often and connected on about half their attempts. Sparrow had a much more experienced team in front of him and thus was afforded better protection for his long passes, while Boccabella got off a lot of look in bullet passes. Each had three passes intercepted.

FAST START

Marin got off to a fast start when Terry Onorato alertly picked up a fumble on the Novato 16 and raced into the end zone with less than a minute gone on the clock. But the Hornets countered right away as Sparrow hit Chuck Coleman for 20 yards and then Pete Ferrarese for 55 and the tying score.

Marin again forged into the lead as Boccabella passed to Doug Wilson for 34 yards to the 29, and covered the remaining distance with an aerial to Blake Rodgers.

With the first quarter barely over, the visitors evened things up, when, starting on their own 30, Sparrow connected for three in a row to Jay Johnson, Coleman, and finally Ferrarese again for 20 yards, and the score was knotted at 14-14.

The Wildcats booted the first punt of the game late in the first quarter, and Johnson ran it back to his own 46. Sparrow skirted end for 16 yards to the 40, and Johnson brought the ball to the 28, setting up Sparrow's third touchdown pass—this one to Coleman on the first play of the second quarter.

GREAT INTERCEPTION

Following a short Marin punt, Novato threatened again as Sparrow hit Coleman with a 21-yarder on the 30 and Johnson on the 14. But Marin's Blake Rodgers made a great diving interception on the five and the touchdown threat was over. But the Hornets did salvage a safety, as Jud Bird boomed through to hit Onorato in the end zone, and the score read Novato 22, Marin 14.

As the half drew to a close, Sparrow passed for 36 yards to Coleman, but Malcolm McLorg intercepted his next try on the 15 to end that threat. Bird picked off Boccabella's first effort, though, and things were back where they started. But McLorg duplicated his feat, getting Sparrow's fourth down try in the end zone for a touchback as the half ended.

It was all Boccabella as the second half opened. Starting on his own 35, he hit Frank Healy for 21 yards, Onorato for 16, Doug Wilson for 15, and ran the remaining 13 himself to bring the Wildcats within two points with seven minutes to go in the third quarter.

MARIN'S UNDOING

A blocked punt proved Marin's undoing, as Novato recovered on the 34. Jay Johnson put on a brilliant broken field running display to move the pigskin to the 5, and scored on the next play.

The Wildcats seemed to be on the move again as Boccabella completed three in a row, but Coleman intercepted on the midfield stripe and ran to the 35 for Novato. Morris Moberg carried for 18 yards to the 17 as the third quarter ended with the Hornets leading 28-20.

Johnson scored in two carries to open the final stanza. Sparrow plucked down a Boccabella pass as soon as the Wildcats got the ball, and on the next play pitched out to Dick Olrich who ran 36 yards for the sixth Novato touchdown.

Marin Catholic lost the ball on downs on its own 35 following the kickoff and, with Jud Bird calling the plays, the Hornets moved for their final score of the night as Dick Rush plunged from the two.

GOOD BALANCE

Figuring the quarterbacks as a virtual toss-up, the big difference in the two clubs was the 10 men "up front." Novato's hard-running backs gave a good balance to Sparrow's passing, while Boccabella had to bear the brunt of both passing and rushing chores.

Some 2,000 Novato rooters turned out to see the Hornets win their seventh game in eight outings. The lone defeat was at the hands of undefeated Analy. Some 1,500 Wildcat fans saw Mike Davlin's boys go down to their fourth defeat against four wins and a tie. This wound up the 1958 Marin County football schedule.

Some 62 games played this season on the Kentfield turf left the playing area in rather sorry shape, but numerous improvements, including a new lighting system, new public address system, and new grass are promised for next year.

Marin	14	0	6	0	—20
Novato	14	8	6	19	—47

Marin scoring: TDs—Terry Onorato, 16 yards with recovered fumble; Blake Rodgers, 29-yard pass from John Boccabella; Boccabella, 3-yard run. PATs—Gary Bartolotti, run; Frank Healy, pass from Boccabella.

Novato scoring: TDs—Pete Ferrarese (2), passes of 55 and 20 yards from Jack Sparrow; Jay Johnson (2), runs of 12 and 5 yards; Chuck Coleman, 28-yard pass from Sparrow; Dick Olrich, 36-yard run; Dick Rush, 2-yard run. Safety: Jud Bird tackled Terry Onorato in end zone. PATs—Jack Sparrow, 3 runs.

Colts Favored Over Rams In Top Pro Game

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Baltimore Colts and Los Angeles Rams match the National Football League's most explosive attacks tomorrow in a game which may virtually end the Western Division race.

Baltimore (7-1) leads the runnerup Rams and Chicago Bears (each 5-3) by two games. The Colts can clinch a tie for their first division title by winning, providing the Detroit Lions give them a big assist by whipping the Bears. If the Colts and Lions win, Baltimore will be three games in front with only three to play.

Baltimore has a string of six home victories and is a six-point choice to make it seven before a sellout crowd of more than 57,000. The Lions (3-4-1), defending league and Western Division champions, are rolling now after a poor start and are 3½ point choices to beat the Bears at Detroit before more than 50,000.

BROWNS FAVORED

The Cleveland Browns (6-2), a game ahead of the runnerup New York Giants (5-3) in the eastern race, are 12-point choices for their home game with the Philadelphia Eagles (2-5-1). New York will entertain the Washington Redskins (3-5) and is favored by six points. Each of these games figures to draw 50,000 fans.

The Pittsburgh Steelers (4-4), a game behind New York, are favored by 2½ against the Cardinals (2-5-1) at Chicago. The San Francisco 49ers (3-5) are favored over the Green Bay Packers (1-6-1) by one point at Milwaukee.

Baltimore's well-balanced squad leads the league in scoring with 272 points and has allowed the fewest, 118. The Colts are first in total yardage with 3,107. The Rams, second in scoring with 253 points, are second in yards gained with 3,045.

UNITAS READY

John Unitas, Baltimore's No. 1 quarterback, has been sidelined three weeks with cracked ribs, but is ready to help George Shaw at that post. They throw most of their passes to Ray Berry, Jim Mutscheller and Lenny Moore.

Los Angeles has a well-balanced offense with Billy Wade passing to Del Shofner, Jon Arnett, Leon Clarke, Jim Phillips and Lamar Lundy. Arnett and Tom Wilson make up the 1-2 rushing punch. The California club's main problem will be handling Baltimore's big defensive line led by Gino Marchetti, Art Donovan and Gene Lipscomb.

BUSIEST PASSER

Cleveland swept five games, then lost to the Giants and Lions before snapping a 10-10 tie in the final minutes to defeat Washington last Sunday. The Browns are heavy favorites against the Eagles, but face the league's busiest passer in Norm Van Brocklin. He has thrown 279 passes this season, completing 146. Philadelphia's problem will be to keep Don Colo, Bob Gain and Cleveland's other defensive linemen away from Van Brocklin until he can locate a receiver.

Jim Brown, Cleveland's fullback, already has set a season rushing record of 1,163 yards and will add to it in his last four games. He also has 17 touchdowns, one under the season record of 18 held by Steve Van Buren of the Eagles.

49ers Meet Lowly Packers And Woe Betide The Losers

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Green Bay and San Francisco square off in a National Football League tussle tomorrow and woe betide the loser!

Fans in both cities are up in arms over the disastrous showing to date by the two teams and a loss here could light the fuse for some positive action.

The Green Bay front office is engaged in an open squabble regarding the management of the team, whose 1-6-1 record to date could lead to the team's worst season in its proud National Football League history.

The 49ers have won three squeakers and have been badly beaten on five occasions.

Coach Frankie Albert has also told his veterans to get going and has shown he meant business by releasing linebacker Marv Matuszak in a controversial move.

Matuszak was quickly grabbed by Green Bay and is reported eager for a shot at his old mates.

What has hurt both clubs to date has been their inability to move the ball on the ground. Only fullbacks Joe Perry of San Francisco and Paul Hornung of Green Bay have found running room.

Both teams therefore have been forced to rely extra heavily on passing, and the Packers have been shown wanting here also for Bart Starr and Vito Parilli have yet to flash the form of the departed Tobin Rote.

The Packers' crew of passcatchers, led by incomparable Billy Howton, are among the league's best, however. Injuries to six of the twenty-two have also slowed down the Packers.

The 49ers have alternated Y. A. Tittle and John Brodie at quarterback with varying success. They are also aided by a solid crew of receivers.

SOLID DEFENSES

Defensively the teams are more solid, although in both cases the clubs' stuttering offenses have given the foes the ball an unduly large per cent of the time and put extra pressure on the defense.

The 49er defensive line has held up well, but the pass defense has been crippled by the loss of Dick Moegle.

A new face on the 49er defense will be that of linebacker Jerry Tubbs, who was hired when Matuszak was dropped.

Neither team is going anywhere in the standings this year, but a loss by either club will not be taken lightly.

Penalty Gives Tiger Upset Win Over Calhoun In TVer

The gruelling 10-round middleweight brawl Friday night at Madison Square Garden was so close that it hinged on Miller's action in penalizing Calhoun the eighth round.

As Calhoun appeared to have won the eighth by a comfortable margin, that penalty cost him the scrap. Both Miller and Judge Bill Forst scored it 5-4-1 and Judge Bill Recht 5-3-2, all for Jones. A switch in the eighth would have made it 5-4-1 the other way on two cards and 4-4-2 on the other. The AP card was 5-5, counting the penalty.

"It wasn't low," moaned Calhoun after the fight. "If it was I'd be the first to say so. Even if it was, I still thought I won it."

"It was definitely low," said Miller. "No question about it."

"He hit me repeatedly on the hip," said Jones. "I thought I won it by a bigger margin."

At ringside, it seemed Calhoun did dig some low blows to Jones' body. None seemed to have been seriously handicapping.

Calhoun, 24, had weight and youth on his side. He scaled 163 to Jones' 158½ pounds. Rory went in an 8-5 favorite.

Bobby Melnick, Jones' manager, was eager to send the Tiger, 30, against Carmen Basilio who already had turned down a $35,000 offer to box him in Syracuse. Failing to interest Basilio, Melnick may take Jones to Argentina.

5 Foursomes Win At Meadow Club Best-Ball Event

Five foursomes were winners Thursday in the Meadow Club's Best Ball Foursome Tournament and later in the day a new golf captain was elected to head the women's golf section for the coming year.

First place winners with a low net of 68⅓ was the foursome of Mesdames Harrison Leppo, John Donnelly, Everett Gray and Don Flemings. Two foursomes tying for second place with a net 69 were Mesdames Maurie Strom, William Zimmerman, Robert Quinlan and Rowene Kerlin in one and John Lesoine, R. L. Hibbett, T. E. Fairey and Walter Jakobsen in the other.

Tying for third place with a net 71 were foursomes of Mesdames Gordon Wood, George Frazer, Paul Charron and H. Carmona and D. B. Johnson, Alfred Quilici, Paul Hartman Sr. and John Weitzel.

Mrs. Gray was the winner of the hole-in-one contest.

Mrs. Kerlin was unanimously elected to succeed Mrs. Arthur Latno as the section's 1959 golf captain and Mrs. Carl Boegershausen was elected her assistant.

Stan's 38th Birthday

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Slugger Stan Musial hinted he was feeling a bit older yesterday as he celebrated his 38th birthday. Musial was pleased that Solly Hemus, the new St. Louis Cardinal manager, was planning to use him in only about two-thirds of the Redbirds' 154-game schedule.

Recreation Unit Names New Chief

Robert C. La Fontaine, veteran member of the Sausalito Recreation Commission, has been named chairman to succeed Ernie Smith, who recently resigned when he moved from Sausalito.

Matters discussed included the community's teen-age program. Youngsters have asked for a place to hold regular dances. Diane Pedersen, speaking for seventh and eighth graders, and Edward Munk for the high school group, were told to form committees to plan a specific program.

Commissioner Phyllis Morena will advise the group.

The commissioners also will recommend to the city council that the gymnastics class conducted by Mrs. Andre Molnar be continued into spring and that a second class be created, the cost of both to be $400.

Joe Cohen Elected General Manager Of Bay Meadows

SAN MATEO (AP)—Directors of the California Jockey Club have elected veteran racing official Joseph Cohen as general manager of Bay Meadows.

Cohen recently was elected president of the club, which conducts thoroughbred racing at the track. As general manager he succeeds Mrs. William P. Kyne, widow of the track founder. She becomes treasurer and director of public relations.

Robert Gunderson, Mrs. Kyne's son-in-law, was named assistant general manager.

Directors also voted a $25 per share dividend payable Dec. 10.

SPORTS WORLD MOURNS THE LOSS OF MEL OTT

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Mel Ott, the greatest athlete in Giant history, will be buried today mourned by a sports public that respected him as ballplayer and man.

Services for the National League's all-time homerun king and the greatest modern hero of the Giants, will be held from the P. J. McMahon and Sons funeral home with interment in Netaire Cemetery.

Due to his family's request for an early burial, Ott's remains will go to the grave without the presence of the host of baseball greats who expressed a desire to pay their final respects.

Ott, 49, died yesterday after a round-the-clock fight for his life by doctors who said he succumbed finally of a kidney infection known as Uremia. Ott and his wife, also 49, were injured a week ago in a car crash in Bay St. Louis, Miss., that instantly killed Lester F. Curry, the driver of the other car.

Mrs. Ott, who has not been advised of her husband's death, is scheduled to be transferred from Gulfport to a New Orleans hospital for possible surgery. Although in serious condition, she is given a fair chance for recovery.

Ott was injured last Friday night when he pulled his car onto highway 90 near Bay St. Louis and collided with the Curry car. His condition took a sudden turn for the worse Thursday night and he died after surgery at 10:30 a.m., PST, Friday.

Ott is survived by his widow, two daughters, his mother, a sister, and a grandson, all from the New Orleans area.

A living legend, Ott wrote a fabulous and heart-warming baseball story from the time he reported to the iron-fisted tyrant of the Polo Grounds, the immortal John McGraw, in 1925 to the time he turned over the managerial reins of the club to the hated Brooklyn manager Leo Durocher.

Comment from such baseball personalities as Carl Hubbell, Leo Durocher, Casey Stengel, Mrs. John McGraw, Warren Giles, Will Harridge, Dizzy Dean, Hal Schumacher and many others emphasized the impact that Ott had made upon the sports public as player and gentleman.

"I never knew a baseball player who was so universally loved," said Durocher, who succeeded Ott as manager of the Giants in one of the most sensational shakeups in major league history on Aug. 16, 1948. "He was the nicest guy who ever put on a baseball shoe."

"Ott started at the top and stayed there," said Stengel. "That's the mark of true greatness."

GIANTS SHOCKED

The Giant front office, now situated in San Francisco, 3,000 miles from the Polo Grounds in which Ott played his entire career, was plunged in gloom over the loss of a hero second only to McGraw himself.

"He was the greatest Giant of them all next to McGraw," said Garry Schumacher, now assistant to club president Horace Stoneham, who was a newspaperman covering the Giants when Ott joined the team in 1925.

Ott, born in Gretna, La., March 2, 1909, got his passport to fame when Harry Williams, a New Orleans lumberman, recommended him to McGraw. A few weeks later Ott received a telegram which read: "Report to McGraw, Polo Grounds, New York."

From the moment McGraw, tyrant of the Polo Grounds, met Ott, he took him under his wing. He refused to let his young prodigy be farmed out, converted him from a catcher into a right-fielder and watched him develop into a Hall of Famer.

UNUSUAL STYLE

Ott, who overcame his 5-foot, 9-inch, 160-pound physique by developing an unusual style that featured lifting his right leg stiff-legged just before he swung, hit more home runs than any other player in history except Babe Ruth and Jimmy Foxx—511. He hit 30 or more homers in eight seasons and knocked in 100 or more runs in nine seasons. He batted over .300 in 11 seasons and reached a career high of .349 in 1930. He played in 11 All-Star games and three World Series.

Rock Thrower Hits Man In Car

The dastardly deeds of a highway rock sniper were reported to the Marin sheriff's office shortly after midnight today by John S. Grange of 118 McAllister avenue, Kentfield.

Grange said the sniper hurled a rock through the center of his windshield as he was driving south on Highway 101 at the California Park overpass, south of San Rafael. The rock hit him on the arm. Investigating sheriff's deputies reported many rocks littering the highway in that area.

3:11 p.m., Mill Valley—Kitchen stove fire at 34 Renz road, residence of Mrs. Leon Cavasso, no damage, cause unknown.

TODAY:

2:20 a.m., San Rafael—Car driven by George C. Dyer of Hillsborough hit water hydrant at Fourth and G streets, damaging it; fire department called to shut off water.

3:32 a.m., San Rafael—False alarm, sudden rise in temperature from heater caused automatic fire alarm system to go off at Independent-Journal engraving room, Fifth avenue and B street.

CARS

cars delivered by Tamalpais Motors, four were de luxe equipped "which was not specified, not ordered and not wanted" and the firm later billed the county for $20 per car above the contract price on account of the de luxe trim.

"We thought for a while of taking them off our bidders' list," Bruce said.

This brought a hot retort from Dolman that the July bid submitted by his firm explicitly noted that delivery was subject to availability of cars. He noted that four of the cars which were not delivered were to be equipped with "police kit" and the Ford factory had stopped production of these items for 1958.

On the other two cars which the firm could not deliver, Dolman said, Tamalpais Motors offered to protect the county at the bid price, which covered 1958 cars, and deliver 1959 models at that price. The county refused the offer, he said.

Clarence DeLong, owner of San Rafael's DeLong Chevrolet Co., said he agrees completely with Dolman.

"Jensen was grossly in error in making his recommendation," he said, "and the supervisors were equally guilty in accepting it." DeLong submitted a bid but was high. He said he may stop bidding on county purchases.

L. J. Dervin, Novato Ford dealer, did not bid. He said he has no fault to find with the county procedure except that invitations to bid were sent out too late. He said he received his invitation only five days before the bids were due and could not in that time have the county's trade-in cars appraised and figure a bid.

Gordon Andersen, Novato Chevrolet dealer, said he did not bid because he resents a requirement that a bond of $500 per car be posted with each bid.

"I've been in business for 30 years," he said, "and if they won't take my bid without my posting that amount, I won't bid."

Adolph Cheda, owner of Cheda Chevrolet at Point Reyes Station, said he quit submitting bids on county car purchases in 1954. He won an award that year, he said, and made $27 profit. "Not worth it," he said.

Bids opened Tuesday included, for the first time, cars to be bought by several Marin cities. The cities may buy through the county purchasing department under a recent agreement approved by the supervisors.

None of the dealers contacted mentioned any objection to this procedure, although Dervin said he would personally prefer to bid separately on city purchases.

Grandmother Of Marinite Dies

Mrs. Julia B. Moore, grandmother of Mrs. Marthabel S. Bartlett of Mill Valley who is a teacher at the Wade Thomas School, San Anselmo, died yesterday in Palo Alto at the age of 85.

She was a member of the Golden Wedding Club of Santa Cruz, the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Palo Alto and Women's Missionary Alliance, Church of God.

Additional survivors are a daughter, Mrs. Marjorie Tuft of San Carlos; a grandson, Walter Franklin Scott of Santa Clara, and six great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 12:30 p.m. at the Wessendorf and Thal Mortuary, Santa Cruz. Burial will be in Oakwood Memorial Park. Friends may call at the Tinney Funeral Chapel, Palo Alto, until tomorrow night.

Mrs. Molly Tame Succumbs In S.F.

A Solemn Requiem Mass for Mrs. Molly Tame, widow of Grant Tame of Ross, will be offered Monday at St. Brigid's Church, San Francisco, at 9:30 a.m. The funeral procession will form at the Memorial Chapels of Carew and English at 9 a.m. Interment will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

The Rosary will be recited at the Carew and English Chapels tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Tame died Thursday in a San Francisco hospital, where she had been since Tuesday. She had been in failing health. Her husband died a month ago.

The former Molly Steines of San Francisco, she was married to Tame eight years ago. They moved to Marin County a year ago, making their home on Ames road in Ross. Her husband was a civilian employee of the Military Sea Transportation Service at Fort Mason.

Since his death, Mrs. Tame moved to the Women's Athletic Club of San Francisco. She has no known survivors.

DEATHS

TAME—In San Francisco, Nov. 20, 1958, Molly Steines, beloved wife of the late Grant Tame, loving daughter of the late Charles and Marguerite Steines.

Friends may call after 7 o'clock Friday evening. The funeral will take place Monday, Nov. 24, at 9 a.m., from the Memorial Chapels of Carew and English, Masonic at Golden Gate avenue, thence to St. Brigid's Church, Van Ness avenue at Broadway, where a Solemn Requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of her soul commencing at 9:30 o'clock. Interment, Holy Cross Cemetery. Rosary Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Donations to the San Francisco College for Women's Foundation or the Little Children's Aid Memorial Fund preferred. (11/22)

ACCIDENTS

afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Franks' car hit one driven by Robert H. Brossier, 23, of 14 Adrian way, San Rafael. Brossier's passengers were his brother, Leon Brossier, 18, of 58 Laurel avenue, San Anselmo, and James Corbett, 22, of 169 Pine avenue, San Anselmo.

The older Brossier brother was treated at Marin General Hospital for a fractured fourth finger on the left hand and bruises. The other two youths received emergency treatment for minor injuries. Franks was treated for bruises on his right knee and forehead.

At 11:46 p.m. yesterday Jerry Forkner, 16, of 42 North San Pedro road, San Rafael, suffered a badly cut chin when his car went into an embankment near 380 Corte Madera avenue as he was southbound toward Mill Valley. He was treated at Marin General Hospital. Forkner told Corte Madera police he swerved right as another car approached him over the double line. His car was a total wreck, according to police.

Earlier, at 10:25 p.m., a car driven by Raymond Fred Burton, 46, a stock feeder on Big Rock Ranch, Lucas Valley, went out of control two-tenths of a mile north of the Hamilton Air Force Base main gate and rolled onto its left side in the center divider strip. Burton was uninjured, according to the California Highway Patrol.

A Greyhound bus driver, Glen Tarwater, 45, of 196 Cascade drive, Fairfax, was cited for excessive speed yesterday by the California Highway Patrol after his bus struck the rear of a car driven by Robbie Golden Harvey, 18, a College of Marin student who lives at Marin City. The accident happened at 7:50 a.m. yesterday on Tiburon boulevard at its intersection with Trestle Glen boulevard. Harvey had stopped in the eastbound lane to make a left turn when his car was hit in the rear by the bus, according to CHP Officer Richard Hart.

Harvey's passengers, Louvenia J. Harvey, 48, and Jessy Snell, 38, both of Marin City, complained of neck injuries and said they would see their own doctors.

San Rafael police cited George C. Dyer of Hillsborough for misdemeanor hit-run driving and making an improper right turn about 2:30 a.m. today after the car he was driving hit a fire hydrant and stop sign at the northwest corner of Fourth and G streets.

Dyer told officers he failed to stop because he didn't want to get in trouble. Police halted the hit-run car at Fourth and H streets after it had passed the accident scene, again without stopping. San Rafael firemen turned off the damaged hydrant.

Wheel, Clothing Taken From Cars

Sherry M. Smith of 124 Oak drive, San Rafael, said she parked her car in the United Markets' parking lot about 4:30 p.m. When she returned about 15 minutes later, newly cleaned clothes in the back seat were gone. The loss included shirts, skirt, and trousers.

Phyliss S. Milano of 1021 Second street, Novato, parked her car in the municipal parking lot at Second and Francisco about 8 a.m. When she got back at 5:45 p.m., the right front tire and wheel were gone from her car.

DISPUTE

tains a clause which begins District 1 (Ross Valley) shall not be obliged during the term of this contract to further enlarge its plant to accommodate an addition to permitted flow of sewage from District 2 (Corte Madera)'.

"This is certainly not what we want and is unacceptable to me as one of the five directors of District 2," Rippe said.

Rippe declared: "It is obvious to both sanitary district boards that something has got to be done about our sewage. We are now asking for authorization to sell bonds in the sum of $850,000. This much money would be required even if we were to successfully negotiate a contract with District 1. Further delay in providing funds will not be cheap."

The second reply to Jenks came from Adlard, chairman of Corte Madera's planning commission. Adlard said, "Existing facilities are adequate for a population of about 1,800. A conservative estimate of the present population is approximately 4,500 persons. In a period of heavy rainfall, raw sewage pours over the streets in Corte Madera and into the drainage canals and lagoons."

Continued Adlard: "The integration of the two sanitary districts would be the rational solution to our problem. Our board of directors has offered to dissolve the district and have it absorbed by Ross Valley Sanitary District. This offer was refused." He estimated that this exchange of offer and refusal took place in 1955.

Adlard said the Corte Madera District directors also offered to pay Ross Valley Sanitary District $320,000 for increased capacity at the Greenbrae plant.

He continued: "The estimated cost of these facilities was $175,000. The extra $145,000 was a bonus offered to expedite the construction of the facilities and to spare the Corte Madera taxpayers the larger expense of constructing their own facilities. However, in almost three years of negotiations the two districts have not been able to reach an equitable agreement."

There are four scheduled air lines in the U.S. each of which travels more passenger miles from one city to another than any single railroad in the country.

Electronic Gear Stolen

Theft of $400 worth of high fidelity electronic equipment from his home at 15 Bret Harte road, south of San Rafael, was reported to the Marin sheriff's office last night by Leo H. Strauss, vice president of American Building Maintenance Co., San Francisco.

Cadillac Burns In Garage Of Tam Valley Home

The interior of a 1957 Cadillac parked in the garage of a Tamalpais Valley home was completed burned Thursday evening by a fire of unknown cause.

Tamalpais Valley firemen were called about 7 o'clock to the home of Ralph L. Hogsed at 326 Starling road, where the car was afire.

Neither the garage nor house was damaged but the car's interior was completely gutted, with damage estimated by Asst. Fire Chief Ralph Smith at $1,500.

Volunteer Fireman Herman Koolhoven suffered painful but not serious facial burns when rubber backing in the car's upholstery burst during the fire and struck him in the face.

Bad Check Artist Found Guilty

Donald (Cadillac) Roberts, 32, described as a smooth-talking San Anselmo promoter, was found guilty yesterday of passing a series of five bad checks at a Corte Madera market.

Judge N. Charles Brusatori of Marin Superior Court ordered Roberts held in county jail until Dec. 8 for a report from the probation office and for sentencing.

Deputy Dist. Atty. Bruce Bales prosecuted the case. Sheriff's Inspectors Bowen Bridges and Guido Battaglia said Roberts apparently managed to draw bad checks on one bank after another, depositing some of the money to cover some of the checks.

DO IT YOURSELF

Join those who have found relaxation and contentment in accomplishment. With a minimum of work, YOU can enjoy a lovely home with three bedrooms, large living room with fireplace, dining room and spacious backyard. Close to schools and situated on a nice, quiet street, it is an excellent home for people with children. Zoned R-3, this could become an income property. Only $13,950.00.

AUTHENTIC COLONIAL

If you want a home that has an older charm, four spacious bedrooms, two baths, is weatherstripped and insulated inside & has a level landscaped lot with sprinkling system, then you are the family we've been looking for. Why not buy this charming Colonial home? $24,500.00

EASY MAINTENANCE

Here is a house that requires a minimum of maintenance. The level lot has many expensive shrubs and trees that can be easily cared for by just turning on the (built-in) sprinkling system. Inside there are two bedrooms, two baths, and an extra large room and bath with its own private entrance. This room can be used as an extra bedroom or den. The price? Only $17,500.00.

GET HAPPY!

This home was just made for Happy People. The cheery walls send a warm glow throughout the entire house that makes even the most sober person smile. See and enjoy the two bedrooms, living room, dining room and kitchen, all on one floor. $17,000.00.

LIVE LIKE A KING

While sitting around this extra large fireplace with copper hood. The natural wood paneling in the living room and kitchen lends a rustic touch and warm glow to the whole house. FEEL LIKE A QUEEN in your all-ELECTRIC kitchen. With the lovely view, beautiful landscaping, and easy maintenance, this is a home you really must see. Three bedrooms, complete weatherstripping insulation and central heating are just a few of the many extra features in this home. $23,950.00.

Car Makers Counting On Big Backlog Of Unfilled Demand

Part of the expected 1959 sales will be delayed replacement volume. By all normal indicators a broader new car market is due.

One industry authority said: "You can't cut sales volume from approximately six million units to 4,785,000 in a single year without storing up a lot of unfilled demand."

The figures represent the 1957 total and the indicated 1958 volume. Imported cars are included in both instances. They numbered nearly 207,000 in 1957 and are indicated at close to 365,000 for 1958.

Trying to overcome a new car shortage that developed at the start of the new model year the industry generally is working overtime. It has scheduled production of 500,000 cars this month and 600,000 in December. That would bring the year's assemblies to approximately 4,237,000 cars.

While the industry is trying to rebuild inventories depleted by work stoppages in October, it undoubtedly will gear production to indicated demand after dealer stocks have been replenished. It is not likely dealer inventories will approach the high of 865,000 units counted March 1.

It is an interesting fact that wherever future car sales are considered the unknown factor is the penetration of imported vehicles.

In 1955, when the U.S. car industry sold seven and a half million new cars, only 58,500 were imported units. The 1959 total of imported vehicles is virtually certain to reach 400,000 units.

The majority of these, of course, would be high-mileage cars delivering for under $2,000.

There is little doubt among industry analysts that a line of smaller cars will come from General Motors, Ford and Chrysler assembly lines in this country.

SOLON WANTS U. S. TO VOTE ON SUNDAYS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William Langer (R-N.D.) wants national elections held on Sundays in hopes more people will vote.

Langer said European nations get a better voter turnout with Sunday balloting than the United States does on Tuesdays.

Langer said he will introduce a bill in January to provide that presidential and congressional elections be held on the first Sunday in November.

Segrue Named By Knights Of Pythias

Emmett Segrue of Sausalito Thursday was re-elected chancellor commander of Muir Lodge 136, Knights of Pythias, at a Thursday meeting in Thorn Hall, Mill Valley.

Other officers elected at the meeting are James McCloud, Mill Valley, vice chancellor; James Smith, Sausalito, master of work; Elwood Ford, San Anselmo, prelate; Harold Owens, Sausalito, secretary; James Martinoni, Sausalito, financial secretary; Allyn Young, Sausalito, treasurer; Alvin Fredieu, San Rafael, inner guard, and Eugene Vance, Sausalito, outer guard.

Messages to the lodge were delivered by William Spellman of Los Angeles, grand master of arms of the Grand Lodge of California; Walter Taylor of Petaluma, past grand chancellor of the state lodge, and Milton Natchinson, past chancellor commander of Continental Lodge in New York.

Initiatory rites were conducted by the local lodge after election of officers.

FAMILY ENTERPRISE

Florist To Start Sixth Decade In San Rafael

Francis C. Burns, dean of Marin florists, this month winds up five decades, and starts a sixth, in the flower business in San Rafael.

He will celebrate the golden anniversary of F. C. Burns, Florist, with an open house at 1230 Fifth avenue Nov. 30.

The business was started by his father, Charles Burns, in 1908, with Burns, then 15 years old, as assistant. The shop's first location was at 826 Fourth street.

Charles Burns died in 1910, and his son took over management of the shop. In that same year the shop was moved to the Burchard Building on Fourth street, whence it was later moved to the location now occupied by Luana's.

In 1954, the shop moved again, becoming the first business establishment on Fifth avenue.

Appeal Board To Review Building Code

The County of Marin Board of Appeals will give a final review of the new building code revisions Tuesday night before the revised code goes to the county supervisors for approval.

The board of appeals will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the second floor of the courthouse in San Rafael.

Otto H. Meyer, chief building inspector, said the building code revisions tighten some laws, loosen others, clarify vague points, and make editorial corrections.

Illumination of exit signs in a new convalescent home at the Professional parkway across from Terra Linda will come up for discussion. The new building, to be operated by Lydia Yanke, has exit signs that are not lighted, whereas illumination is required for a building of that size.

Nursery Operation Redesign Suggested

Redesign of a proposed retail nursery operation for the Erb Tree Service on Mill Valley's Miller avenue, was suggested by the city's architectural advisory subcommittee Thursday night.

Chairman Mario Corbett announced resignations of engineer Robert C. Coolidge and Mrs. Richard Bennett as members. Mrs. Bennett was the representative of the Outdoor Art Club.

Man Booked In Child Molesting

Herbert Ward Cook, 37, of 111 Montford avenue, Homestead Valley, was booked by Sheriff's Sergeant Guy V. Gibbs and deputy Edmund Mauberret yesterday afternoon after he confessed to the officers he had molested a 5-year-old girl earlier in the day.

Officers said the girl reported she was walking up a path on her way home from Homestead School when "a big man in a red and white shirt" held her arm and molested her. When she screamed, the man ran away. Later, Mill Valley Police Chief James McGowan and Officer Dan Terzich picked up Cook for questioning as a molester suspect.

When the girl confronted him, Cook confessed.

He was booked on the felony charge of molesting a child and placed in the county jail.

In The Tinkling Of A Highball, Mr. Big, Miss Little Are Chums

The great human leveler is the annual office party. It's a distant cousin of the regional convention and bears some of the same family characteristics except that they are carved a little deeper.

This does not take in the small office where year long relations are usually on the informal side from the boss on down.

The one I mean is the institutional gathering where the executives—the Mr. Bigs for the past 12 months—in the tinkling of a highball become Joe and Jim and George, and the Miss Littles are urged to eschew restraint more ways than one in the intimacy of good fellowship.

It is a produent employee who can survive the hair loosening without wondering afterward if he talked or acted indiscreetly and if so he hopes it will blow over.

Take Mr. Meekly. He's been buried in figures all year—fiscal reports, operation costs, balance sheets and profit and loss. Seldom known to raise his voice in protest he has been sorely irked by the retail department which has never been able to get out an intelligible inventory but he doesn't want to start anything.

Encouraged by three quaffs of good cheer and some prompting from the Vice-President he not only spills the beans on stock shortages but allows the PBX operator to sit on his lap and muss his hair. Before the party is over the two of them have invented a new version of the samba.

THE PRIVATE SECRETARY to the big boss has always been cool and efficient — a model of confidential trust and propriety. If there is one person she can't stand it is the office manager who continually annoys her with petty gossip, like the salesman's padded expense vouchers and has she heard what kind of a bonus will be passed out this year.

It doesn't discourage Mr. Fussy, however, from holding her hand over a draft of grain juice, and confiding that he is misunderstood by his wife. At this point she may even be inclined to regard him less distastefully.

Her fate is saved by the boss himself who intervenes to slap Fussy on the back and ask what's new. This is Fussy's chance to burble about the expense vouchers.

The matter is adroitly referred to Bill Quota, the salesmanager, who isn't too interested at that moment because he's got a nice little deal cooking with his stenographer, and he promises to look into it next week.

Meanwhile, a quartet composed of two clerks from the shipping department, the advertising manager and some fellow nobody knows — probably wandered in by mistake — struggles through Sweet Adeline with everyone trying to sing tenor.

One corner is clouded with smoke from the top salesmen who do so much entertaining at company expense, this type of party is considered small time stuff. They'd rather puff cigars and brag about their orders, especially as they have the rapt attention of the office boy who hopes to be like them someday.

MOST UNHAPPY MAN at the affair is Elmer Loudmouth, office wit and Casanova. Someone played a dirty trick on him and invited his wife and she came — the only one who did. Under her watchful chaperonage he can only smile weakly on the sidelines and shrug helplessly at the blond from addressograph and mailing who has been giving him the eye.

This is the great American holiday event just about a month away — Operation Office Party — or one version thereof. However, if your spouse should read this and insist that you're going to have a conflicting date this year, just say there isn't a vestige of truth in it.

Really, I'm an awful liar.

MINIATURE TURKEYS ON WOODSY KEYNOTE

Given large sugar pine cones for the gobblers' plump bodies, small cones for heads, some bird tail feathers (or quills plucked from a feather duster) for proud, spreading tails, several members of the Guild can turn out unmistakable turkeys.

Mrs. Frederick Macondray, Guild president, and Mrs. Fred Sloat, both with talent at taking bits of dried autumn harvest and making them into decorations, are the turkey-makers. They also make place cards for Thanksgiving entertaining, turning small and tiny cones into whimsical birds; make fist-size turkeys with dried wheat tails; and large ones for dominating Thanksgiving dinner tables.

The Teasel room at the Art and Garden Center, where many volunteer members of the Guild are busy preparing for the Greens Sale Dec. 12 and 13, is a workshop rich with the sight and smell of nature's fall materials. Dried moss, burrs and teasels, pods and cones, buds and sheaves of leaves, all lie waiting for gifted hands driven by imagination that will turn them into Christmas wreaths, trees, placques and novelties for the sale.

"Order Your Turkey Now" is not only the advice of your butcher, but of the Guild. Hours at the Art and Garden Center's Octagon House headquarters for Guild sales are from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Proceeds of all sales go toward the maintenance of the non-profit Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, a cultural organization of art, theater, dance, music, and children's activities, serving the entire county.

Mirror Walls Add Space To Rooms

Among interior wall coverings for use in modern homes, there is one, an unframed architectural mirror, that does a lot more than merely provide an attractive surface for the wall.

According to glass stylists, mirroring actually doubles the apparent size of the room, extending the expanse of walls, ceiling and floor, thus giving an illusion of greater spaciousness to areas that would otherwise be boxlike and confining.

A mirror-wall also increases the amount of light in the room, is easily cleaned, never needs refinishing and "matches" immediately any type of room decoration.

He Made History At San Quentin

Clinton Duffy, Warden For 11 Years, Believes A Prisoner Is A Human Being

By BETH BURCHARD

You know the stereotype of the tough guy prison warden, brawling and barking his way among the "cons" of the Big House?

Well, look again at Clinton Duffy, the most famous warden of them all, as mild a man as you'll ever meet.

He is your neighbor. He lives in San Anselmo, just a few miles from San Quentin Prison, the "town where he was born and the institution he commanded for 11 history-making years.

Clint Duffy has not been warden of the prison for close to seven years. But his name is still synonymous with the kind of prison it is, and the job he now holds with the California Adult Authority is intimately involved with the 5,000 men who live within its walls.

HE DELIVERED newspapers inside the prison as a little boy. Nothing he has observed from then until now, at the age of 60, has changed his view that a convict is an individual human being — a man who must be judged and punished and helped according to his own problems and personality.

It is this facet of Clint Duffy that won him fame. For it was he, perhaps more than any other man, who changed prisons from dungeons into places of hope. And he did it in the face of skepticism if not outright opposition from some oldline penologists who thought men in prison should be at least figuratively men in chains.

Duffy was born in 1898, in a small white house on the prison reservation. His father, William Joseph Duffy, was a farmer turned prison guard. There were eight children, of whom Duffy was the sixth. Seven are still living, five in Marin.

IN HIS BOOK, "The San Quentin Story, written in collaboration with Tiburon author Dean Jennings, Duffy described growing up on the reservation.

"The neat little blue suits I wore were made from my father's wornout guard unforms. Like other boys I had a paper route, but mine ran from the front gate to the warden's office . . . and I didn't dare lose a copy when prisoners were around because the local papers were contraband. We climbed forbidden trees, usually the pomegranates around the warden's house, or those in a tiny orchard below the east gate gun tower.

"We went fishing too, but we were never out of sight of the tower guns. Instead of cops-and-robbers we played prisoners - and - guards, but there was always an argument because very few of the boys wanted to be guards. We knew scores of prisoners by their first names. They were our friends and 'neighbors' and some of them took great risks to steal ice cream from the officers mess and smuggled it out to us."

"MY FATHER, IN TRUTH, was more of a friend than jailer. . . . He was self-conscious about weapons among other things and never used the club that all guards carried at the time. . . . During those early years, Dad would come home fuming over the injustices inflicted on prisoners every day."

It was in prison, in his childhood, too, that Clint found the love that would last him all his life. Gladys Carpenter was the daughter of a prison guard. "We were sweethearts in grammar school," says Clint today. "And we still are, believe me."

The two became engaged after graduation from San Rafael High School and were married on Dec. 31, 1921. They left San Quentin for awhile after that. Upon discharge from the Marine Corps following World War I, he went to work for the Northwestern Pacific railroad, and still later took a job with a construction company a quarter mile from the prison. In 1929 he got a job as office assistant to Warden James Holohan. "I was home again, at last," says Duffy.

THERE WERE MANY things about the prison that Duffy found distasteful during the years he worked there, first as the warden's sercetary, and later as historian and secretary to the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles which has its counterpart today in the California Adult Authority. There were prison breaks, and hangings, and later an increasing record of cruelty to prisoners. But it wasn't until 1938 and 1939 that brutality became part of a statewide scandal, prompting Gov. Culbert Olson to demand an investigation. It was a time when "hate and fear walked hand in hand," says Duffy.

In a clean sweep, Olson fired the whole board of prison directors, and on July 14, 1940, a new five-man board convened at San Quentin to consider the next move.

Warden Court Smith, under pressure, resigned.

The board made Clint Duffy, the son of a guard, the warden of San Quentin prison.

HIS FIRST APPOINTMENT was for 30 days, "to kind of watch over things until the board decided what to do next." Thirty days later Duffy's job became a four-year appointment and a life's career.

He didn't sit out that first 30 days. He fired six guards. He closed up the dungeons. He banned the use of whips, straps, rubber hoses and other forms of corporal punishment. He abolished head shaving for prisoners, "because I felt that coming to prison was humiliating enough." He signed another order eliminating the big numbers stamped in black on every inmate's clothes. Men had never been merely numbers to Clint—now they became men with names to the whole prison administration.

MUCH HAS BEEN MADE of the fact that Duffy did what no warden had ever done before—he walked alone and unguarded through the prison yard. He knew that as warden he was a man worth kidnaping because he could give the order to unlock the gates. He knew that many of the thousands of convict pockets hid makeshift weapons.

"But," he wrote of his first journey through the yard, "I wasn't thinking of those things. I saw them not as strangers or criminals, but as human beings whose virtues and faults I knew better than anyone else, whose case histories I had studied for the parole board, whose wives and mothers and children I had known from many a tearful visit over the years.

"My heart (told) me I was safer in San Quentin than most other men are in the streets of their home towns."

DUFFY DID MUCH to win the trust and respect of the men during his 11-year tenure. He instituted programs there which are now part of a philosophy of training and treatment of prisoners throughout the nation.

He introduced academic and vocational programs, strengthened religious activity, allowed clubs and athletics, a band and hobby work. For six years the inmates ran a radio program called "San Quentin on the Air," its theme song, "Time on My Hands." In prison, many persons learned to read and write for the first time. Men received union cards from locals outside the prison for the skills they learned inside. Alcoholics Anonymous came to the prison under Duffy's aegis, to help men lick the emotional problems that made them turn to liquor and often as a result, to crime.

"At least 95 per cent of these men are bound to return sometime to society," Duffy said. "We wanted to make them better neighbors, good people."

IN THOSE YEARS OF CHANGE, when he and Gladys lived in the warden's house on the hill, Duffy said he "got a lot of good advice at home." Mrs. Duffy was as much involved as he in the pioneering that was done. While today Duffy maintains an unlisted phone number and hence, address, he says it's to protect them both from late-night phone calls from former inmates, their friends and relatives; it's not because of fear. "Gladys was never one mite afraid," he says. And the inmates, sure of her interest in them, returned it with respect and often times, affection.

Life changed abruptly for the Duffys when he was appointed, late in 1951, to the better-paying adult authority.

His days as warden were over; the late Harley O. Teets became warden. They moved from the town that had been home for half a century to a new but temporary home in Kent Woodlands. Their lives however, were not as they might have envisioned for "after San Quentin": less hectic, with plenty of time for their gardens. Clint Duffy went on the road.

NOW VICE CHAIRMAN of the authority, Duffy is away from home three weeks out of every month, hearing cases at the state's eight institutions: Folsom State Prison, the California Institution for Men at Chino, the farm branch of Chino at Tehachapi, Soledad State Prison, the Medical Facility at Vacaville, the Duel Vocational Institution at Tracy, the California Men's Colony at San Luis Obispo and San Quentin itself.

For the most part the seven man board hears cases in panels of two or three, except when there is a case of great public impact. The board reviews the entire history of the man who comes before it before setting a definite sentence, refusing to set sen-

GOOD OLD DAYS — Back in 1898, when Dr. F. J. Hund first came to Marin with his family, he used these time tables to commute to high school in San Francisco. The prices seem miraculous now— $4 a month from Mill Valley, $4 from San Rafael. The time table was printed on a pink cardboard about post cord size. (Courtesy Dr. F. J. Hund of San Rafael)

The Good Old Days Of Commuting

By A. BRAY DICKINSON

Seldom has a brief journey ever yielded such scenic variety and charm as the one along the former North Pacific Coast narrow guage railroad which transported thousands of commuters, picknickers, vacationers, hikers and sportsmen over some 80-odd miles of rails extending into the north coast redwood forests.

The journey commenced from San Francisco's embarcadero at the north end of the old ferry shed and while the new Ferry Building was in process of construction during the middle 1890's a wooden shack, built on the dock planking just to the north, served as ticket office and waiting room. N.P.C. Company was again allotted its usual location after completion of the new building.

When a ferry steamer docked in the old days the captain came ashore with his passengers, opened a rear door to the waiting room and checked all ticket-holders as they filed by to his boat.

This duty completed, he followed the last one aboard and climbed the ladder to his place in the pilot house. A gong clanged in the engine room; the whistle sounded as paddle-wheels began to churn the water. Slowly the steamer backed away from the pier, encircled by flocks of raucous sea gulls.

THE FERRY trip consumed a pleasant 30 minutes, along the city's waterfront to within a stone's throw of Alcatraz Rock and then across the Bay within sight of the Golden Gate, guarded then by old Fort Mason. In those days no lofty span obstructed the view to sea and of ships on the horizon.

The ferryboat came under shelter of Marin hills, skirted sailing yachts anchored off old Sausalito, to finally move alongside the pier. Then came a flurry of transferring mail, express and passengers to waiting trains.

As before stated, N.P.C. coaches were painted a buttercup yellow. Battened sides, with an oval number panel in the center, characterized their construction in contrast to narrow tonge-and-groove used in neater appearing cars of a later period. Arched window frames made a show of decorative art. The overhead ventilator boxing flattened into the roof before it extended out over the platform at either end of the car.

Platform steps allowed passengers to climb on or off both front and rear. An iron guard rail on each platform supported an iron brake wheel for the manually operated brakes.

RUNNING GEAR consisted of two 4-wheel trucks. Coaches were small and narrow, which made necessary a row of single seats on one side of the center aisle with double seats opposite. For better balance this order was reversed half way along which caused a sharp bend or jog in the aisle. Seats were covered with red or green plush. Windows could be raised or lowered but were set well above each corresponding seat so that one could not comfortably lean an elbow on the sill. All interior woodwork was polished and varnished.

Panels, in the natural grain, filled in spaces between the small windows. In one corner of the car a cubbyhole lavatory served both men and women. Perhaps the decorator had a sense of humor for across its narrow door was stencilled the word "Saloon" in gold letters. A shelf on the outside wall of this small compartment supported a metal container for drinking water, painted a deep red and trimmed in gold, with a drinking cup chained to it.

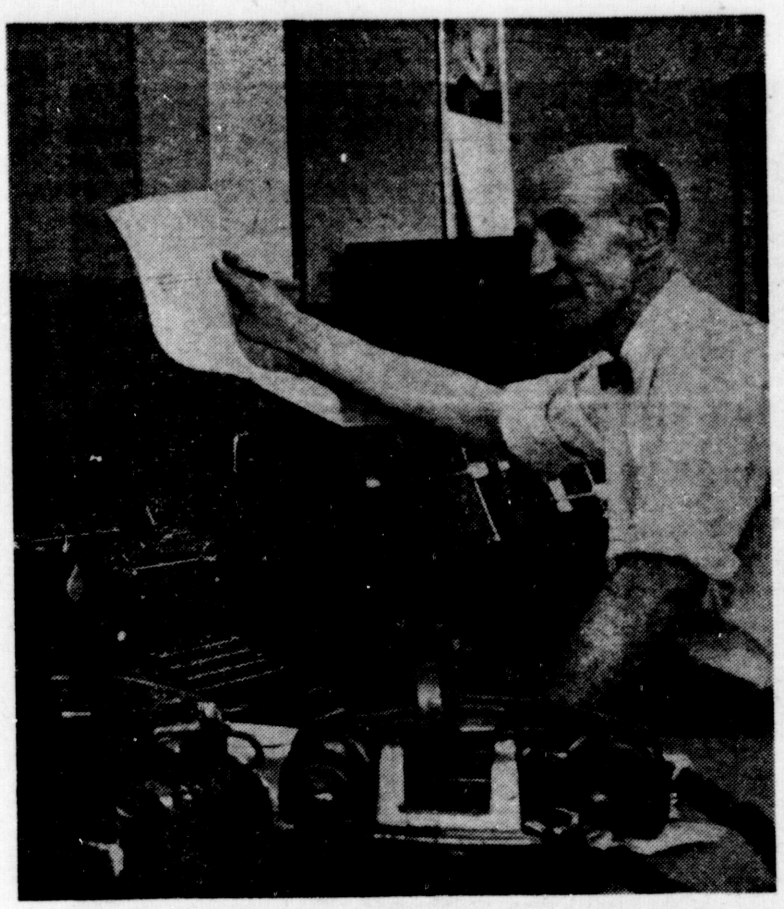
During winter mornings, a pot-bellied "caboose" stove burned wood and coal at the other end of the coach. In case of accident, passengers risked cremation from upset stoves. At best, the few sitting nearby sweltered while those farther away kept to their wraps and endured cold feet.

The ceiling held two coal-oil lamps rigged in metal frames, the lighting of which was a rather complicated task. If the train ran into evening time, a brakeman straddled the aisle by standing on the arms of opposite seats and lit the wick after striking a sulphur match on pants leg. Straps, each with a ring at the bottom, hung from the ceiling at spaced intervals. Through these rings ran a bell cord from car to car and on into the engine cab. Thus the engineer could be signalled in case of emergency.

Trains were usually made up by hooking the express and mail car behind the tender; next came a combination smoking car followed by passenger coaches. The forward end of the smoker contained a freight or heavy baggage compartment with a sliding door on each side. A smoking compartment for men covered approximately the rear two-thirds of the car.

This section had regular passenger car windows but bench seats ran lengthwise on either side. This was a car for drunks and anglers and hunters (who might be placed in the same category after imbibing all day from a pocket flask while in field or stream.)

Tunnel smoke penetrated their compartment with difficulty for the air already was thick with tobacco smoke and whiskey fumes. Jokes and tall tales bandied about were stale as the air, but always brought uproarious laughter.



NEWS IN THE MAKING — City Editor Bryce W. Anderson (right) talks over story with reporter while he scans story coming in from Mill Valley correspondent Larry Lovett. Adjoining teletype brings news from Bob Newcomb in Novato. Three phones on desk ring constantly.

Only The Beginning

Each edition of the Independent-Journal brings together facts from all over the world, pictures and features from all parts of the county.

Gathering the news, however complicated, is just the beginning of a day-long, year-round process. Instead of one deadline, there are many. No sooner is today's news typed, edited and dummied than tomorrow's is on the way. As early as 2 p.m. (perhaps before the presses roll), certain pages of tomorrow!

Scarcely are the plates for today's Page 1 fitted onto the presses than, upstairs in the composing room, certain pages for the following day are being set, proof-read and assembled for first run. The pictures on these pages

WIRE NEWS — Bank of teletypes connected with major news services feed yards of copy on state, national and world events. Assistant news editor Dick Layman (left) cuts off awaited section of story while news editor Beth Burchard (at desk) dummies pages for "first run," or the second section which is made up and printed first. In distance is city editor. Beyond are sports, managing editor, editorial page and Marin Magazine, respectively.

tence, or recommending parole. The board hears 10,000 cases a year.

Duffy is proud of the record of men on parole. Statistics show that of the 7,500 men now on parole from California prisons, about one-third are destined to return. Half of that one third will be returned for technical violation of parole; only 16 per cent will be re-imprisoned for felonies.

Over the last 10 years, these statistics have been reduced one per cent annually on the "success side."

"This represents an improvement in training and treatment in prison, proper placement of men, some better understanding by the public, and better supervision on parole," says Duffy.

DUFFY SEES MUCH MORE to be done, however, and grins when he says so. "I've always got some crazy idea, they say."

"I think we could handle approximately 25 per cent of those who are now committed to prison on a community level, without making ex-convicts out of them. An ex-convict has two strikes against him.

"To do that, we have to have expanded community services, more probation officers, clinical areas where potential convicts could be treated. We should expand counseling services, and the vocational and education training areas. Religion should be encouraged. We should make more use of the Huber plan (where jail inmates are released during the work week, are incarcerated only at night and on weekends.) That way these men can pay their bills, make restitution while earning a wage, support their families —and still not get away with violation of the law.

He feels that men who commit crimes of violence should be confined.)

"I would also like to see established a state department of" (he fumbled for a title) "say, delinquency and crime prevention. To try to detect and prevent crime well before it happens."

SUCH A DEPARTMENT he envisions as tying together and making maximum use of community institutions — schools, church, family, club, places of employment, clinical services. Crime prevention would become a statewide effort, involving every community agency in every town.

"It would be less costly than commitment and surely more effective," he says.

"For example, a teacher might see that Willie's heading in the wrong direction. She could refer him to the department's office. And the department would make maximum use of all the people and institutions in the community who might help Willie turn out to be a good man instead of an ex-convict."

WHAT'S AHEAD, for Clint Duffy?

In the immediate future there's a sightseeing jaunt with Gladys to Mexico where they will see his sister, a trip to Florida and New York City where they will see their son, 36-year-old Jack Duffy, medical director for the International Business Machines.

He will continue a heavy schedule of speeches to Alcoholics Anonymous groups throughout the state ("where sometimes I see as many as 50 men I used to know as inmates at San Quentin."). Clint, who enjoys an occasional highball himself, thinks too much alcohol has a heavy hand in crime.

And for those retirement years? "I hope to keep on in prison work, perhaps as a consultant. I'd like to help clear up public misunderstanding on the issue of capitol punishment." (Duffy's against it). "A lot of people in countries overseas have been interested in our prison system and who knows, perhaps we'll be abroad . . ."

FRED FINSLEY, chairman of the adult authority, sums up Clint this way: "He's one of the most affable men in the world, with a sound understanding of his job and what is required. He's a conservative sort of fellow, mild and not at all aggressive. But when he has a point of view, he expresses it and never backs off."

Al Goodman of Kentfield, a friend of many years, says: "The big thing about Clint is his sincerity. He has terrific insight into the likes and dislikes of other people. With Clint, it's not all one-way; it's about 60-40, with 60 per cent of the giving done by Clint."

Richard A. McGee, director of the state Department of Corrections, praises Duffy's contribution to the acceptance of modern practices in prisons and says: "He is a person of keen perception of personality, and a man of warm human sympathy. In this respect, he has been particularly valuable as a member of the adult authority."

Says his wife, Gladys: "He's a very, very thoughtful and kindly man, with a great deal of patience and a great deal of humility. After 37 years of marriage I can tell you, he's a wonderful, wonderful guy."

GODETIA — (Godeti a amoena), also called Farewell-to-Spring. This four-petaled, showy, rose-pink flower of summer brightens many of our roadside banks and dry hill slopes. The 1- to 2-ft. stem has narrow leaves. The petals may be as much as an inch in length and may show dark splotches at the base. The ovary, which becomes the seed pod, is entirely below the petals (From "Out-of-Doors in Marin," copyrighted by M. F. Austin.)

LINOTYPE BANK — Here, words are turned into metal, not only for news stories but for advertisements. Each story bears an identifying "slug" referring to its heading or "HTK," meaning "hed to kum." A Thousand Tiny Pieces Of Metal

AD ALLEY — While news is being made, written and translated into type for the top part of the pages, ads are being assembled according to ad "dummies" which often bear little resemblance to the finished product. In foreground are forms. Makeup of one page has just begun. This is for 'early run' of following day. Meanwhile (far right) Page one is awaiting one last story.

If you felt like counting them, you would find there are approximately 120 lines of type or "slugs" in a single column of the Independent-Journal—not to mention the invisible spacers, the rows of base metal under cuts and the jigsaw puzzles of metal which space out the isolated lines of type in advertisements.

It all adds up to somewhere around 1,000 pieces of metal to be assembled from several linotype machines, the "ad alley" and the makeup drawers.

Finishing touch is to "justify" the page, or take up vertical slack with thin leaves of metal 1/72 of an inch thick. Then the form is tightened to take up lateral slack, the type pounded to tamp it level.

Type metal, often referred to as "lead," is actually an amalgam of lead, antimony and tin. It is somewhat lighter than pure lead and much harder. To further lighten the burden of makeup, each slug has a honeycomb back. Even so, a tray or "galley" of type weighs several pounds.

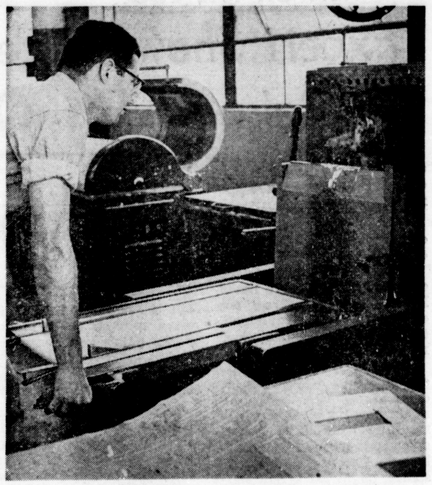
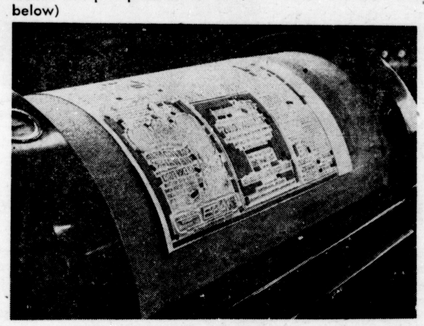
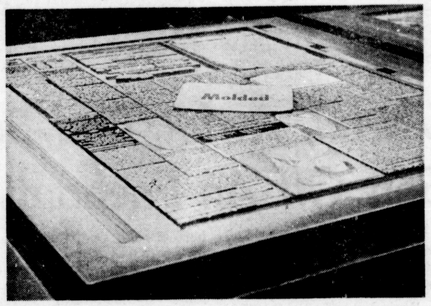
ROLLING A MAT — Jack Hutchins runs form through mat rolling machine. Type surface is topped with sheet of asbestor fiber material, which is slightly damp. Type leaves sharp impression on mat, which is then . . . (see below)



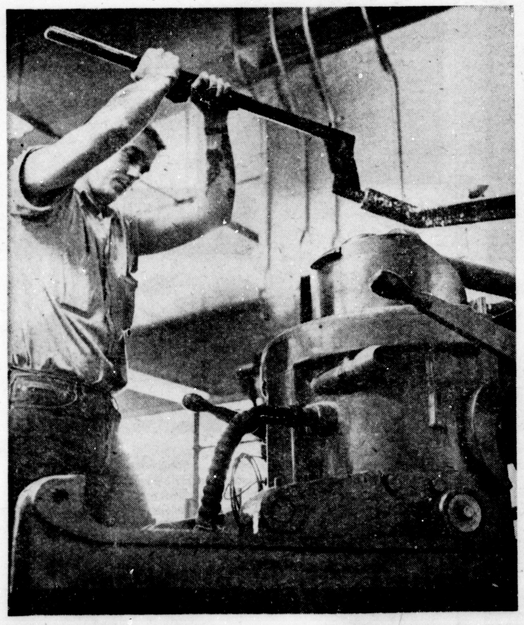
CASTING AD MATS — Stereotyper Ashton Hutchins uses flat casting box. Independent-Journal comics, many ads and some illustrations are cast from mat to metal before being made up in page—to be cast again.



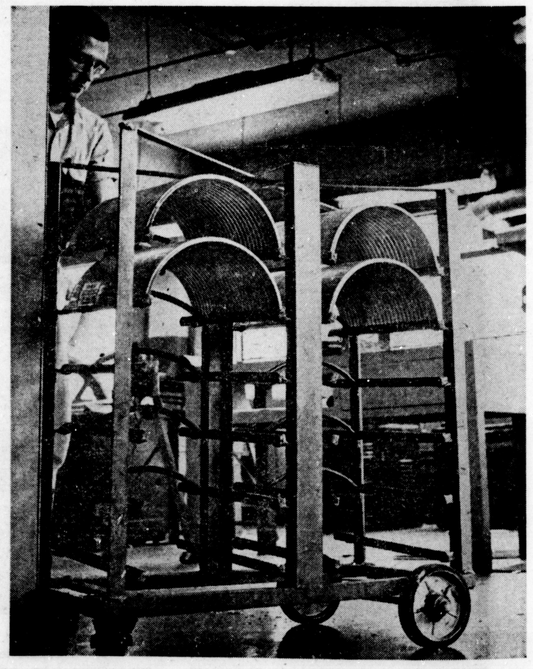
SHRUNK — This printer's version of the electric mangle irons mat into curve and bakes out moisture, shrinking it with microscopic accurancy. Low places in mat have been backed with felt strips.



MOLDED! — This cardboard sign marks Women's Page form which has been matted. Pages are not dismantled, however, until it is certain they will not be needed for re-casting.

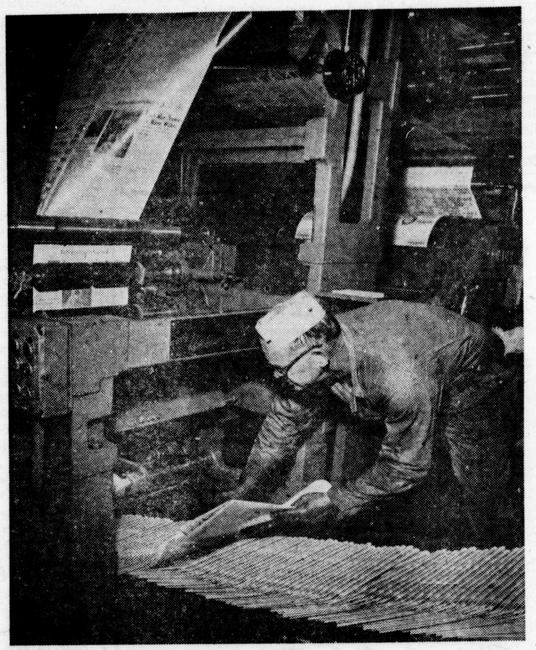


CASTING A MAT — Ken Harris pulls lever which sends molten "lead" into form around mat. Several castings may be made for one mat. Careful check is made of mats to check for air-bubbles (cold type) or other flaws. Plates are then machined to fit precision presses.



LOADING THE DOLLY — Stereotyper Ashton Hutchins loads plates on dolly for elevator trip to basement presses. Top two are duplicates, as are second two. While paper is usually not "off the presses" until 2 p.m., larger and larger papers mean several sections, the earliest of which may be rolled off the presses at 10 a.m.

ON THE PRESS — Plates of paired pages are fitted onto press drums by pressman Morris O. Dahl. Another pair of plates prints opposite sides of paper, which is fed from huge rolls loaded from basement level of two-story presses. From rolls paper weaves this way and that through rollers giving an effect known as "the web." A break in "the web" means stop-page while repairs are made. Press adjustments are made to thousandth of inch.



HERE THEY COME — Pressman Melvin L. Davis pulls paper from outgoing stream to check ink feed and plate adjustment. Machine automatically trips every 50th paper for counting purposes. For each paper pulled from stream, another must be inserted to keep count accurate. Stero flash stops movement of printed strip, but to human eye it appears as blur. This part of press cuts and folds papers.

THE HEN OR THE EGG?

Expert Shows Parents How To Raise Child's IQ Score

Marin Bookshelf

HOW TO RAISE YOUR CHILD'S IQ, by David Engler; Criterion Books, 153 pp., $3.50.

"Which comes first, the chicken of achievement or the egg of intelligence?"

In this day of overemphasis of the results of IQ tests (as opposed to IQ, itself), he shows how the class divisions resulting from often poorly given tests tends to widen the breach. A score of 128, for instance, might bar bright Marsha from the benefits of an enrichment program given to those with scores of 130 or more.

Elsewhere in the book, he notes that the child's score may vary as much as 24 points, depending on anything from a head cold to a fight at home to poor reading ability. Half the children tested will re-test up to six points higher or four points lower on a second try.

The other half will show even more change!

With quite conclusive figures, he shows the startling effect of good foster home environment on children of parents with IQs lower than normal. The youngsters who were put in foster homes before the age of two turned out with a medium IQ of 100.5.

Those who lived in their own subnormal homes for 12 to 15 years of their lives tested 53.1. Interim cases show a distinct parallel between the length of time under subnormal parentage and IQ scores.

For instance, a tot who plays with a toy where he puts blocks into holes will breeze through a test of the same type. A child with a wide range of experience will be much more able to name objects in a picture than one who has been left to his own resources.

The author goes into the art of answering a child's questions, and a delicate art it is. He suggests mind-stretching games, toys and family activities.

The last one-third of the book is devoted to practice exercises similar to standard IQ tests.

His thesis is that the parent can do much to give his child the advantages of a higher IQ score—as well as the higher IQ itself. —A.E.

Bounty Offers: Do They Solve A Problem Or Create Another?

The current bounties being offered in Marin County for the tails of skunks and raccoons is apparently based on the idea that there are a great number of skunks, and to some extent, raccoons, to be seen — or smelled. This fact alone does not necessarily indicate (and certainly does not prove) that there are actually more skunks this year than in previous years but rather that they are coming closer to homes and are being observed more frequently.

The reason for this is probably closely allied with the fact that this has been a good year for rodents; the meadow mice, house mice and gophers are quite abundant and their numbers do fluctuate considerably from year to year depending on the weather, available food supplies and the number of natural enemies such as skunks, raccoons, hawks, owls and snakes that are feeding on the rodents.

The skunks and raccoons that are being observed will feed heavily on rodents whenever possible even if it means following the rodents into the close proximity of human habitations. When the predators have depleted the rodent numbers to any great extent they will have unwittingly exercised control on their own numbers because they will have limited their own food supply for the coming year; with a decreased food supply they will find that they are unable to feed adequately their normal litter with a resulting loss of young and a decrease in general numbers.

In addition to the fact that these animals are rendering a valuable service that has been overlooked in the establishment of a bounty system there are several other objections worthy of mention. Although the skunk is classed by the state as a predator and may be killed at any time, the raccoon is classed as a fur-bearing mammal and can only be taken from the 16th of November until the day before the last day of February. Even at this time a trapping license is required for people over 18 years of age. It is fortunate that the bounty period fell by chance within this period.

Another objection to the bounty system is the fact that the animals causing trouble are those that are around homes in most cases. Animals, including fur-bearers, that are causing depredations to property may be taken at any time upon proof of damage; agencies are in operation that are qualified to handle this work. The animals within city limits that are actually the offenders are not usually the ones killed by the bounty system because it is unlawful to shoot in town, trapping is difficult for the average person and poisons are so dangerous where pets and children abound as to be almost criminal in the hands of most people.

Another point is that it is difficult at best to place an arbitrary amount on the head of an animal as its value, dead or alive, because its value still is not completely realized. If parents allow children to hunt for mercenary reasons, they run two risks—of having their children learn to kill for money and of losing their respect for the true value of wildlife.

In effect, we are giving them authorization to shoot at will in the hopes that it will be the right animal and they can collect their $1 reward. It is fervently hoped that the animals will be the only things shot because of lack of reason.

'Awful, Awful, Bad, Bad Girl' Sets Off An Enchanting Story

Reviewed by LEE ADAMS

Ten year old Colin Mason thought he was the biggest and the oldest of four Mason children until that fateful Saturday he discovered he had a mysterious older sister, that "awful, awful, bad, bad girl—Loretta Mason Potts."

Determined to find out Loretta's secret, Colin pursued her over the strange bridge to the flickering lights atop the black hill behind the Potts farm. Consequently, poor Mother Mason suddenly found herself with one angelically transformed Loretta and four newly fallen, unrepentent children, all wearing that same "sly look" and "secret smile" a rebellious Loretta had worn for so many years.

ONCE OVER the initial hurdle of self-consciousness, which makes the beginning of this enchanting tale seem comparatively contrived, the Pulitzer Prize-winning author of Harvey and Mrs. McThing gives the story over to her delightful characters. In their hands the telling takes on its special tone of lyrical and spontaneous magic mixed in a delicate balance with realism.

Indeed, the young reader may half expect Mrs. Newby, who talks to the birds and usually leaves her shoes on the bus, to float to the ceiling a la Poppins.

The incredible becomes convincingly credible as a ten-inch Countess and her be-medaled, be-monocled ten-inch General assume command of the Mason family, and the beautiful ballerina doll, Irene Irene Lavene, unwittingly precipitates Judgment Day on both sides of the strange bridge.

Children will want to read this spell-binding story again and again for its ever fresh imagination, its sparkling humor, and lovable characters.

Chamber Music Membership To Include Private Prevues

By GRACE BEALS

Chamber music is as intimate a form of musical expression as its name may imply. Its performance involves a small group of string instrumentalists each contributing an individual musical voice to an integrated whole. Occassionally a wind instrument or two is employed in the musical work with the total number of instruments in any ensemble designated in the title of the work, as in duos, trios, quartets, quintets and on.

The quartet form is probably the best known and most popular of the chamber music groupings today.

Chamber music was first conceived as early as the 17th century when members of the royal houses began to commission musicians to compose and play for them. These performances took place in the "music rooms" of the royal palaces whence comes the derivation of the name, chamber music.

Besides the advantage of involving only a small number of musicians, chamber music has the enviable reputation of being one of the most dignified of musical literatures. It proves a bountiful source of pleasure to those who would try the field. The musical amateur often makes chamber music his hobby and considers it the mainspring of his musical existence. The layman finds himself richly rewarded for his intelligent listening, and the professional musician turns to it for a kind of pleasure that no other field offers.

THE POTENTIAL for the continuing development of this field, by amateurs and professionals alike, is encouraging and unlimited. In these days of increased leisure time, we find ourselves in search of new and satisfying recreational fields. As an outlet for self-expression as well as fulfilling a need for social participation, chamber music knows no equal. We can expect and probably will see a new surge of musical activity as cognizance is given this idea.

The Marin Arts Quartet, founded last year, is a chamber music ensemble of top professional caliber. Believing that the residents of Marin County, in their appreciation of good music and fine art generally, might welcome and support a chamber music ensemble here, the Marin Arts quartet offered a series of three concerts of chamber music at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley last year.

The response was so warm and enthusiastic that the quartet made plans for another concert series again this year. Its first program will take place at 3 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 7, 3 p. m. at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley, with two other concerts scheduled for Feb. 15 and May 24, 1959. The members of the quartet are Charles Meacham and William Pynchon, violinists, Albert White, violist and Jean Maguire, violin-cellist. All are members of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and each enjoys an enviable musical reputation in his own name.

"I WISH I knew more about the background of the music," a comment made last year by a member of the listening audience prompted the quartet to inaugurate a special feature this year in conjunction with its regular concerts.

This new feature will be an abbreviated musical appreciation course given in the form of prevues. Before each concert, the quartet will give an exposition or participate in a discussion of the selections to be played at the forthcoming concerts and will play musical excerpts.

These programs, to be held in private homes on the Thursdays preceding the concert dates are invitational to season subscribers. It is hoped that they will provide a greater appreciation of the forthcoming programs. It may be that they will serve to dispel certain popular illusions that surround this kind of music.

That chamber music is beyond the comprehension of the uninitiated, that it holds little joy for other than the "long-hairs," that it is always solemn, serious and heavy are some of these popular myths that the quartet will quickly tell you and can easily prove are certainly not true.

THERE IS, for instance, a number in the Marin Arts Quartet's repertory that is more Gershwin than Gershwin himself. Interestingly enough, the work in question was composed before Gershwin's time.

And who would suspect without knowing that the popular "Baubles, Bangles and Beads" had its origin in a form of chamber music? However, in their programming which is done with minute, painstaking care it is not the intent of the Marin Arts Quartet to project any special kind of chamber music over any other. Their goal rather is to provide a well-rounded course of programs which will be geared to every listening taste. Its first program will include the Mozart "Quartet, No. 19 in C" (K465), the "Quartet No. 1" (opus 10) by Paul Hindemith and Brahms' "Quartet in C Minor," (opus 51, No. 1).

MEMBERSHIPS, (single $6, double $10) and inquiries may be made by mail, Marin Arts Quartet, Box 95, Mill Valley or by phoning Mrs. Norman Beals of Mill Valley.

Ludwig Altman Concert Marks Rebuilding Of Seminary Organ

To celebrate the reconstruction of the organ of the S. F. Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, Ludwig Altman will give an organ recital at 4:45 p.m. on Nov. 30 in the Montgomery Chapel.

Not only Altman's reputation as an organist makes this recital significant. The important fact is that the organ has been rebuilt in baroque style with the great division entirely exposed in the chapel. While most organs in this area reflect the style of the 19th century this organ will from now on allow true reproductions of compositions from the baroque era which has created the most outstanding masterworks written for organ.

Altman's program, of course, will indulge in the new possibilities for baroque music and therefore lists mostly music of this style. The great Bach will fill the second part of the program while Hofhaimer, Palestrina, Sweelinck and Buxtehude, the organ masters before him, can be savored in the beginning of the recital. Compositions by Haydn, Schumann and contemporary composers will round out the program.

THE NEW REGISTERS of the organ have been made to order by Fr. Jacques Stinkens, of Zeist, Holland. They have been installed by John Swinford, of Redwood City, who has built many organs in the central part of California.

The majority of the new pipes are upper register, and they give a great deal more clarity and brilliance than could be achieved before. The principle of the baroque organ is not to melt the harmonies to one compound (the ideal of the 19th century) but to make each voice distinctly audible. Only when each voice is clearly separated from the other the polyphone lines of the composition will become clear to the listener.

To hear the restyled organ will be a great experience.

Student Photo-Bugs Focus On Scholastic Competition

The 1959 Scholastic-Ansco Photography Awards competition for junior and senior high school students has been announced by the joint sponsors, Scholastic Magazines and Ansco. This competition, which will be marking its 32nd year, has been placed on the Approved List of National Contests and Activities for 1958-59 by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

All students in junior and senior high schools in the United States and its territories may enter. The competition has four divisions, with a total of 15 classifications: Division I—Black and White, for 7th, 8th and 9th grade students; Division II — Black and White, for students in the 10th, 11th and 12th grades; Division III—Color Transparencies, for both junior and senior high school students; Division IV — Snapshots, for students in grades 7 through 9.

Ansco will award cash prizes of $100, $50, and $25 in each classification and will double these awards when the prize-winning photograph is taken with Ansco film. Sylvania Electric Porducts, Inc. will award supplementary cash prizes for winning pictures taken with Sylvania Blue Dot flshbulbs, and two enlargers and darkroom kits will be awarded by the Charles Beseler Company.

Award-winning photographs from the 1958 competition—21 black and white photographs and 10 color transparencies—are included in 70 traveling exhibits, which are available free of charge from December through May to all junior and senior high schools requesting them. Requests should be addressed to: Scholastic-Ansco Photography Awards, 33 West 42nd Street, New York 36, New York.

A rules booklet containing full information on the 1959 Scholastic-Ansco competition may be obtained from any Ansco dealer or by writing to the Scholastic-Ansco Photography Awards at the above address.

Dominican Presents Music Sundays On KTIM Show

When the first rainy Sunday of the season canceled the temptation of the outdoors, it was at last possible to listen to a valuable radio program, "The Pageant of American Music," over KTIM. It has been heard for half an hour at 3:30 p. m. every Sunday since Oct. 5, a presentation of the Radio Players of Dominican College.

The program is directed by Sister M. Cyril, O.P., in collaboration with Sister M. Dominic, O.P., and Mrs. Winifred Baker, all of the college music department.

This series is to continue to May 1—the ninth season, of Dominican College broadcasts, by the way—giving an excellent opportunity to become familiar with American composers in perfect reproductions, judging from last Sunday's presentation.

The program started with four short pieces for piano as recorded by Andor Faldes, the works being by Samuel Barber, Walter Piston, Roger Sessions and Virgil Thompson, of which the Thompson work with a simple rag-time with a simple rag-time rhythm was most appealing.

Also presented was "Tryptic" for soprano (Maria Kraft) and a string quartet (Walden) by Shepherd, based on three Indian poems by Tagore.

Gayle Charles, a sophomore, was the clear-speaking announcer, giving a brief explanation of each piece of music. It was also welcome to have the poems read before they were sung.

Perhaps a word also could be said about each composer, his birthday and where and how he makes his living. Then the name could be repeated (for newcomers) before or after the playing of the composition. It is important to get the name through when introducing American composers to a wider audience. M.B.

NEW YORK BACKGROUND

Sausalito Sculptor Receives Award At Oakland Exhibition

Mary Perry Stone of Sausalito won honorable mention in the sharply juried Oakland Art Museum sculpture annual. She has previously had shows in Sausalito, San Francisco and in the East, where she studied at the Traphagen School of Design.

Her work has been shown at the Metropolitan Museum of Art and Rockefeller Center, among other New York galleries.

The Oakland show was juried to David Slivka, who recently came from New York to join the University of California faculty. He admitted only 25 pieces to the annual, which will be on exhibit through Nov. 26.

Authors By Dozens To Meet Public At Big Party Tomorrow

More than 30 prominent Northern California authors have already accepted invitations to the ninth annual Author's Party, to be held Sunday, November 23, from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Press and Union League Club, 555 Post St., San Francisco.

Authors who have published within the last year will be honored at this traditional affair, sponsored by the San Francisco alumnae chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national fraternity for women in journalism. The public is invited to attend, and proceeds will go toward the group's scholarship fund for journalism students.

Among Marin authors at the parley will be Clement and Edith Thacher Hurd, authors of "Faraway Christmas'; Evans G. Valens, "Me and Frumpet" and Stanton A. Coblenz, with his "Out of Many Songs."

NUMBERED AMONG the Northern California writers who will be present to autograph their books are Eugene Burdick, co-author with William J. Lederer of "The Ugly American," an October Book-of-the-Month selection about Americans in the Far East; Ada Cook Lewis, whose historical novel, "The Longest Night," concerns itself with Paris and the conflicts that led to The Massacre of St. Bartholomew; Mortimer Adler and Louis Kelso, co-authors of the best-selling "Capitalist Manifesto," which calls for a re-examination of American Economic principles; and San Francisco historian Oscar Lewis, with his two literary contributions for 1958, "Fabulous San Simeon" and "The Autobiography of the West."

MODERN GRANDMOTHER

Storms Cut Electric Power But She Kept On Cooking

The storms raged, the power failed, but Lennie Lee went on cooking. In her sleek yellow tile and mahogany kitchen, this pert, modern grandmother was only slightly inconvenienced by the lack of electricity. A few blocks away, her children—also very modern -- were learning to cook over a grate in the fireplace.

"The great thing about gas is that during the storms the electricity is off so much," says Mrs. Lee.

Mrs. Lee might have been in the same fix as her offspring, except that, when she went shopping for a retirement house after her husband, Alfred, died, she fell in love with a view of Mt. Tamalpais.

"I'LL TAKE IT," she said from the front door, looking over a clutter of sawhorses and planks to the big picture window.

Up to this time, Mrs. Lee had cooked with electricity in her old-fashioned two-story house. The new home, which promised convenience at every turn, happened to be far enough along that the kitchen range and oven — automatic gas units—were already installed. They were the choice of contractor Charles Hendrickson, who had intended the house for himself.

The units were surfaced in a rich bittersweet brown porcelain. Since colors were Mrs. Lee's choice, she had the mahogany finished in a cocoa tone with walls painted nearly matching. Over the stove are plain and patterned tiles in butter yellow, with ceiling to match. Linoleum is cocoa flecked with color.

THE OVEN ALL but thinks for itself. When Mrs. Lee leaves her Marin County retreat for luncheon or shopping in San Francisco, she sets the oven to turn on at a given time, cook at pre-set temperature for the required number of minutes and turn itself off. Range burners can be adjusted to exactly the right height. The overhead fan whisks off all cooking odors.

While Mrs. Lee need not pinch her pennies, the gas appliances are saving her money. In the city of San Rafael, where she lives the supply is piped-in gas. The same appliances would also burn liquid petroleum gas, such as butane or propane from a tank.

Secret Of Smoother Color On Wood—Finish It First

"If it is intended for a kitchen," Stroeberger said, "I cut every piece of wood paneling to fit, then add color and install it. Of course, this applies to paneling and all sorts of built-ins throughout the home. Do your finishing and your coloring before you install the wood."

By finishing out your panel boards where you can work on them easily on your bench, Stroeberger said, you insure even color coverage.

FOUR STEPS in good wood treatment in any room, he said, are:

1. Sanding, the key to satin smooth finishing, using coarse sandpaper first, then finer grades until the wood achieves a soft, delicate touch;

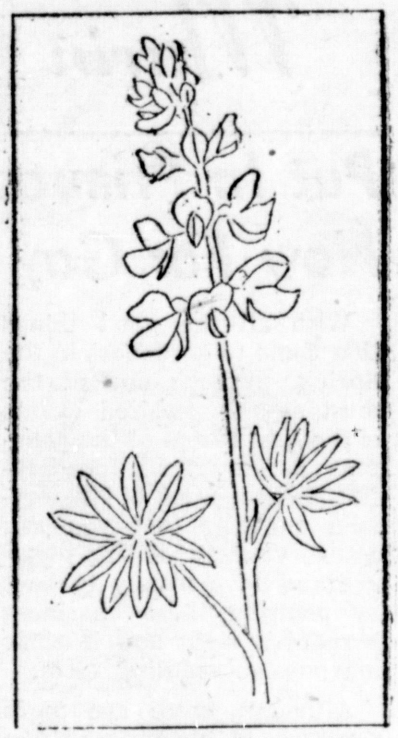
2. Sealing wood on both faces, edges, and ends to insure adequate protection from moisture and temperature changes;

3. Staining, whether color or paint, to be applied to the wood before installing. If clear varnish or lacquer is used, then apply to wood after sealer has been added;

4. Installing pre-finished panels: Drive finish nails blind at angle into tongue so next panel will cover, being careful not to mar the wood.

YOU SHOULD sandpaper wood after the sealer has been added, and you should use steel wool after each coat of lacquer.

You may use lacquer several coats deep over stain, paint, or clear wood to bring out the beauty of texture and grain of such lovely panel boards as west coast hemlock or Douglas fir.



LUPINE (Lupinus sp.) — Many lupines, varying from low annuals to woody shrubs, grow in Marin. However, whether their flowers be yollow, white, or blue, or whether they grow in grassy fields, open woods, roadside cuts, or sandy dunes, they may be recognized by their pea-shaped blossoms and palmately compound leaves (3-17 leaflets from a common center). In some years they form solid sheets of blue make an especially beauon our open hills, and tiful display if intermingled with the poppy's gold. (From Out-of Doors in Marin, Copyright by M. F. Austin.)

Indoor Geraniums

You can keep a potted geranium blooming unseasonally —in fact, all year along — by moving it indoors when cold weather sets in. Keep it near a window where it gets as much light as possible. Since it probably won't dry out as fast indoors, take care not to overwater: lightly every third day should be enough. A light application of complete plant food will also help at this time.

Put In Primrose Seedlings Now For Gay Spring Border

With all the good things that come to gardeners in the Spring, perhaps one of the most eagerly awaited events is the first bloom of the primrose border. And the California Association of Nurserymen suggests that you can assure yourself of this pleasure and save money to boot by planting these charming perennials right now in their inexpensive seedling form.

Although there are more varieties of primroses than you can shake a trowel at, perhaps the type most closely associated with the name is the polyanthus. This type is characterized by the attractive clusters of individual flowers in gorgeous colors. These are borne on stiff straight stems that emerge from bright wooly green leaves at the base of the plant.

FOR MOST EFFECTIVE results, many people prefer to plant the primrose in borders — especially large drifts of single colors alternated with other contrasting or complimentary shades. Others enjoy the rainbow effect of mixed colors against a background of evergreens. But whichever way you plant these lovelies, they will be a treasure.

Primroses have simple cultural requirements. They like rich humus worked into the soil before planting and a mulch afterwards. They need water during the growing period and at least partial shade during the summer.

The primrose lends itself happily to pot culture. You can plant them in pots now and set them in the ground where you desire the spring color. Or you can mass them in pots and move them on to your porch and patio once they start blooming. The main thing about primroses is—everybody wants them.

So, for well established plants this spring at lower cost, be sure to make your selection now at your local nursery.

GARDENER'S CHECKLIST

- ✔Get after those earwigs. You'll find them in damp places, under boards or at the base of a fence. Ask your nurseryman to recommend a spray.
- ✔Start crab grass control now with one of the pre-emergence seed killers. Several applications between now and next summer may be necessary in order to get all the seed in the ground.
- ✔If you have a camellia that needs moving, now is the time. Make sure soil is moist before you dig it up.
- ✔Keep planting perennials. You'll never get them any cheaper than they are this time of year as seedlings.
- ✔Long new canes on climbing roses must be tied to maintain their form and resist winter weather. Tie loosely rather than taughtly.

Tarnished Camellias

Nothing more frustrates the gardener than a camellia which persists with yellowed leaves despite repeated feedings. This is usually a telltale sign that the plant lacks iron, but stubborn plants even resist iron sulfate at times. If such is the case, the plant cannot assimilate iron. Often the soil is not acid enough, but sometimes the plant is just plain stubborn. In either case, an iron chelating compound, which holds the iron in suspension until it is absorbed by the roots, will be your best bet to green up the plant.

ALL-AMERICANS

Joyous And Sparkler Debut As New Gladioli For 1959

The All-America Award is a symbol of quality and distinction to home gardeners everywhere. The testing programs established by the various groups of All-America Selections have given encouragement to gardeners and is taking the "guess work" out of a fascinating hobby that is growing by leaps and bounds.

Just announced are the All-America Gladiolus selections for 1959—Joyous and Sparkler. An exciting new creation of John J. Flad, Joyous is an elegant, rich deep rose colored glad. It is formal in type and eight or more lovely florets open at once, with the rich deep color spreading throughout the flower as each floret opens. The plants are healthy and vigorous.

Joyous will be a heart-warming addition to any garden and a resplendent touch of color in a floral composition.

AS GRACEFUL as a butterfly and just as colorful, Sparkler is a gay, happy combination of yellow and red. Carl Fischer has created this skillful blending of colors. The florets are ruffled and triangular in shape, giving an airy butterfly-effect. The color combination is most intriguing, being both striking and harmonious.

Each All-America winner is grown and rated in each of the 35 All-America trial gardens located coast to coast in the United States and Canada. All North American gladiolus hybridists have the privilege of entering their outstanding new originations for the All-America Award, and recommendation by this non-profit industry-wide organization is recognized as the most coveted award for any gladiolus.

All-America glads are protected by United States plant patents. They are sold at uniform, low prices by reputable dealers throughout the United States and Canada. Each bag contains the registered trademark which is your assurance of genuine bulbs.

Ay, An' A Wee Bit O' Heather Brightens Th' Heart O' Many

Mention Scotch heather to anyone and chances are you'll strike a sentimental note somewhere. It makes little difference that he's not a Scotsman nor even seen Scotland. For heather—like wee bonnie lasses and the banks of Clyde—has earned universal fame. Many are the non-Scots who cherish it.

We might do well to overlook the fact that much of the "Scotch heather" sold by florists in the U. S. is grown in California. Yet if this seems unromantic, it's still nice to know that we can grow it with such success.

Most widely grown of all heathers in California are Pink Scotch Heather and Red Scotch Heather. Vigorous members of the family, they reach five feet in height, occasionally more. Flowers come from late fall to early spring on long sprays. Depending on variety, they are lilac pink to deep rose with black tips. Best ask a member of the California Association of Nurserymen which you are getting.

There may be room for only Scotch heather in your heart, but there is room for other members of the family in your garden.

Happy Thanksgiving!

Don't miss "Harvest Days," Friday and Saturday, Nov. 28-29, at HOY'S during "Farm-City" week! Open 'til 9 pm. Friday and all day Saturday.

Our friend, Florence Sakade, of Tokyo, Japan, just sent us: Japanese Children's Favorite Stories, which she edited It is published by the Charles E. Tuttle Co., of Rutland, Vermont and Tokyo, Japan, and has whimsical, colorful illustrations. Delightful!

This reminded us of our very pleasant meeting some years ago in San Francisco. We both appeared on KPIX-TV for an interview with Del Courtney. Miss Sakade did the interpreting for T. Matsui, who published children's stories — with the dedicated purpose of promoting U.S.A.-Asian understanding. T. Matsui is a member of Rotary International — and very proud of it too!

You too can enjoy international communications with a MAGNAVOX all-transistor portable Global radio for $139.90 from HOY'S! London, Tokyo, Paris, Rome—you can get them all on this small, powerful radio!

HOY'S has a remarkable, compact: German portable radio too with self-contained antenna and AM-FM-Shortwave reception! The price? Just $129.95! Like music? The German TEFIFON plays reels 4 hours, has a radio, costs $159.95!

Programs For Nov. 22-29

TURKEY FOR PANHANDLER

Red Skelton plays Freddie the Freeloader who has to get a Thanksgiving Day turkey dinner the hard way from a stone-hearted restaurant owner, portrayed by guest star William Frawley, in an all-pantomine broadcast of "The Red Skelton Show," 8:30 p.m. Tuesday over KPIX (Channel 5).

'Dr. Zhivago' Case Topic Of TV Report

"The Case of Dr. Zhivago," a special feature report on Boris Pasternak, this year's Nobel Prize winner in literature, will be presented at 2 p.m. tomorrow over KPIX (Channel 5). The special program will tell the story of the controversial author whose prize-winning novel, "Dr. Zhivago," is banned in the author's own home nation, the Soviet Union.

The position of the author in Communist society will be discussed and reported by Harrison E. Salisbury, former Moscow correspondent of The New York Times; George Reavey, former deputy press attache of the British Embassy in Moscow, long-time friend of Mr. Pasternak and translator of many Pasternak poetic works into English; Jerry Cooke, who recently photographed the Russian author for Life magazine; and Marvin Kalb, CBS News staff writer, whose new book, "Eastern Exposure," is based on his experiences while attached to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

Russ Dance Troupe

Disney Duplicates 'Oldest Building'

Among the edifices lining the new "western street" set at Walt Disney Studios in Burbank is a replica of the oldest public building in the United States—the Palace of Governors at Sante Fe, New Mexico.

It has been constructed for use in "Elfego — Lawman or Gunman," next Friday's offering of "Walt Disney Presents." This is the third in the group of "Disney Presents" dramas dealing with the life of Elfego Baca, colorful real-life lawman, attorney and politico of New Mexico. (KGO-TV, Channel 7 at 8 p.m.)

'Science Capsules' To Be Expanded

Tom Groody's "Science Capsule" programs, originally packaged as five-minute digests of scientific information explained in a layman's language, will now be presented as quarter-hour shows in a regular weekly series on Channel 7, beginning Friday, Dec. 12.

Slated for late afternoon viewing (5:15-5:30 p. m.) these "Science Capsule" programs feature Dr. Tom Groody of Belvedere in the role of an 'answer man,' who gives scientific reasons behind the answers with appropriate visual demonstrations, drawings and other aids.

That Noise You Here On TV Is Conversation

NEW YORK (UPI) — That strange sound coming from television sets these days is something called talk. You know—chit-chat. Conversation. The spoken word.

The talking that's going on in TV has the trend-spotters talking.

Money doesn't matter. Nor does music, choreography, scenery or song. The emphasis is on talk. And making up this talk-trend are such loquacious luminaries as Jack Paar, Arthur Godfrey, Jackie Gleason, Oscar Levant, Ben Hecht, Edward R. Murrow and David Susskind.

TALK SHOW BOOKED

Significantly, when the "Big Daddy" of the big quizz shows, "$64,000 Question" passed away early this month, it was replaced by "Keep Talking," a game show in which the talkers compete by trying to insert weird phrases into wild stories.

Arthur Godfrey and Jackie Gleason eariler this month held five televised morning conferences on Godfrey's CBS-TV show.

All they did was sit and talk about such things as TV critics, booze, golf, booze, smoking, show business, and booze, and let the laughs fall where they might.

DADDY OF CHIT-CHAT

Jack Paar, of course, has been engaging in midnight chit-chat with his guests ever since July 1957, and many regard him as the original talk-trend pioneer. However, others in the industry believe the talk-trend's roots can be traced back to 1956 and "The Mike Wallace Interview."

In Hollywood, Oscar Levant is the televiewers' chief talk-trender. Levant's emphasis is on id stuff rather than kid stuff and when he and Jack Paar got together recently for a nationally televised chat, Oscar unburdened himself of such major conversational chords as: "I have my own hallucinations. I don't have to go to Disneyland." Or, "He thought everything was wonderful all the time—you know, like Dinah Shore?"

Ben Hecht, self-styled "author and iconoclast," spends 25 minutes each weekday night in New York talking to a guest. The chatter is long on reminiscences about the roaring 20s and usually short on time.

THIS IS A PILGRIM?

If this puckish Pilgrim had attended that first Thanksgiving at Plymouth in 1621, it's unlikely we'd observe the day with such solemnity. For the man in the mustache is Jackie Gleason, the man who likes to leave 'em laughing.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

SECOND FREEWAY PROJECT AT GREENBRAE

Work is progressing rapidly on second freeway project at Greenbrae interchange, Highway 101 and Sir Francis Drake boulevard. New project, costing $1,800,000, will provide on-ramp structure (above, right) from Drake boulevard to southbound freeway lanes, plus northbound freeway bridge and pedestrian overcrossing near Lucky drive. Viewing construction scene is Jack Lowell of San Jose, pump operator for Dan Caputo Co., one of the contracting firms on project. In background (at left), new Greenbrae Lanes bowling center, now nearing completion, can be seen. (Independent-Journal photo)

West Set To Use Force If W. Berlin Blockaded

Russian Announcement Expected Next Week

BERLIN (UPI)—Authoritative sources reported the West ready tonight to meet force with force if Russia's promised "liquidation" of four-power rights in Berlin turns into a new blockade.

A report that the Russians would turn over control of Western allied lifelines to the East German Communists today turned out to be premature, but Moscow reports said there was no evidence of a change in Soviet intentions.

It was expected now that the official Russian announcement would come early next week, possibly Monday.

Berlin sources said Western commanders already had their orders for dealing with any attempt by Russia or its East German satellite to encroach on the vital air corridors linking this outpost with the West.

West German Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano flew into Berlin today to confer with West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt on the increasingly grave situation, touched off by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's announcement that Russia soon would bring Berlin's occupation status to an end.

Cat-and-mouse tactics in Moscow increased the tension.

An East German radio broadcast said the Soviet Union would make its proposals on the "eradication of the occupation status of Berlin in Moscow this morning."

The United States, Britain and France now maintain an estimated 7,500 troops in West Berlin under terms of the Potsdam agreement, which the Communists now say is no longer valid. Their supplies depend on land and air corridors through the heart of Communist East Germany.

The West has insisted that, regardless of any one-sided action by Moscow, the occupational status of Berlin must continue and that the West will insist on its right of entry into the isolated city.

On his arrival here today, Brentano reiterated that "I do believe that the Berlin position will be maintained, although of course the situation is serious."

WEATHER BALLOON PUTS ON SHOW OVER MARIN

The usual flurry that occurs when a weather balloon drifts over Marin County was manifested again yesterday afternoon.

Phone calls reporting the balloon or asking about the "strange object in the sky" deluged Hamilton Air Force Base and the Independent-Journal. The pattern was the same throughout the Bay Area.

In Marin, the brightly glowing 150-foot diameter balloon was seen from Mill Valley to Novato as it floated east to west at a high altitude.

The balloon was launched from the Navy Weather Research Laboratory at Vernalis in San Joaquin County.

2 Boys Quizzed In Shooting Of Ex-Marinite

Two San Mateo boys, aged 14 and 15, are being questioned in Truckee in connection with the Nov. 12 shooting of Duffy Lambert Midyett, 23-year-old former San Rafael resident.

Midyett, wounded by a bullet fired from a .22 caliber rifle, is recovering at Tahoe Forest Hospital. He is the son of Mrs. Dorothy Midyett of San Rafael and stepson of Donald E. Midyett, chief criminal investigator for the Marin district attorney's office.

The victim, employed on a Highway 40 construction project near Truckee, told authorities he was shot by one of two teen-aged boys he had ordered to keep away from a pile of lumber.

The two San Mateo boys were picked up in Fallon, Nev., this week on suspicion of nine automobile thefts and an armed robbery. Officers said the youths have admitted they were in Truckee with a .22 caliber rifle the day Midyett was wounded. The boys said they sold the rifle in Truckee.

Purchasing Policy Of County Hit

Marin County's purchasing procedure was attacked, defended and attacked again yesterday in an exchange between a Mill Valley auto dealer and a county official over county purchase of 14 new cars Tuesday.

Bob Dexter Dolman, general manager of Tamalpais Motor Sales, Mill Valley Ford dealership, complained because the board of supervisors made an "across-the-board" contract award for the cars to Ames Ford Sales of San Rafael.

He charged that Ames was low on a total bid for the 14 cars, but that his firm was lower than Ames on two of the vehicles. He said that when the situation was reversed last July, the county awarded contracts for individual cars. This time, it made a single award for all 14.

EXPRESSES DISGUST

Dolman expressed disgust with the procedure, and threatened to stop submitting bids on county car purchases.

Asst. County Administrator Alan Bruce, in the absence of Administrator Donald A. Jensen who recommended the procedure to the board, said there were two reasons for the decision:

1. In the July bidding for 19 cars, Tamalpais Motors was low bidder over-all by $560, but the county found it could save an additional $240 by splitting the awards and buying eight of the cars from Ames. This time, he said, Ames was low over-all by $1,521 and the extra saving through splitting the awards would have amounted to only $11.78—not enough, Bruce said, to cover the administrative costs of the extra paper work involved.

2. In July, Tamalpais Motors was awarded 11 cars and delivered only five.

UNABLE TO DELIVER

On this point, Bruce said Tamalpais Motors claimed it was unable to obtain the cars from the factory "but Ames had no trouble getting theirs. It was quite clear from the discussion at the (supervisors) meeting that they had overstated their trade-in allowance and were therefore backing out of the deal."

Tells All Departments To Cut Budgets For Next Fiscal Year To Revised Level

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI)—The White House disclosed today that President Eisenhower has ordered all departments and agencies to make an intensive effort to cut their 1960 budgets in line with his campaign for substantially reducing federal spending.

The chief executive has sent a memorandum to each department and agency head, calling on them to "live with" revisions of their budgets for the next fiscal year as sent back to them by Budget Director Maurice F. Stans.

Press secretary James C. Hagerty said the big Defense Department budget remains to be settled. Secretary of Defense Neil H. McElroy and Stans may fly to Augusta next week to talk over the 1960 budget with the vacationing Eisenhower.

The President's interdepartmental memo was signed and distributed Thursday just before he flew south for a golfing vacation that will extend through the Thanksgiving weekend.

Hagerty said the memo informed the department chiefs that Stans was revising their 1960 budgets and they shortly would receive from the Budget Bureau new—and reduced—spending plans for the coming fiscal year which begins July 1.

"He requested all department and agency heads to live within those figures received from the Budget Bureau unless (in their opinion) they thought those figures would impair the security and welfare of the United States," Hagerty told reporters, after receiving press inquiries about the memoranda.

The press secretary did not want to be drawn into a discussion of details, but he made it plain that the budget bureau revisions involved widespread reductions in original budget estimates.

Sonoma Accident Kills Novato Man

Herman A. Cotton, 7 Joan avenue, died of head injuries suffered when his southbound half-ton pickup truck, driven by his wife, Lydia G., 32, crossed the divider strip on Highway 101 and overturned. Cotton was thrown out and crushed by the truck. He was dead on arrival at Petaluma General Hospital.

Sonoma County Deputy Coroner Bob Pope said Mrs. Cotton, who was not injured, was too distraught to explain how she lost control of the truck. Cotton was in the crab business, and the couple was returning from a business trip.

Pope said he believes the Cottons have four children.

Four Hurt In Collision On Puerto Suello Hill

Accident-ridden Puerto Suello Hill was the scene yesterday evening of a two-car collision in which four persons were injured. Most seriously hurt was a 77-year-old Willits woman, a passenger.

A pick-up truck northbound on Highway 101 driven by Simpson Hattan, 52-year-old El Cerrito carpenter, crossed the center divider strip, according to California Highway Patrol Officer Jack Edwards. The truck was hit on its right side by a southbound car driven by John Harold Robinson, 54, a Willits lumber company owner, Officer Edwards said. The accident is still under investigation.

Robinson's mother, Mrs. Mildred Robinson, 77, was admitted to San Rafael General Hospital with severe injuries and was reported in good condition today. The accident happened at 6:50 p.m. yesterday.

Also reported in good condition today at the hospital was Robinson's wife, Alice, 56, who suffered abrasions of the lower abdomen.

The two drivers, Robinson and Hattan, received emergency treatment at the hospital and were released.

United Parcel Strike Ends

A four-day tieup of store parcel deliveries in Marin and other West Bay counties has ended with settlement of a drivers' strike against United Parcel Service in San Francisco.

The settlement was approved last night by a 147 to 16 vote of the membership of Teamsters' Local 278, San Francisco. Terms will not be announced until other locals, including Local 624 in San Rafael, have voted on them.

The strike halted United Parcel operations in Marin, although there was no strike by local employees. Stanley Walker, manager of the firm's San Rafael branch, said this week he was forced to lay off 21 drivers because all package sorting is done in San Francisco and there was no merchandise in San Rafael to be delivered.

AT NEXT SESSION

McCarthy May Try Bay Authority Bill

A bill to consolidate operation of the Bay Area's bridges, airports and port facilities under a single authority may be introduced at the next session of the state Legislature, State Sen. John F. McCarthy of San Rafael said yesterday.

Addressing members of several San Francisco Chamber of Commerce committees, the Marin Republican said action by the Legislature would hinge on recommendations stemming from current independent studies of the proposal.

McCarthy said demands of the Bay Area's population growth make some sort of control agency necessary. He cited lack of local control in the field of bridges, with tolls ranging from 25 cents to 75 cents.

He also noted a lack of coordination in planning between the San Francisco and Oakland International Airports and between the ports of the Bay Area. If an over-all Golden Gate Authority were created to administer such operations, McCarthy said, the ultimate "ideal" would be a merger of that agency with the present Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

DENY 'DISREGARD'

Corte Maderans Hit Sewer Cost Critic

Two of Corte Madera's public officials today disputed a charge of "cynical disregard for cost" on the part of the five directors of Corte Madera Sanitary District.

At stake is an $850,000 general obligation bond issue to be voted on Tuesday. A two-thirds majority is necessary for approval.

The Corte Madera Sanitary District plans to construct its own $505,000 treatment plant with a portion of the bond issue.

Yesterday Harry N. Jenks, consulting engineer for the Ross Valley Sanitary District, charged the Corte Madera district directors with a "cynical disregard for cost" in proposing to go it alone instead of signing an agreement to pay the Ross Valley district for additional capacity at Ross Valley's Greenbrae sewage treatment plant.

Rippe said that Jenks in 1955 estimated Corte Madera would have to contribute $100,000 to enlarge the Greenbrae treatment plant of Ross Valley Sanitary District. "If Jenks truly decries 'cynical disregard for cost' then why did he not comment on the discrepancy between his estimate of $100,000 and the present asking price of $365,000 for 1,175,000 gallons a day capacity at the Greenbrae plant?" asked Rippe.

Continuing his reply, Rippe said as to leaning over backward on the part of Ross Valley district directors, "I can state from knowledge gained while the leaning was going on, which Jenks cannot do, that every concession that was obtained came only after much heat and discussion.

"The proposed contract con-

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Invitations Issued To Holiday Parties

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

After this weekend's Big Game parties are over we go right into the holiday season. With the way invitations are pouring in, it looks like a goodly number of popular Marinites will be dashing from one party to another on many a night.

MORE THAN 400 guests will attend the cocktail party to be given a week from tonight at the Meadow Club when the hosts will be the Otto Poehlmanns, Sam Gardiners and Harold Riede. This will be the second year the five have joined forces to entertain their friends during the holiday season.

AT THEIR HOME in San Rafael's Country Club Tract, the Walter Castros Jr. are entertaining 20 couples at a cocktail party a week from tonight.

TO CELEBRATE the birthday of Robert Barret Holland, he and his wife are entertaining at a dinner party for about 30 friends on Sunday, Nov. 30, at their home in Sausalito.

MANY GUESTS have been invited by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee to their cocktail party at their Country Club Tract home on Dec. 7.

A MID-WEEK event will be the dinner the Roger Darrows are giving at the Meadow Club on Dec. 3 and to which they've invited about 50 friends.

"YOU'ALL ARE INVITED" say the two cocktail olives on the invitation sent by the Don Flemings to about 120 friends for their cocktail party and dinner dance at the Meadow Club on Dec. 18. They chose a midweek date so that many of their friends who are duck hunters could attend. The weekends are dedicated for hunting during this time of year.

"CANDLELIGHT FANTASY" is the name two young couples have given to the party they are co-hosting at the Corte Madera Recreation Center. The couples, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Saltzman and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watt, who are now neighbors in Villa Real, gave holiday parties together for five years when they lived in San Francisco and are carrying on the tradition here. Their invitations to about 200 friends read: "Diane and Lorellen (Chick and Dick, too) are focusing the light directly on you. A night filled with gaiety, candlelight and wine, dining and dancing will add to your time. On Dec. 14, at the stroke of eight, the candles will be burning for you and your date."

A FORMAL DINNER will be the Lagunitas Club's holiday event. It will take place on Dec. 20 and now in the planning stage are cocktail parties to precede it.

AN OPEN HOUSE and cocktail party are being hosted by the Waddell Smiths at their home, Pony Express Retreat, in San Rafael on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 7. Waddell, whose major interest these days is the Pony Express Centennial of 1960 (he is president of the National Pony Express Centennial Association) returned on Wednesday from a flying trip. On Monday he visited for more than an hour with the former President, Harry S. Truman, in his offices in the Truman Library in Independence. Waddell, whose great grandfather, William Bradford Waddell, was one of the three founders of the Pony Express which ran from St. Joseph, Mo. to California, and Mr. Truman have many interests in common. Mr. Truman said his grandfather was an overland freighter and had made two trips from Missouri to Sacramento in 1852 and later had made many trips to Salt Lake City from Independence. The pioneer also owned a rancho near Sacramento. On Tuesday Waddell presided at a meeting of the centennial association at the Broadmoor Hotel in Colorado Springs.

Yesterday he went to Beale Air Force Base near Marysville to meet an old friend, Gen. Thomas S. Power, who is commanding general of the Strategic Air Command, having succeeded Gen. Curtis LeMay who is now chief of staff of the Air Force. After lunch with Col. Creasman, the base commander at Beale, Waddell and General Power went pheasant hunting.

A TEA at the Century Club in San Francisco on Dec. 11 is being given by Mrs. Frank Stratford to honor Mrs. John Merryman, who has served as president of the Northgate Group of the Marin Art and Garden Center for two years. On Wednesday Mrs. Merryman entertained at a luncheon at the Alta Mira. Pink predominated in the decor and that was also the color of the champagne served before luncheon. Maryellen Merryman was assisted in decorating the pink cloth covered U-shaped table by Mrs. Curtis Knowles. Centerpiece was a large silver tray filled with Tokay grapes, pink Apollo carnations, eggplant and Osage oranges. This same arrangement was carried out with the large silver tureens at each end of the table. On the place cards for the 34 guests were pink matchboxes ornamented with pearls and glitter.

Mrs. Leavitt Olds was stunning in a gray flannel coat dress with white mink collar and a white mink hat. She arrived with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Newell Dodge of Atherton. Holly red were the suit and satin hat of Mrs. A. C. Daniels. Mrs. S. Nicholas Jacobs came over from San Francisco. Also noted in the group were Mesdames William H. Price, Rolla B. Hess, Russell Westover Jr. and Arthur Feidler.

Maryellen and John have already made plans for the New Year's. On Dec. 31, they're taking their daughter, Memo, and son, Spencer, to the Yosemite where they'll stay at the Ahwahnee.

HOLIDAYS IN HAWAII are being anticipated by the Wallace Scotts of Belvedere who are flying to the islands on Dec. 12. They will headquarter at the Royal Hawaiian for a month.

MODELING in the fashion show of the Sinsters' spectacular Jet Fete on Tuesday night in the new jet hanger at the San Francisco International Airport were two Marin Spinsters, Kathie Kirk and Dorothy Burnett, career girls who share a San Francisco apartment. The models alighted from the United Airlines five million dollar Douglas DC-8 jet airliner which had landed earlier in the day. Theme of the style show was "You're There Before You Know it." It was a feature of the dancing party and champagne supper, a benefit for Travelers' Aid. Katherine Dibblee, daughter of the Harrison Dibblees of Ross, was one of the new Spinsters welcomed at the fete.

FIVE MARIN COUNTY couples, Messrs. and Mesdames John Munson, Gregory Sheehan, James Peggs, George Ball and James McLaughlin entertained at a cocktail and dinner party on Tuesday night before the Cinema Fantasy of the Golden Gate Kindergarten Association Auxiliary at the home of Mrs. Munson's father, George Bont, in San Francisco. Among the guests were Dr. and Mrs. James Dawson, Messrs. and Mesdames Ronald Hubbard, Henry Wilks, John D. Morse Jr., Neil Fulton, David Grennsfelder, Philip Crane, Jack Curley, James Greaver, William Curley, Warren Heiman, John Hale, Jack Loutzenheiser, Ed French, Leo Harrison; also Mrs. William Carewe and Mrs. Dean Solinsky whose husbands were out of town on business.

PLANNING A WEDDING is Betty Lou Miller, whose engagement to Allen Bruce Simontacchi has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Joseph Miller of Dayton, Ohio. The young man is the son of Mrs. Fredia Stumm and Bruno Simontacchi of San Rafael. The wedding will take place in Dayton on Dec. 27.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Joseph Miller of Dayton, Ohio, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Betty Lou, to Allen Bruce Simontacchi. The young man is the son of Mrs. Fredia Stumm and Bruno Simontacchi of San Rafael. The wedding will take place at 11 o'clock on Saturday morning, Dec. 27, at St. Albert the Great Church in Dayton.

The bride-elect, a teacher at Julienne High School, is a graduate of St. Joseph Commercial High School and the University of Dayton where she was a member of Omega Society. Prospective bridegroom, a San Rafael High School graduate, is employed as an electrician in Dayton.

Italian designers plan a giant caravan across the United States. A group called the Italian Festival of Fashion will show 2,200 pounds of clothes and accessories, from high-fashion apparel to ready-to-wear, in six cities. Designers making the trip include Simonetta, Fabiani, Pucci and Emilio.

Novato Accordionists Presenting Programs

Seven pupils of Novato Accordion Studio and Lynne Balz, vocal soloist, gave a program for the Woodwardia Circle, Neighbors of Woodcraft in San Rafael recently.

This same group, which is under the direction of Mrs. Grove Owen, will go to the Veterans Home at Yountville Dec. 7 to take part in the Veterans of Foreign Wars Christmas party program there. The Novato group will be representing the Donald V. Westlund VFW Auxiliary.

Space Talks With Russ Given Up

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) The United States and its supporters abandoned attempts at outer space negotiations with the Russians and pushed a take-it-or-leave-it proposal today.

The 20 associated nations decided to act on their own after talks broke down between the United States and Russia over makeup of a committee to make recommendations for U.N. supervision of peaceful exploration of outer space.

The group, which already had put a space resolution before the U.N. General Assembly's Political Committee, decided to submit a new draft without further talks with the Soviets. The revised draft was handed in last night.

The Western plan calls for an 18-nation study group that would lay the groundwork for a permanent U.N. space committee.

The list is composed of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union as major powers; Belgium, Italy and Sweden from Western Europe; Czechoslovakia and Poland from the Communist bloc; India, Iran, Japan and the United Arab Republic from the Asian-African bloc; Argentina, Brizil and Mexico from the Latin-American group; Australia and Canada representing nations with special interest in outer space.

The East-West negotiations collapsed yesterday after Soviet Dep. Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin stood fast by his demands for three Soviet satellites on the smaller slate and attempted to dictate who the Western members would be. His list of 11, giving Russia a probable six votes, included the same four major powers, India, the U.A.R., Sweden, Argentina, Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia.

Zorin was reported to have told Lodge his government would agree to naming Canada and two Latin-American countries, provided they were Argentina and Mexico.

Grieving Widow Gives Power A Farewell Kiss

There were 125 other mourners in the tiny Chapel of the Psalms yesterday. Among them Gregory Peck, James Stewart, Loretta Young, Yul Brynner and Henry Fonda.

The other mourners marched out.

As he did so, Mrs. Power gave Ty a farewell kiss. Then she walked to a waiting limousine.

She still was composed as she walked from the limousine to her husband's grave. There, the chaplain delivered the brief committal service for the actor whose heart attack death a week ago today in Madrid stunned movie fans everywhere.

The crowd, in its hurry, gave a circus—or Hollywood Premiere — touch that marred the dignity of the funeral.

Linda Christian, Power's second wife, and their two children did not attend the rites, by express request of the widow.

Rancher Fined $250 For Drunken Driving

Judge Richard M. Sims sentenced Warrington Dorst, 55, who was arrested at Francisco boulevard and Irwin street in San Rafael on Nov. 12. Dorst was also put on 90 days' probation.

Laborer Jailed In Brawl With Wife

Willie White, 35, of House 721 was taken to Marin General Hospital for treatment of a three-inch cut on his left arm. Then he was booked in jail on a citizen's arrest by Lee Ella Davis, 38, who lived with him as his wife.

She told investigators she had caught White with another woman and accosted him. She complained he struck her. White declared she attacked with a knife and a hammer, and he was forced to defend himself.

TWA Grounded

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Trans World Airlines planes were grounded all over the world today by a strike of 6,700 machinists who refused a last-ditch settlement offer by the company. Flights that were in the air yesterday were permitted to go on to their final destination, but all schedules originating after the strike deadline yesterday morning were canceled.

Lopez Concedes

Caril May Appeal

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Attorneys for Caril Ann Fugate, 15, convicted of murder, prepared today to appeal her case to the state Supreme Court if necessary. A jury yesterday found the slim brunette guilty of first-degree murder for aiding and abetting mass killer Charles Starkweather in one of his 11 admitted slayings. A life sentence was prescribed.

Kidnaper Appeals

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Sex-kidnaper Edward S. Wein has asked the California Supreme Court to stay his execution, scheduled for Dec. 5 at San Quentin Prison. The state and U.S. Supreme Courts previously have denied appeals by Wein, convicted in Los Angeles of a series of rape attacks.

France To Vote

PARIS (UPI)—French political experts feared today that confusion and apathy among voters on the eve of tomorrow's first Fifth Republic elections could result in a resurgence of the Communist Party. Previous election predictions had forecast a devastating defeat for the Reds at the polls tomorrow. However, reports from election districts all over the country indicating that only 60 per cent of the voters may cast their ballots raised a new cry of alarm.

Convicts Cut Heels

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Three Alcatraz convicts who cut their Achilles tendons with razor blades will have about three weeks immobilized in casts to think it over.

Warden Paul Madigan said it would take that long for the tendons to knit.

He indicated their lack of privileges while in segregated cells—in the dismal D-block—probably was behind the gesture yesterday by two bank robbers and one car thief. Madigan refused to identify them.

Parks On Schedule

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's five-year-plan for state parks is on schedule at the half-way mark, it was reported today by Newton B. Drury, chief of the Division of Beaches and Parks.

He said the state now has 150 parks, beaches and historic monuments, with a total of 615,000 acres and a book value of 73 million dollars.

U.C. Budget Set

BERKELEY (AP)—University of California regents have approved a $140,570,429 operating budget for all campuses for the next fiscal year. This is an increase of $13,849,055 or 10.8 per cent over the current year's budget.

Man's Kisses Bring Charge Of Assault

The girl, Jean Hedwig Thorman, 17, of 1117 Fourth street, Novato, told officers she took the bus about 6:30 p.m. Wednesday from San Rafael, where she is an office worker.

She said Walters sat down next to her and offered her candy, which she refused. Then, during the ride to Novato, he grabbed her by the arm and kissed her on the mouth, neck and cheek, she said.

When she got off at Novato, she said, he followed her out. An unidentified man at Novato saw she was in trouble and led her across the street to where her fiance, John Antonio Jr. was waiting in a car.

Antonio later called the sheriff's office.

Deputies arrested Walters at the golf club and booked him for disturbing the peace, assault and battery and drunkenness. He was freed Thursday on $350 bail.

Burglars Break Into Rug Firm

Burglars broke into the office of the Banfield Rug Co. at 111 Magnolia avenue, Larkspur, some time Thursday night, Police Chief Howard Clark reported.

Chief Clark said a rear door was found open by Mrs. Sue Banfield, co-owner, when she arrived for work yesterday. There was no sign of forcible entry, the chief said. A small cash box was pried open. Mrs. Banfield said there had been no money in the box, however. Nothing else was missing.

Two Events Easing Traffic Situation In San Rafael

Two things have happened in recent days to improve the traffic situation in San Rafael.

First the first city parking lot downtown opened to the public with suitable ceremony. This is only a start. Opened was the smallest of the three lots which are scheduled to be in operation before too long.

But it was a start.

We have some reservations as to the lots and their adequacy, but we can't help congratulating the city council on finally getting at least one of the lots open. We hope the other two are open before Christmas—and this time, we mean Christmas 1958, not 1959.

The other great development was the switch of some streets to parallel parking. If you haven't driven down B street, for example, you won't realize what it has meant. Instead of a clogged, impossible traffic situation, there is a smooth, easy flow of traffic.

True, there are less parking spaces than before, but the traffic movement more than makes up for the loss. And—hopefully — we're going to have the parking in those new lots.

So, Christmas shoppers, things are going to be easier for you in San Rafael this year than previously.

Making Marin Safer Place

Marin is constantly acquiring more traffic lights. As more and more of these traffic pauses are installed, our attention is arrested by one of the facts of driving life.

Have you ever noticed how often the fellow who speeds past you and cuts madly from lane to lane is waiting for you at the next stoplight? For all his reckless capers and frenzied speed, he hasn't gained an inch.

This points up a driving axiom—namely, that the courteous driver is the intelligent driver. Safety, not speed alone is his objective. But in the long run he usually gets where he's going just as fast. And he is not the menace who makes a racetrack of our roads.

Much of this reckless foolishness might be eliminated if these frenzied speedsters would only look around when they pause at the next spotlight. There they would see all those whose lives they risked at peril to their own. If they would reflect for a moment, Marin would be a safer place in which to drive.

THREE MINUTES A DAY

By JAMES KELLER

WISDOM CANNOT BE BOUGHT

A 26-year-old graduate of an Eastern university recently brought suit against the institution. He claimed that the college detained him falsely by professing to teach wisdom.

A superior court judge dismissed the young man's plea on the grounds that "wisdom cannot be taught."

No one receives wisdom on a silver spoon. It is acquired only through personal inconvenience and hardship. An old Welsh proverb puts it very well: "All wisdom must be paid for with pain."

All tha tthe home, church or school can do is to present the principles of true wisdom. It is up to each individual to apply them to his own life and the world in which he lives. He will grow in wisdom even when he gives it away.

Be more than humanly wise. By meditation, prayer and effort, cultivate divine wisdom and thus add meaning and purpose to daily living. Keep ever aware that this life is nothing more than a stepping stone to the everlasting happiness of the next.

"If any of you want wisdom, let him ask of God, who giveth to all men abundantly." (James 1:5)

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Independent-Journal:

You will find enclosed a newspaper article from the latest issue of Redwood H.S.'s newspaper. Knowing that the I-J supported the Tam District's tax raise, I thought you would be interested in this article. A greater per cent of the voters in the Tam district were not interested in supporting this issue, but they might be interested to see what effect their rejection is going to have.

It is indeed a sad day when citizens reject and deny the young people, failing to give them needed opportunities. They may now lament in silence, for they have given up their right to speak out against the activities of our youth. When they read about young people who have gone temporarily astray, they can think how it might have been avoided had an instructor not had an over-crowded class room, and so forth.

People in the Tam district should be proud of their schools' outstanding accomplishments. They can point with pride to the number of talented and successful students. This could very well be a thing of the past, for the future of the Tam district's schools might be one of heading down hill—thanks to our unthinking, selfish voters.

This may be a cry in the dark, but one cannot stand aside and let a thing of this sort go by the wayside unnoticed. Those who voted against this issue need to be brought out of their complacency and made to realize they have lowered or are about to lower our educational system to sub-standard. If that is what they want, the thinking people of Marin County would like to invite them to take up residence in another county.

DON G. PORTER
Mill Valley

(NOTE: The article to which Reader Porter referred dealt with rejection by new teachers of proposed salaries and inaibility of the district to hire 15 additional teachers. Almost as Reader Porter was writing, the district trustees decided to try again Feb. 17 for the tax increase.)

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

By CHAPIN A. DAY

Tamalpais school district trustees have decided to take a third try at raising their district tax rate from $1.65 to $1.90. On the second try, Nov. 4, they failed to make the grade by less than 1,500 votes when the absentee votes were counted this week. This time, they've edcided to hold a special election so that no other issues can cloud up the matter.

There are those who say that the great concentration of "Vote No" propaganda put out by opponents of Propositions 16, 17 and 18 in the last election, spilled over into all other issues; that the "Vote No" momentum for these three initiatives carried a number of issues down with them.

This also was true of the county hospital bonds, although they lost by a greater margin, although getting far more favorable votes. The reason was the bonds needed a two thirds vote.

One of the observations of the political analysts after the election was that if a bond issue only required 60 per cent of the vote instead of 66⅔ per cent, two thirds of the bonds issues that were defeated in the state would have passed.

That was true for the hospital bonds. They got more than 60 per cent. But, it wasn't true of the other two bond issues on the Marin ballot. The county farm and juvenile hall bonds got only slightly over a majority favoring them and the airport bonds were soundly trounced by a two to one No vote.

Don't be surprised, however, if legislation is proposed in January reducing the needed vote for bond passage to 60 per cent.

Dorothy Nielsen, president of the Republican Women of Marin, Federated, was in our office the other day and sketched out the accompanying little seal and motto for the GOP in the next two years. (See cut.)

(Incidentally, we had to send this sketch to our engraving department to be made into a cut. The engaver, Dean Ketchum, is a strong Democrat. He's also a ham radio operator. His call letters are W6END.)

INFORMATION we thought you'd like to know:

Did you know that the phrase for something that's all right—OK—has a political background?

Our spy in charge of obscure facts tells us that OK came from the O.K. Club, which was a Democratic organization supporting President Van Buren for re-election in 1840. The initials stand for Old Kinderhook, N.Y., Van Buren's birthplace. Everybody who voted for him was O.K.

OK?

WONDER WHAT HAPPENED to Bill Bagley's plan to start a new crusade for a county charter? He hasn't shown up at a supervisors meeting yet to propose one, as he declared he would.

What Benefit Will California Gain By Knight's Visit To Hawaii?

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — There's considerable question as to the benefits California's taxpayers will reap through the attendance of Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and the state's First Lady at the Western Governors Conference in Honolulu.

Governor Knight, Mrs. Knight, and his two top secretarial aides, Paul Mason and Howard Schmidt, left San Francisco by plane Thursday, arriving in Honolulu some six hours later. While the conference is scheduled from Sunday through Wednesday, the governor's party is making a more extended stay, remaining on the island to next Friday.

THE FACT that Knight will be leaving official office within about a month of his return from the trip raises some question as to what good he can do for the state of California by attending the session.

But a look at the cast of characters for the conference makes one wonder if the whole session won't be merely a pass-around of the crying towel. Of the 11 governors attending, six were defeated at the recent elections and will not be taking much information back to their home states from the conference.

The five governors in attendance who won re-election, or did not have to stand this year, thus may feel somewhat ill at ease in company with their departing colleagues.

IF ALL THE OTHER governors were attending, there is perhaps some excuse provided for Knight, as California is not a state not to keep up its front, even if the cost of an Hawaiian junket is considerable and even if the official representative of the state is a short-timer in office.

It's unfortunate some provision wasn't made to call in the governors-elect of the six states where the administration will change. Under this proposal, if there is any benefit to be gained from the conference, the states would gain it during the coming four years.

The Hawaiian sojourn no doubt will provide a much needed vacation for the six defeated governors — at the taxpayers' expense.

10 YEARS AGO

Winners of the "I Speak for Democracy" contests in Marin County high schools were announced by George Duncan, chairman of the Marin Junior Chamber of Commerce. They were Paula Freitas of Dominican Convent; Clyde Bradley of San Rafael High; Barnes Riznik of Tamalpais High, and Ferdinand Terza of Tomales High.

Five youths were inducted into the Army in the first Marin call under the new 1948 draft law. They were Robert Henry Mueller, 25, Corte Madera; Louis M. Basso, 24, Novato; Chester Gifford Mitchell, 24, Sausalito; Lee Charles Jett, 23, San Rafael, and Juneau Grenfell Bell, 22, San Anselmo.

A Stanford-Cal Story Which Has Nothing At All To Do With Big Game

No matter who wins or loses, Big Game rivalry should never get you in the position Mrs. Beth Burchard of Belvedere found herself a few years ago.

In Germany all alone, she had to undergo an operation. As she lay on the table, thousands of miles from home and friendless, the doctor looked over her personal history. Suddenly he picked up a 16-inch butcher knife and smiled, "Did you say you're from Stanford?" She was. "Well, I'm from Cal," the medic explained quietly as he stalked up to the table fingering the razor sharp blade.

Beth came out in one piece. Cal must have turned out at least one fairly good doctor.

ELECTION IS just past, but they're already looking ahead for who's going to be running for what in the next couple of years.

Prime topic now seems to be who's going to run for the state Assembly post if and when Richard McCollister retires. His post comes up for election every two years and the guessing is that this term will be his last.

Youthful attorney Bill Bagley is being urged to try for the post. When asked about it, he gives out with his disarming smile which indicates he's interested, but how much, we don't know. Then there's Herbert K. Walton Jr. also mentioned. So is Bob Huber of Mill Valley.

Some speculators are hinting that Bill Weissich would like to swap the title of "district attorney" for "assemblyman." There is some indication Weissich won't run for D.A. in 1962. Whether he'll make a political move two years before his present term runs out is the question.

Among Democrats, the name of Supervisor Vera Schultz of Mill Valley has come up as possible state Assemblyman. She ran against McCollister once before—and lost. Gordon Strawbridge is also mentioned.

AS LONG AS we're looking ahead, might as well discuss the judgeship too. There's some talk that a third municipal court judge will be needed for growing Marin in the next few years.

With a Democratic governor holding the power to appoint, prominent names mentioned for judgeship include attorney Sam Gardiner, the hard-working party leader. Public Defender Leonard Thomas' name has also cropped up.

When Thomas was being mentioned as possible opponent to District Attorney Weissich in the June primaries, his backers probably were grooming him for a possible judge's post. But Thomas said he was satisfied with the public defender's post. As public defender, he is well known in the state and could be a strong contender.

Assistant Dist. Atty. Roger Garety has been hinted for a judge's post on the strength of his personal acquaintance with the new governor. Garety is also in line for the D.A.'s post if Weissich moves out.

You'd think the car owner would get sore. But, no. He cheerfully picks up the mail and waves a "thank you" to the caretaker for a free car wash.

IF A FIRE ever breaks out in the military academy at San Rafael, the truck and ladder may show up a few minutes late. Reason: Too many false alarms; almost a weekly occurance these days, according to police. It works like this:

The buildings have an automatic alarm, with gadgets located in rooms and hallways that are sensitive to heat. So the ingenious boys reach up to the ceiling and flick a lighter under the gadget. Works like a charm. Firemen react quickly, risking life and limb and wear and tear to reach the scene. If it happens often enough, you can't blame the firemen for waiting to see flames shoot up before reacting, not that they do so now.

The Communists are out to wreck UNESCO on the ground that it is anti-Communist and anti-Soviet.

The evidence which was pieced together to suggest that UNESCO (the United Nations' Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization) was pro-Communist never did stand up against a factual test and it has survived to continue to do good work.

It will undoubtedly survive the new attack from the opposite direction—from the Soviet delegation to UNESCO's tenth general conference now in session in Paris.

THE CHARGES which the Soviets are showering down on UNESCO in Paris—that it is a "tool of the West," that it "helps war-mongers" and that it engages in "anti-Soviet propaganda," are also without proof. In fact, the Soviets make no pretense of proving their charges; they just raise their voice and shout them.

It is for this reason that most friends of UNESCO feel that Moscow's real purpose is to try to make it impossible for it to function at all. Having failed to deter UNESCO by boycotting it for years, the Soviets are seeking to wreck it by systematic obstruction from within.

WHEN UNESCO was founded 13 years ago, the Soviet Union refused to become a member in the evident hope that the non-Communist countries would not be able to work together effectively to exchange scientific and cultural knowledge and help each other in their common problem. The Soviets were so annoyed at the popularity of the free libraries which UNESCO brought into being that they branded them with the familiar epithet, "instruments of American imperialism."

This tactic didn't work and in April, 1954, former Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov registered Soviet membership and on the same day the Soviet, Polish, Czech and Hungarian delegates filed into their first conference meeting and made its priority item of business getting Red China, though not a member of the U. N., into UNESCO. This proposal has been decisively defeated every time Moscow has brought it up, as it was in Paris again last week.

The Soviets are now stepping up their hostility to UNESCO and in the current Paris sessions are seeking by every parliamentary maneuver to block the orderly transaction of business.

ON THE EVE of the Paris meeting the chairman of the UNESCO National Commission in the U. S. S. R. charged that it was making "persistent efforts" to serve "the wishes of the U. S. Congress as a tool in the struggle against Communist ideology."

If a freer exchange of people and ideas across national frontiers is "against Communist ideology," then it can be argued that UNESCO rests on a concept which the Soviets reject. This no doubt explains why Moscow so long boycotted UNESCO and now is seeking to hamper its work.

Rites To Dedicate New Parish House

Whitaker Hall, the recently completed parish house of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere, will be dedicated at a special service at 10 o'clock Thanksgiving morning, announced Rev. E. J. Mohr, rector of the church.

With the opening of Whitaker Hall, St. Stephen's will complete a building program adopted in 1953 for a $275,000 church and parish house.

The parish house is named after the late Mrs. Nettie Mae Whitaker, whose $125,000 bequest, together with donations from parishioners, enabled the parish to proceed with its building plans sooner than had been expected originally.

Designed by Architect Ernest Whinkler, the parish hall has a large assembly room, offices, kitchen, eight Sunday School rooms, and storage rooms.

Churches In Drive To Aid World's Needy

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Protestants, Catholics and Jews will join next week in an attempt to lift America's Thanksgiving celebration out of its turkey-and-football rut.

Church and synagogue services throughout the country will stress three facts about the holiday which the Puritans instituted:

1. Its historic purpose is religious — to express gratitude to God for the blessings bestowed upon this nation.

2. A spirit of thankfulness is particularly appropriate now, because America has become an oasis of abundance in a worldwide desert of want.

3. The most fitting way to give thanks is by sharing this abundance with the ragged, hungry and homeless millions of other lands.

Each of the three faiths will suggest a specific way in which the sharing can be done.

Protestant churches will collect special offerings for the "share our surplus" program of Church World Service, the overseas relief agency of the National Council of Churches.

Catholics are asked to contribute 10 million pounds of "good used clothing" through their churches. It will be shipped overseas by Catholic Relief Services, a branch of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

The United Jewish Appeal, sponsored by the Synagogue Council of America, will seek funds for refugees and other impoverished groups abroad.

Religious agencies are the principal channels by which Americans send "person to person" aid abroad. This year they will handle more than 80 per cent of all voluntary U.S. overseas relief.

The Protestant "Share Our Surplus" program is a good example of the charity bargains offered by all of the major religious agencies.

One dollar contributed to "SOS" will send 300 pounds of food abroad. Ten dollars will provide daily bread for 600 undernourished children for more than two weeks.

The reason a dollar goes so far is that the food is provided free by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, out of its bulging warehouses of surplus farm commodities. The government also pays the cost of ocean freight, so that private contributions are needed only for the costs of overseas distribution.

So far, Americans have not gone overboard in taking advantage of this bargain. Last year's "Share Our Surplus" offering totaled only one million dollars, which figures out to about two-and-one-half cents a person for the total membership of the 35 participating denominations.

Church To Mark 4th Anniversary

The First Baptist Church of Corte Madera will observe its fourth anniversary tomorrow with an anniversary and Thanksgiving dinner at 5 p. m. in the Corte Madera Recreation Center.

Rev. Magnus G. Berglund, pastor of Temple Baptist Church of San Francisco, will be the speaker. His subject will be "Building with God." Reginold Chisholm will be soloist.

Mrs. Warren Hoomes is in charge of the dinner. Mrs. Floyd Gaither will prepare the decorations. Mrs. Gene Nolin and Mrs. Muncie Bonner are in charge of table arrangements.

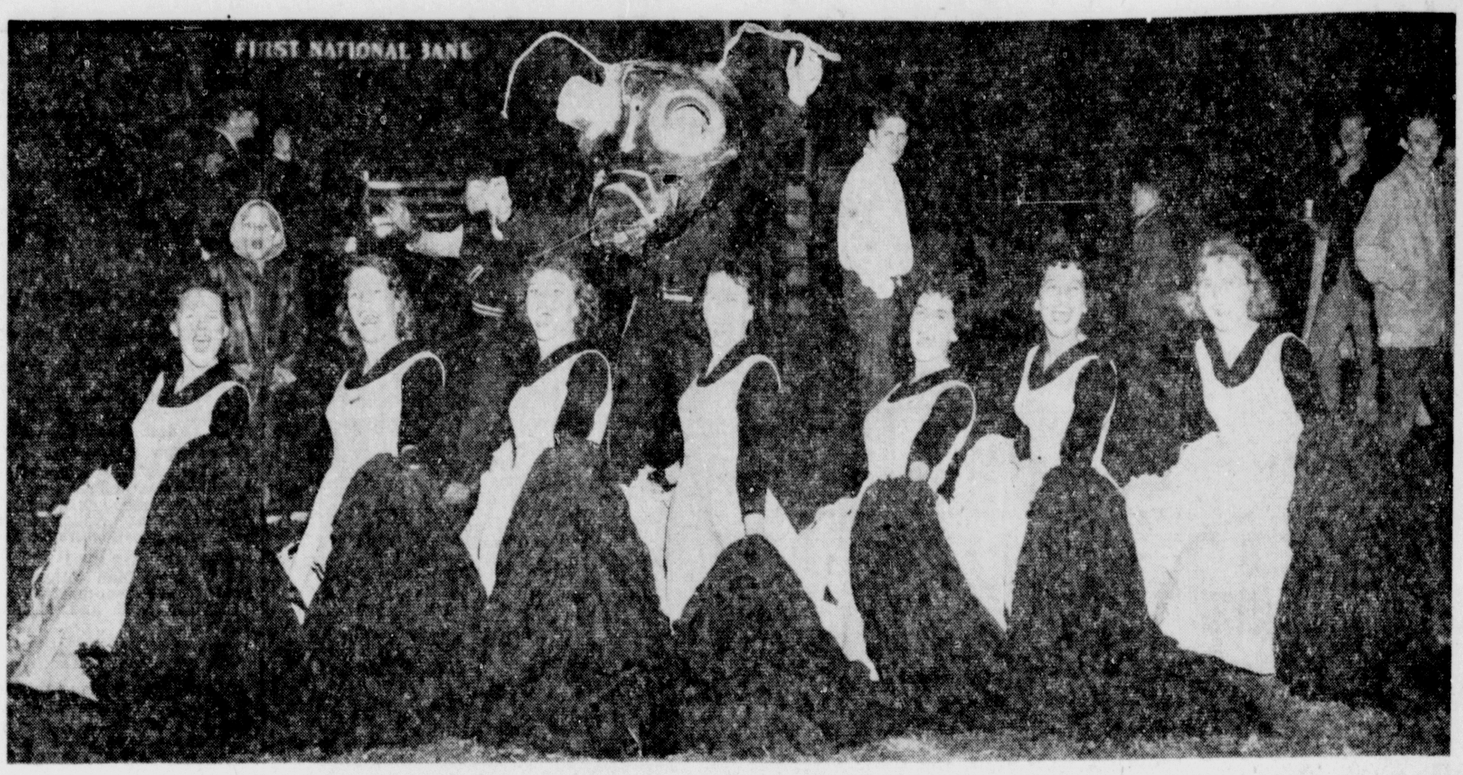
HAPPY DAYS — Marin Catholic cheerleaders dance happily as their Wildcat footballers battled Novato on even terms for most of last night's game. However, the highly-favored Hornets caught fire late in the game to win going away, and the young ladies above had little to cheer about.



ON TO VICTORY—Novato's cheer leaders kneel in end zone, urging the Hornets to score. They did, and often, too, with a 47-20 victory over a spunky Marin Catholic team last night before approximately 3,500 fans at Kentfield. It was Novato's seventh victory against only one loss; Marin's fourth loss against as many victories, with one tie. Game concluded Marin County's 1958 football season. (Jim Kean photos)

Photos Of Novato Win Over Marin

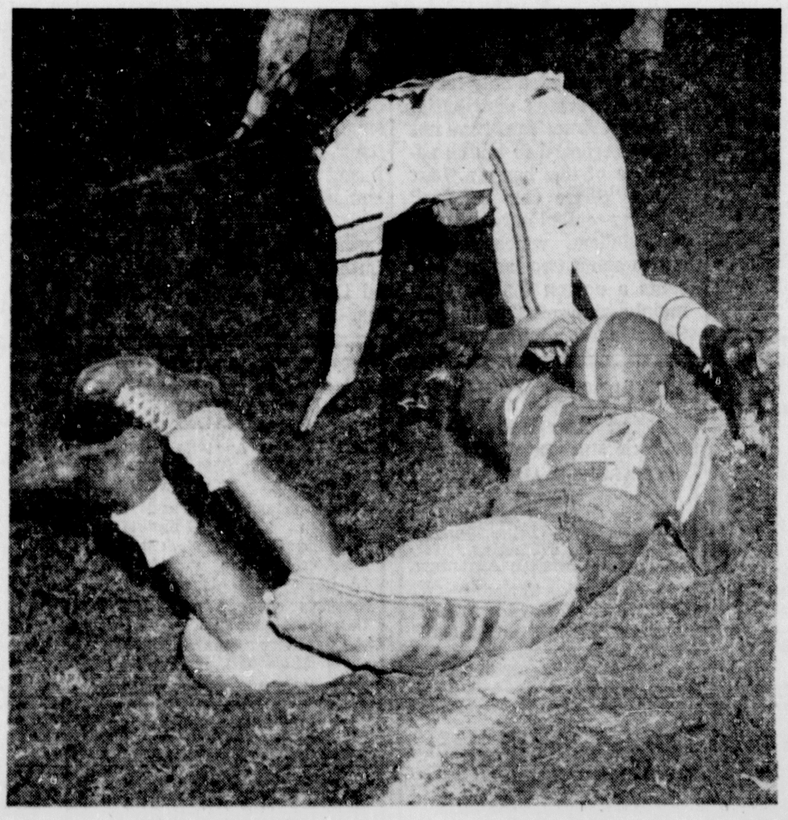
DOWN YOU GO, BOY—Two Novato tacklers gang up on Marin Catholic end Frank Healy, after third quarter pass completion in last night's battle at Kentfield. Marin passing attack kept the underdog Wildcats on even terms with the Hornets for more than two quarters, but Novato pulled away from a slim 22-20 third period edge to a convincing 47-20 victory.

COMPLETION—Novato end Chuck Coleman gets set to pull in a pass from Jack Sparrow for second quarter gain, as Marin's Blake Rodgers rushes in to make the tackle.



BY THE SHOESTRING—Marin halfback, Blake Rodgers (14), trips up Novato's Chuck Coleman after he caught pass in second period.

BIG GAINER—Doug Wilson of Marin catches pass from John Boccabella for 25-yard gain deep in Novato territory in third period. Completion set up Marin's third touchdown, as the Wildcats scored on next play. No. 31, covering play, is Morrie Moberg.

Novato Tops Marin In '58 Finale

By JOHN KLEMPNER

The visiting Hornets surged from a scant 22-20 margin midway through the third period to score four more times while bottling up the Wildcat offense. Novato moved through the air with the greatest of ease in the first half as Sparrow lofted three touchdown aerials which, with a safety, gave the Hornets a 22-14 intermission edge.

It would be extremely difficult to say which of the two big senior quarterbacks is better. Both passed often and connected on about half their attempts. Sparrow had a much more experienced team in front of him and thus was afforded better protection for his long passes, while Boccabella got off a lot of look in bullet passes. Each had three passes intercepted.

FAST START

Marin got off to a fast start when Terry Onorato alertly picked up a fumble on the Novato 16 and raced into the end zone with less than a minute gone on the clock. But the Hornets countered right away as Sparrow hit Chuck Coleman for 20 yards and then Pete Ferrarese for 55 and the tying score.

Marin again forged into the lead as Boccabella passed to Doug Wilson for 34 yards to the 29, and covered the remaining distance with an aerial to Blake Rodgers.

With the first quarter barely over, the visitors evened things up, when, starting on their own 30, Sparrow connected for three in a row to Jay Johnson, Coleman, and finally Ferrarese again for 20 yards, and the score was knotted at 14-14.

The Wildcats booted the first punt of the game late in the first quarter, and Johnson ran it back to his own 46. Sparrow skirted end for 16 yards to the 40, and Johnson brought the ball to the 28, setting up Sparrow's third touchdown pass—this one to Coleman on the first play of the second quarter.

GREAT INTERCEPTION

Following a short Marin punt, Novato threatened again as Sparrow hit Coleman with a 21-yarder on the 30 and Johnson on the 14. But Marin's Blake Rodgers made a great diving interception on the five and the touchdown threat was over. But the Hornets did salvage a safety, as Jud Bird boomed through to hit Onorato in the end zone, and the score read Novato 22, Marin 14.

As the half drew to a close, Sparrow passed for 36 yards to Coleman, but Malcolm McLorg intercepted his next try on the 15 to end that threat. Bird picked off Boccabella's first effort, though, and things were back where they started. But McLorg duplicated his feat, getting Sparrow's fourth down try in the end zone for a touchback as the half ended.

It was all Boccabella as the second half opened. Starting on his own 35, he hit Frank Healy for 21 yards, Onorato for 16, Doug Wilson for 15, and ran the remaining 13 himself to bring the Wildcats within two points with seven minutes to go in the third quarter.

MARIN'S UNDOING

A blocked punt proved Marin's undoing, as Novato recovered on the 34. Jay Johnson put on a brilliant broken field running display to move the pigskin to the 5, and scored on the next play.

The Wildcats seemed to be on the move again as Boccabella completed three in a row, but Coleman intercepted on the midfield stripe and ran to the 35 for Novato. Morris Moberg carried for 18 yards to the 17 as the third quarter ended with the Hornets leading 28-20.

Johnson scored in two carries to open the final stanza. Sparrow plucked down a Boccabella pass as soon as the Wildcats got the ball, and on the next play pitched out to Dick Olrich who ran 36 yards for the sixth Novato touchdown.

Marin Catholic lost the ball on downs on its own 35 following the kickoff and, with Jud Bird calling the plays, the Hornets moved for their final score of the night as Dick Rush plunged from the two.

GOOD BALANCE

Figuring the quarterbacks as a virtual toss-up, the big difference in the two clubs was the 10 men "up front." Novato's hard-running backs gave a good balance to Sparrow's passing, while Boccabella had to bear the brunt of both passing and rushing chores.

Some 2,000 Novato rooters turned out to see the Hornets win their seventh game in eight outings. The lone defeat was at the hands of undefeated Analy. Some 1,500 Wildcat fans saw Mike Davlin's boys go down to their fourth defeat against four wins and a tie. This wound up the 1958 Marin County football schedule.

Some 62 games played this season on the Kentfield turf left the playing area in rather sorry shape, but numerous improvements, including a new lighting system, new public address system, and new grass are promised for next year.

Novato	14	8	6	19	—47

Marin scoring: TDs—Terry Onorato, 16 yards with recovered fumble; Blake Rodgers, 29-yard pass from John Boccabella; Boccabella, 3-yard run. PATs—Gary Bartolotti, run; Frank Healy, pass from Boccabella.

Novato scoring: TDs—Pete Ferrarese (2), passes of 55 and 20 yards from Jack Sparrow; Jay Johnson (2), runs of 12 and 5 yards; Chuck Coleman, 28-yard pass from Sparrow; Dick Olrich, 36-yard run; Dick Rush, 2-yard run. Safety: Jud Bird tackled Terry Onorato in end zone. PATs—Jack Sparrow, 3 runs.

Colts Favored Over Rams In Top Pro Game

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The Baltimore Colts and Los Angeles Rams match the National Football League's most explosive attacks tomorrow in a game which may virtually end the Western Division race.

Baltimore (7-1) leads the runnerup Rams and Chicago Bears (each 5-3) by two games. The Colts can clinch a tie for their first division title by winning, providing the Detroit Lions give them a big assist by whipping the Bears. If the Colts and Lions win, Baltimore will be three games in front with only three to play.

Baltimore has a string of six home victories and is a six-point choice to make it seven before a sellout crowd of more than 57,000. The Lions (3-4-1), defending league and Western Division champions, are rolling now after a poor start and are 3½ point choices to beat the Bears at Detroit before more than 50,000.

BROWNS FAVORED

The Cleveland Browns (6-2), a game ahead of the runnerup New York Giants (5-3) in the eastern race, are 12-point choices for their home game with the Philadelphia Eagles (2-5-1). New York will entertain the Washington Redskins (3-5) and is favored by six points. Each of these games figures to draw 50,000 fans.

The Pittsburgh Steelers (4-4), a game behind New York, are favored by 2½ against the Cardinals (2-5-1) at Chicago. The San Francisco 49ers (3-5) are favored over the Green Bay Packers (1-6-1) by one point at Milwaukee.

Baltimore's well-balanced squad leads the league in scoring with 272 points and has allowed the fewest, 118. The Colts are first in total yardage with 3,107. The Rams, second in scoring with 253 points, are second in yards gained with 3,045.

UNITAS READY

John Unitas, Baltimore's No. 1 quarterback, has been sidelined three weeks with cracked ribs, but is ready to help George Shaw at that post. They throw most of their passes to Ray Berry, Jim Mutscheller and Lenny Moore.

Los Angeles has a well-balanced offense with Billy Wade passing to Del Shofner, Jon Arnett, Leon Clarke, Jim Phillips and Lamar Lundy. Arnett and Tom Wilson make up the 1-2 rushing punch. The California club's main problem will be handling Baltimore's big defensive line led by Gino Marchetti, Art Donovan and Gene Lipscomb.

BUSIEST PASSER

Cleveland swept five games, then lost to the Giants and Lions before snapping a 10-10 tie in the final minutes to defeat Washington last Sunday. The Browns are heavy favorites against the Eagles, but face the league's busiest passer in Norm Van Brocklin. He has thrown 279 passes this season, completing 146. Philadelphia's problem will be to keep Don Colo, Bob Gain and Cleveland's other defensive linemen away from Van Brocklin until he can locate a receiver.

Jim Brown, Cleveland's fullback, already has set a season rushing record of 1,163 yards and will add to it in his last four games. He also has 17 touchdowns, one under the season record of 18 held by Steve Van Buren of the Eagles.

49ers Meet Lowly Packers And Woe Betide The Losers

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Green Bay and San Francisco square off in a National Football League tussle tomorrow and woe betide the loser!

Fans in both cities are up in arms over the disastrous showing to date by the two teams and a loss here could light the fuse for some positive action.

The Green Bay front office is engaged in an open squabble regarding the management of the team, whose 1-6-1 record to date could lead to the team's worst season in its proud National Football League history.

The 49ers have won three squeakers and have been badly beaten on five occasions.

Coach Frankie Albert has also told his veterans to get going and has shown he meant business by releasing linebacker Marv Matuszak in a controversial move.

What has hurt both clubs to date has been their inability to move the ball on the ground. Only fullbacks Joe Perry of San Francisco and Paul Hornung of Green Bay have found running room.

Both teams therefore have been forced to rely extra heavily on passing, and the Packers have been shown wanting here also for Bart Starr and Vito Parilli have yet to flash the form of the departed Tobin Rote.

The Packers' crew of pass-catchers, led by incomparable Billy Howton, are among the league's best, however. Injuries to six of the twenty-two have also slowed down the Packers.

The 49ers have alternated Y. A. Tittle and John Brodie at quarterback with varying success. They are also aided by a solid crew of receivers.

SOLID DEFENSES

Defensively the teams are more solid, although in both cases the clubs' stuttering offenses have given the foes the ball an unduly large per cent of the time and put extra pressure on the defense.

The 49er defensive line has held up well, but the pass defense has been crippled by the loss of Dick Moegle.

A new face on the 49er defense will be that of linebacker Jerry Tubbs, who was hired when Matuszak was dropped.

Neither team is going anywhere in the standings this year, but a loss by either club will not be taken lightly.

Penalty Gives Tiger Upset Win Over Calhoun In TVer

The gruelling 10-round middleweight brawl Friday night at Madison Square Garden was so close that it hinged on Miller's action in penalizing Calhoun the eighth round.

As Calhoun appeared to have won the eighth by a comfortable margin, that penalty cost him the scrap. Both Miller and Judge Bill Forst scored it 5-4-1 and Judge Bill Recht 5-3-2, all for Jones. A switch in the eighth would have made it 5-4-1 the other way on two cards and 4-4-2 on the other. The AP card was 5-5, counting the penalty.

"It wasn't low," moaned Calhoun after the fight. "If it was I'd be the first to say so. Even if it was, I still thought I won it."

"It was definitely low," said Miller. "No question about it."

"He hit me repeatedly on the hip," said Jones. "I thought I won it by a bigger margin."

At ringside, it seemed Calhoun did dig some low blows to Jones' body. None seemed to have been seriously handicapping.

Calhoun, 24, had weight and youth on his side. He scaled 163 to Jones' 158½ pounds. Rory went in an 8-5 favorite.

Bobby Melnick, Jones' manager, was eager to send the Tiger, 30, against Carmen Basilio who already had turned down a $35,000 offer to box him in Syracuse. Failing to interest Basilio, Melnick may take Jones to Argentina.

5 Foursomes Win At Meadow Club Best-Ball Event

Five foursomes were winners Thursday in the Meadow Club's Best Ball Foursome Tournament and later in the day a new golf captain was elected to head the women's golf section for the coming year.

First place winners with a low net of 68⅓ was the foursome of Mesdames Harrison Leppo, John Donnelly, Everett Gray and Don Flemings. Two foursomes tying for second place with a net 69 were Mesdames Maurie Strom, William Zimmerman, Robert Quinlan and Rowene Kerlin in one and John Lesoine, R. L. Hibbett, T. E. Fairey and Walter Jakobsen in the other.

Tying for third place with a net 71 were foursomes of Mesdames Gordon Wood, George Frazer, Paul Charron and H. Carmona and D. B. Johnson, Alfred Quilici, Paul Hartman Sr. and John Weitzel.

Mrs. Gray was the winner of the hole-in-one contest.

Mrs. Kerlin was unanimously elected to succeed Mrs. Arthur Latno as the section's 1959 golf captain and Mrs. Carl Boegershausen was elected her assistant.

Stan's 38th Birthday

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Slugger Stan Musial hinted he was feeling a bit older yesterday as he celebrated his 38th birthday. Musial was pleased that Solly Hemus, the new St. Louis Cardinal manager, was planning to use him in only about two-thirds of the Redbirds' 154-game schedule.

Recreation Unit Names New Chief

Robert C. La Fontaine, veteran member of the Sausalito Recreation Commission, has been named chairman to succeed Ernie Smith, who recently resigned when he moved from Sausalito.

Matters discussed included the community's teen-age program. Youngsters have asked for a place to hold regular dances. Diane Pedersen, speaking for seventh and eighth graders, and Edward Munk for the high school group, were told to form committees to plan a specific program.

Commissioner Phyllis Morena will advise the group.

The commissioners also will recommend to the city council that the gymnastics class conducted by Mrs. Andre Molnar be continued into spring and that a second class be created, the cost of both to be $400.

SAN MATEO (AP)—Directors of the California Jockey Club have elected veteran racing official Joseph Cohen as general manager of Bay Meadows.

Cohen recently was elected president of the club, which conducts thoroughbred racing at the track. As general manager he succeeds Mrs. William P. Kyne, widow of the track founder. She becomes treasurer and director of public relations.

Robert Gunderson, Mrs. Kyne's son-in-law, was named assistant general manager.

Directors also voted a $25 per share dividend payable Dec. 10.

SPORTS WORLD MOURNS THE LOSS OF MEL OTT

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Mel Ott, the greatest athlete in Giant history, will be buried today mourned by a sports public that respected him as ballplayer and man.

Services for the National League's all-time homerun king and the greatest modern hero of the Giants, will be held from the P. J. McMahon and Sons funeral home with interment in Netaire Cemetery.

Due to his family's request for an early burial, Ott's remains will go to the grave without the presence of the host of baseball greats who expressed a desire to pay their final respects.

Ott, 49, died yesterday after a round-the-clock fight for his life by doctors who said he succumbed finally of a kidney infection known as Uremia. Ott and his wife, also 49, were injured a week ago in a car crash in Bay St. Louis, Miss., that instantly killed Lester F. Curry, the driver of the other car.

Mrs. Ott, who has not been advised of her husband's death, is scheduled to be transferred from Gulfport to a New Orleans hospital for possible surgery. Although in serious condition, she is given a fair chance for recovery.

Ott was injured last Friday night when he pulled his car onto highway 90 near Bay St. Louis and collided with the Curry car. His condition took a sudden turn for the worse Thursday night and he died after surgery at 10:30 a.m., PST, Friday.

Ott is survived by his widow, two daughters, his mother, a sister, and a grandson, all from the New Orleans area.

A living legend, Ott wrote a fabulous and heart-warming baseball story from the time he reported to the iron-fisted tyrant of the Polo Grounds, the immortal John McGraw, in 1925 to the time he turned over the managerial reins of the club to the hated Brooklyn manager Leo Durocher.

Comment from such baseball personalities as Carl Hubbell, Leo Durocher, Casey Stengel, Mrs. John McGraw, Warren Giles, Will Harridge, Dizzy Dean, Hal Schumacher and many others emphasized the impact that Ott had made upon the sports public as player and gentleman.

"I never knew a baseball player who was so universally loved," said Durocher, who succeeded Ott as manager of the Giants in one of the most sensational shakeups in major league history on Aug. 16, 1948. "He was the nicest guy who ever put on a baseball shoe."

"Ott started at the top and stayed there," said Stengel. "That's the mark of true greatness."

GIANTS SHOCKED

The Giant front office, now situated in San Francisco, 3,000 miles from the Polo Grounds in which Ott played his entire career, was plunged in gloom over the loss of a hero second only to McGraw himself.

"He was the greatest Giant of them all next to McGraw," said Garry Schumacher, now assistant to club president Horace Stoneham, who was a newspaperman covering the Giants when Ott joined the team in 1925.

Ott, born in Gretna, La., March 2, 1909, got his passport to fame when Harry Williams, a New Orleans lumberman, recommended him to McGraw. A few weeks later Ott received a telegram which read: "Report to McGraw, Polo Grounds, New York."

From the moment McGraw, tyrant of the Polo Grounds, met Ott, he took him under his wing. He refused to let his young prodigy be farmed out, converted him from a catcher into a right-fielder and watched him develop into a Hall of Famer.

UNUSUAL STYLE

Ott, who overcame his 5-foot, 9-inch, 160-pound physique by developing an unusual style that featured lifting his right leg stiff-legged just before he swung, hit more home runs than any other player in history except Babe Ruth and Jimmy Foxx—511. He hit 30 or more homers in eight seasons and knocked in 100 or more runs in nine seasons. He batted over .300 in 11 seasons and reached a career high of .349 in 1930. He played in 11 All-Star games and three World Series.

Rock Thrower Hits Man In Car

The dastardly deeds of a highway rock sniper were reported to the Marin sheriff's office shortly after midnight today by John S. Grange of 118 McAllister avenue, Kentfield.

Grange said the sniper hurled a rock through the center of his windshield as he was driving south on Highway 101 at the California Park overpass, south of San Rafael. The rock hit him on the arm. Investigating sheriff's deputies reported many rocks littering the highway in that area.

cars delivered by Tamalpais Motors, four were de luxe equipped "which was not specified, not ordered and not wanted" and the firm later billed the county for $20 per car above the contract price on account of the de luxe trim.

This brought a hot retort from Dolman that the July bid submitted by his firm explicitly noted that delivery was subject to availability of cars. He noted that four of the cars which were not delivered were to be equipped with "police kit" and the Ford factory had stopped production of these items for 1958.

On the other two cars which the firm could not deliver, Dolman said, Tamalpais Motors offered to protect the county at the bid price, which covered 1958 cars, and deliver 1959 models at that price. The county refused the offer, he said.

Clarence DeLong, owner of San Rafael's DeLong Chevrolet Co., said he agrees completely with Dolman.

"Jensen was grossly in error in making his recommendation," he said, "and the supervisors were equally guilty in accepting it." DeLong submitted a bid but was high. He said he may stop bidding on county purchases.

L. J. Dervin, Novato Ford dealer, did not bid. He said he has no fault to find with the county procedure except that invitations to bid were sent out too late. He said he received his invitation only five days before the bids were due and could not in that time have the county's trade-in cars appraised and figure a bid.

Gordon Andersen, Novato Chevrolet dealer, said he did not bid because he resents a requirement that a bond of $500 per car be posted with each bid.

"I've been in business for 30 years," he said, "and if they won't take my bid without my posting that amount, I won't bid."

Adolph Cheda, owner of Cheda Chevrolet at Point Reyes Station, said he quit submitting bids on county car purchases in 1954. He won an award that year, he said, and made $27 profit. "Not worth it," he said.

Bids opened Tuesday included, for the first time, cars to be bought by several Marin cities. The cities may buy through the county purchasing department under a recent agreement approved by the supervisors.

None of the dealers contacted mentioned any objection to this procedure, although Dervin said he would personally prefer to bid separately on city purchases.

Grandmother Of Marinite Dies

Mrs. Julia B. Moore, grandmother of Mrs. Marthabel S. Bartlett of Mill Valley who is a teacher at the Wade Thomas School, San Anselmo, died yesterday in Palo Alto at the age of 85.

She was a member of the Golden Wedding Club of Santa Cruz, the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Palo Alto and Women's Missionary Alliance, Church of God.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 12:30 p.m. at the Wessendorf and Thal Mortuary, Santa Cruz. Burial will be in Oakwood Memorial Park. Friends may call at the Tinney Funeral Chapel, Palo Alto, until tomorrow night.

Mrs. Molly Tame Succumbs In S.F.

A Solemn Requiem Mass for Mrs. Molly Tame, widow of Grant Tame of Ross, will be offered Monday at St. Brigid's Church, San Francisco, at 9:30 a.m. The funeral procession will form at the Memorial Chapels of Carew and English at 9 a.m. Interment will be in Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma.

The Rosary will be recited at the Carew and English Chapels tomorrow at 8 p.m.

Mrs. Tame died Thursday in a San Francisco hospital, where she had been since Tuesday. She had been in failing health. Her husband died a month ago.

The former Molly Steines of San Francisco, she was married to Tame eight years ago. They moved to Marin County a year ago, making their home on Ames road in Ross. Her husband was a civilian employee of the Military Sea Transportation Service at Fort Mason.

Since his death, Mrs. Tame moved to the Women's Athletic Club of San Francisco. She has no known survivors.

DEATHS

TAME—In San Francisco, Nov. 20, 1958, Molly Steines, beloved wife of the late Grant Tame, loving daughter of the late Charles and Marguerite Steines.

Friends may call after 7 o'clock Friday evening. The funeral will take place Monday, Nov. 24, at 9 a.m., from the Memorial Chapels of Carew and English, Masonic at Golden Gate avenue, thence to St. Brigid's Church, Van Ness avenue at Broadway, where a Solemn Requiem Mass will be offered for the repose of her soul commencing at 9:30 o'clock. Interment, Holy Cross Cemetery. Rosary Sunday evening at 8 o'clock. Donations to the San Francisco College for Women's Foundation or the Little Children's Aid Memorial Fund preferred. (11/22) afternoon in Marin Municipal Court.

Franks' car hit one driven by Robert H. Brossier, 23, of 14 Adrian way, San Rafael. Brossier's passengers were his brother, Leon Brossier, 18, of 58 Laurel avenue, San Anselmo, and James Corbett, 22, of 169 Pine avenue, San Anselmo.

The older Brossier brother was treated at Marin General Hospital for a fractured fourth finger on the left hand and bruises. The other two youths received emergency treatment for minor injuries. Franks was treated for bruises on his right knee and forehead.

At 11:46 p.m. yesterday Jerry Forkner, 16, of 42 North San Pedro road, San Rafael, suffered a badly cut chin when his car went into an embankment near 380 Corte Madera avenue as he was southbound toward Mill Valley. He was treated at Marin General Hospital. Forkner told Corte Madera police he swerved right as another car approached him over the double line. His car was a total wreck, according to police.

Earlier, at 10:25 p.m., a car driven by Raymond Fred Burton, 46, a stock feeder on Big Rock Ranch, Lucas Valley, went out of control two-tenths of a mile north of the Hamilton Air Force Base main gate and rolled onto its left side in the center divider strip. Burton was uninjured, according to the California Highway Patrol.

A Greyhound bus driver, Glen Tarwater, 45, of 196 Cascade drive, Fairfax, was cited for excessive speed yesterday by the California Highway Patrol after his bus struck the rear of a car driven by Robbie Golden Harvey, 18, a College of Marin student who lives at Marin City. The accident happened at 7:50 a.m. yesterday on Tiburon boulevard at its intersection with Trestle Glen boulevard. Harvey had stopped in the eastbound lane to make a left turn when his car was hit in the rear by the bus, according to CHP Officer Richard Hart.

Harvey's passengers, Louvenia J. Harvey, 48, and Jessy Snell, 38, both of Marin City, complained of neck injuries and said they would see their own doctors.

San Rafael police cited George C. Dyer of Hillsborough for misdemeanor hit-run driving and making an improper right turn about 2:30 a.m. today after the car he was driving hit a fire hydrant and stop sign at the northwest corner of Fourth and G streets.

Dyer told officers he failed to stop because he didn't want to get in trouble. Police halted the hit-run car at Fourth and H streets after it had passed the accident scene, again without stopping. San Rafael firemen turned off the damaged hydrant.

Wheel, Clothing Taken From Cars

Sherry M. Smith of 124 Oak drive, San Rafael, said she parked her car in the United Markets' parking lot about 4:30 p.m. When she returned about 15 minutes later, newly cleaned clothes in the back seat were gone. The loss included shirts, skirt, and trousers.

Phyliss S. Milano of 1021 Second street, Novato, parked her car in the municipal parking lot at Second and Francisco about 8 a.m. When she got back at 5:45 p.m., the right front tire and wheel were gone from her car.

DISPUTE

tains a clause which begins District 1 (Ross Valley) shall not be obliged during the term of this contract to further enlarge its plant to accommodate an addition to permitted flow of sewage from District 2 (Corte Madera)'.

"This is certainly not what we want and is unacceptable to me as one of the five directors of District 2," Rippe said.

Rippe declared: "It is obvious to both sanitary district boards that something has got to be done about our sewage. We are now asking for authorization to sell bonds in the sum of $850,000. This much money would be required even if we were to successfully negotiate a contract with District 1. Further delay in providing funds will not be cheap."

The second reply to Jenks came from Adlard, chairman of Corte Madera's planning commission. Adlard said, "Existing facilities are adequate for a population of about 1,800. A conservative estimate of the present population is approximately 4,500 persons. In a period of heavy rainfall, raw sewage pours over the streets in Corte Madera and into the drainage canals and lagoons."

Continued Adlard: "The integration of the two sanitary districts would be the rational solution to our problem. Our board of directors has offered to dissolve the district and have it absorbed by Ross Valley Sanitary District. This offer was refused." He estimated that this exchange of offer and refusal took place in 1955.

Adlard said the Corte Madera District directors also offered to pay Ross Valley Sanitary District $320,000 for increased capacity at the Greenbrae plant.

He continued: "The estimated cost of these facilities was $175,000. The extra $145,000 was a bonus offered to expedite the construction of the facilities and to spare the Corte Madera taxpayers the larger expense of constructing their own facilities. However, in almost three years of negotiations the two districts have not been able to reach an equitable agreement."

There are four scheduled air lines in the U.S. each of which travels more passenger miles from one city to another than any single railroad in the country.

Cadillac Burns In Garage Of Tam Valley Home

Neither the garage nor house was damaged but the car's interior was completely gutted, with damage estimated by Asst. Fire Chief Ralph Smith at $1,500.

Volunteer Fireman Herman Koolhoven suffered painful but not serious facial burns when rubber backing in the car's upholstery burst during the fire and struck him in the face.

Bad Check Artist Found Guilty

Donald (Cadillac) Roberts, 32, described as a smooth-talking San Anselmo promoter, was found guilty yesterday of passing a series of five bad checks at a Corte Madera market.

Judge N. Charles Brusatori of Marin Superior Court ordered Roberts held in county jail until Dec. 8 for a report from the probation office and for sentencing.

Car Makers Counting On Big Backlog Of Unfilled Demand

Part of the expected 1959 sales will be delayed replacement volume. By all normal indicators a broader new car market is due.

One industry authority said: "You can't cut sales volume from approximately six million units to 4,785,000 in a single year without storing up a lot of unfilled demand."

The figures represent the 1957 total and the indicated 1958 volume. Imported cars are included in both instances. They numbered nearly 207,000 in 1957 and are indicated at close to 365,000 for 1958.

Trying to overcome a new car shortage that developed at the start of the new model year the industry generally is working overtime. It has scheduled production of 500,000 cars this month and 600,000 in December. That would bring the year's assemblies to approximately 4,237,000 cars.

While the industry is trying to rebuild inventories depleted by work stoppages in October, it undoubtedly will gear production to indicated demand after dealer stocks have been replenished. It is not likely dealer inventories will approach the high of 865,000 units counted March 1.

It is an interesting fact that wherever future car sales are considered the unknown factor is the penetration of imported vehicles.

In 1955, when the U.S. car industry sold seven and a half million new cars, only 58,500 were imported units. The 1959 total of imported vehicles is virtually certain to reach 400,000 units.

The majority of these, of course, would be high-mileage cars delivering for under $2,000.

There is little doubt among industry analysts that a line of smaller cars will come from General Motors, Ford and Chrysler assembly lines in this country.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. William Langer (R-N.D.) wants national elections held on Sundays in hopes more people will vote.

Langer said European nations get a better voter turnout with Sunday balloting than the United States does on Tuesdays.

Langer said he will introduce a bill in January to provide that presidential and congressional elections be held on the first Sunday in November.

Segrue Named By Knights Of Pythias

Emmett Segrue of Sausalito Thursday was re-elected chancellor commander of Muir Lodge 136, Knights of Pythias, at a Thursday meeting in Thorn Hall, Mill Valley.

Other officers elected at the meeting are James McCloud, Mill Valley, vice chancellor; James Smith, Sausalito, master of work; Elwood Ford, San Anselmo, prelate; Harold Owens, Sausalito, secretary; James Martinoni, Sausalito, financial secretary; Allyn Young, Sausalito, treasurer; Alvin Fredieu, San Rafael, inner guard, and Eugene Vance, Sausalito, outer guard.

Messages to the lodge were delivered by William Spellman of Los Angeles, grand master of arms of the Grand Lodge of California; Walter Taylor of Petaluma, past grand chancellor of the state lodge, and Milton Natchinson, past chancellor commander of Continental Lodge in New York.

FAMILY ENTERPRISE

Florist To Start Sixth Decade In San Rafael

Francis C. Burns, dean of Marin florists, this month winds up five decades, and starts a sixth, in the flower business in San Rafael.

He will celebrate the golden anniversary of F. C. Burns, Florist, with an open house at 1230 Fifth avenue Nov. 30.

The business was started by his father, Charles Burns, in 1908, with Burns, then 15 years old, as assistant. The shop's first location was at 826 Fourth street.

Charles Burns died in 1910, and his son took over management of the shop. In that same year the shop was moved to the Burchard Building on Fourth street, whence it was later moved to the location now occupied by Luana's.

In 1954, the shop moved again, becoming the first business establishment on Fifth avenue.

Appeal Board To Review Building Code

The County of Marin Board of Appeals will give a final review of the new building code revisions Tuesday night before the revised code goes to the county supervisors for approval.

The board of appeals will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the second floor of the courthouse in San Rafael.

Otto H. Meyer, chief building inspector, said the building code revisions tighten some laws, loosen others, clarify vague points, and make editorial corrections.

Illumination of exit signs in a new convalescent home at the Professional parkway across from Terra Linda will come up for discussion. The new building, to be operated by Lydia Yanke, has exit signs that are not lighted, whereas illumination is required for a building of that size.

Nursery Operation Redesign Suggested

Redesign of a proposed retail nursery operation for the Erb Tree Service on Mill Valley's Miller avenue, was suggested by the city's architectural advisory subcommittee Thursday night.

Chairman Mario Corbett announced resignations of engineer Robert C. Coolidge and Mrs. Richard Bennett as members. Mrs. Bennett was the representative of the Outdoor Art Club.

Man Booked In Child Molesting

Herbert Ward Cook, 37, of 111 Montford avenue, Homestead Valley, was booked by Sheriff's Sergeant Guy V. Gibbs and deputy Edmund Mauberret yesterday afternoon after he confessed to the officers he had molested a 5-year-old girl earlier in the day.

Officers said the girl reported she was walking up a path on her way home from Homestead School when "a big man in a red and white shirt" held her arm and molested her. When she screamed, the man ran away. Later, Mill Valley Police Chief James McGowan and Officer Dan Terzich picked up Cook for questioning as a molester suspect.

When the girl confronted him, Cook confessed.

He was booked on the felony charge of molesting a child and placed in the county jail.

In The Tinkling Of A Highball, Mr. Big, Miss Little Are Chums

The great human leveler is the annual office party. It's a distant cousin of the regional convention and bears some of the same family characteristics except that they are carved a little deeper.

This does not take in the small office where year long relations are usually on the informal side from the boss on down.

The one I mean is the institutional gathering where the executives—the Mr. Bigs for the past 12 months—in the tinkling of a highball become Joe and Jim and George, and the Miss Littles are urged to eschew restraint more ways than one in the intimacy of good fellowship.

It is a produent employee who can survive the hair loosening without wondering afterward if he talked or acted indiscreetly and if so he hopes it will blow over.

Take Mr. Meekly. He's been buried in figures all year—fiscal reports, operation costs, balance sheets and profit and loss. Seldom known to raise his voice in protest he has been sorely irked by the retail department which has never been able to get out an intelligible inventory but he doesn't want to start anything.

Encouraged by three quaffs of good cheer and some prompting from the Vice-President he not only spills the beans on stock shortages but allows the PBX operator to sit on his lap and muss his hair. Before the party is over the two of them have invented a new version of the samba.

THE PRIVATE SECRETARY to the big boss has always been cool and efficient — a model of confidential trust and propriety. If there is one person she can't stand it is the office manager who continually annoys her with petty gossip, like the salesman's padded expense vouchers and has she heard what kind of a bonus will be passed out this year.

It doesn't discourage Mr. Fussy, however, from holding her hand over a draft of grain juice, and confiding that he is misunderstood by his wife. At this point she may even be inclined to regard him less distastefully.

Her fate is saved by the boss himself who intervenes to slap Fussy on the back and ask what's new. This is Fussy's chance to burble about the expense vouchers.

The matter is adroitly referred to Bill Quota, the salesmanager, who isn't too interested at that moment because he's got a nice little deal cooking with his stenographer, and he promises to look into it next week.

Meanwhile, a quartet composed of two clerks from the shipping department, the advertising manager and some fellow nobody knows — probably wandered in by mistake — struggles through Sweet Adeline with everyone trying to sing tenor.

One corner is clouded with smoke from the top salesmen who do so much entertaining at company expense, this type of party is considered small time stuff. They'd rather puff cigars and brag about their orders, especially as they have the rapt attention of the office boy who hopes to be like them someday.

MOST UNHAPPY MAN at the affair is Elmer Loudmouth, office wit and Casanova. Someone played a dirty trick on him and invited his wife and she came — the only one who did. Under her watchful chaperonage he can only smile weakly on the sidelines and shrug helplessly at the blond from addressograph and mailing who has been giving him the eye.

This is the great American holiday event just about a month away — Operation Office Party — or one version thereof. However, if your spouse should read this and insist that you're going to have a conflicting date this year, just say there isn't a vestige of truth in it.

Really, I'm an awful liar.

MINIATURE TURKEYS ON WOODSY KEYNOTE

Given large sugar pine cones for the gobblers' plump bodies, small cones for heads, some bird tail feathers (or quills plucked from a feather duster) for proud, spreading tails, several members of the Guild can turn out unmistakable turkeys.

Mrs. Frederick Macondray, Guild president, and Mrs. Fred Sloat, both with talent at taking bits of dried autumn harvest and making them into decorations, are the turkey-makers. They also make place cards for Thanksgiving entertaining, turning small and tiny cones into whimsical birds; make fist-size turkeys with dried wheat tails; and large ones for dominating Thanksgiving dinner tables.

The Teasel room at the Art and Garden Center, where many volunteer members of the Guild are busy preparing for the Greens Sale Dec. 12 and 13, is a workshop rich with the sight and smell of nature's fall materials. Dried moss, burrs and teasels, pods and cones, buds and sheaves of leaves, all lie waiting for gifted hands driven by imagination that will turn them into Christmas wreaths, trees, placques and novelties for the sale.

"Order Your Turkey Now" is not only the advice of your butcher, but of the Guild. Hours at the Art and Garden Center's Octagon House headquarters for Guild sales are from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Proceeds of all sales go toward the maintenance of the non-profit Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross, a cultural organization of art, theater, dance, music, and children's activities, serving the entire county.

Mirror Walls Add Space To Rooms

Among interior wall coverings for use in modern homes, there is one, an unframed architectural mirror, that does a lot more than merely provide an attractive surface for the wall.

According to glass stylists, mirroring actually doubles the apparent size of the room, extending the expanse of walls, ceiling and floor, thus giving an illusion of greater spaciousness to areas that would otherwise be boxlike and confining.

A mirror-wall also increases the amount of light in the room, is easily cleaned, never needs refinishing and "matches" immediately any type of room decoration.

"FRESH HORSEMEAT" Not a Slogan But a Reality

He Made History At San Quentin

By BETH BURCHARD

You know the stereotype of the tough guy prison warden, brawling and barking his way among the "cons" of the Big House?

Well, look again at Clinton Duffy, the most famous warden of them all, as mild a man as you'll ever meet.

He is your neighbor. He lives in San Anselmo, just a few miles from San Quentin Prison, the "town where he was born and the institution he commanded for 11 history-making years.

Clint Duffy has not been warden of the prison for close to seven years. But his name is still synonymous with the kind of prison it is, and the job he now holds with the California Adult Authority is intimately involved with the 5,000 men who live within its walls.

HE DELIVERED newspapers inside the prison as a little boy. Nothing he has observed from then until now, at the age of 60, has changed his view that a convict is an individual human being — a man who must be judged and punished and helped according to his own problems and personality.

It is this facet of Clint Duffy that won him fame. For it was he, perhaps more than any other man, who changed prisons from dungeons into places of hope. And he did it in the face of skepticism if not outright opposition from some oldline penologists who thought men in prison should be at least figuratively men in chains.

Duffy was born in 1898, in a small white house on the prison reservation. His father, William Joseph Duffy, was a farmer turned prison guard. There were eight children, of whom Duffy was the sixth. Seven are still living, five in Marin.

IN HIS BOOK, "The San Quentin Story, written in collaboration with Tiburon author Dean Jennings, Duffy described growing up on the reservation.

"The neat little blue suits I wore were made from my father's wornout guard unforms. Like other boys I had a paper route, but mine ran from the front gate to the warden's office . . . and I didn't dare lose a copy when prisoners were around because the local papers were contraband. We climbed forbidden trees, usually the pomegranates around the warden's house, or those in a tiny orchard below the east gate gun tower.

"We went fishing too, but we were never out of sight of the tower guns. Instead of cops-and-robbers we played prisoners - and - guards, but there was always an argument because very few of the boys wanted to be guards. We knew scores of prisoners by their first names. They were our friends and 'neighbors' and some of them took great risks to steal ice cream from the officers mess and smuggled it out to us."

"MY FATHER, IN TRUTH, was more of a friend than jailer. . . . He was self-conscious about weapons among other things and never used the club that all guards carried at the time. . . . During those early years, Dad would come home fuming over the injustices inflicted on prisoners every day."

It was in prison, in his childhood, too, that Clint found the love that would last him all his life. Gladys Carpenter was the daughter of a prison guard. "We were sweethearts in grammar school," says Clint today. "And we still are, believe me."

The two became engaged after graduation from San Rafael High School and were married on Dec. 31, 1921. They left San Quentin for awhile after that. Upon discharge from the Marine Corps following World War I, he went to work for the Northwestern Pacific railroad, and still later took a job with a construction company a quarter mile from the prison. In 1929 he got a job as office assistant to Warden James Holohan. "I was home again, at last," says Duffy.

THERE WERE MANY things about the prison that Duffy found distasteful during the years he worked there, first as the warden's sercetary, and later as historian and secretary to the Board of Prison Terms and Paroles which has its counterpart today in the California Adult Authority. There were prison breaks, and hangings, and later an increasing record of cruelty to prisoners. But it wasn't until 1938 and 1939 that brutality became part of a statewide scandal, prompting Gov. Culbert Olson to demand an investigation. It was a time when "hate and fear walked hand in hand," says Duffy.

In a clean sweep, Olson fired the whole board of prison directors, and on July 14, 1940, a new five-man board convened at San Quentin to consider the next move.

Warden Court Smith, under pressure, resigned.

The board made Clint Duffy, the son of a guard, the warden of San Quentin prison.

HIS FIRST APPOINTMENT was for 30 days, "to kind of watch over things until the board decided what to do next." Thirty days later Duffy's job became a four-year appointment and a life's career.

He didn't sit out that first 30 days. He fired six guards. He closed up the dungeons. He banned the use of whips, straps, rubber hoses and other forms of corporal punishment. He abolished head shaving for prisoners, "because I felt that coming to prison was humiliating enough." He signed another order eliminating the big numbers stamped in black on every inmate's clothes. Men had never been merely numbers to Clint—now they became men with names to the whole prison administration.

MUCH HAS BEEN MADE of the fact that Duffy did what no warden had ever done before—he walked alone and unguarded through the prison yard. He knew that as warden he was a man worth kidnaping because he could give the order to unlock the gates. He knew that many of the thousands of convict pockets hid makeshift weapons.

"But," he wrote of his first journey through the yard, "I wasn't thinking of those things. I saw them not as strangers or criminals, but as human beings whose virtues and faults I knew better than anyone else, whose case histories I had studied for the parole board, whose wives and mothers and children I had known from many a tearful visit over the years.

"My heart (told) me I was safer in San Quentin than most other men are in the streets of their home towns."

DUFFY DID MUCH to win the trust and respect of the men during his 11-year tenure. He instituted programs there which are now part of a philosophy of training and treatment of prisoners throughout the nation.

He introduced academic and vocational programs, strengthened religious activity, allowed clubs and athletics, a band and hobby work. For six years the inmates ran a radio program called "San Quentin on the Air," its theme song, "Time on My Hands." In prison, many persons learned to read and write for the first time. Men received union cards from locals outside the prison for the skills they learned inside. Alcoholics Anonymous came to the prison under Duffy's aegis, to help men lick the emotional problems that made them turn to liquor and often as a result, to crime.

"At least 95 per cent of these men are bound to return sometime to society," Duffy said. "We wanted to make them better neighbors, good people."

IN THOSE YEARS OF CHANGE, when he and Gladys lived in the warden's house on the hill, Duffy said he "got a lot of good advice at home." Mrs. Duffy was as much involved as he in the pioneering that was done. While today Duffy maintains an unlisted phone number and hence, address, he says it's to protect them both from late-night phone calls from former inmates, their friends and relatives; it's not because of fear. "Gladys was never one mite afraid," he says. And the inmates, sure of her interest in them, returned it with respect and often times, affection.

Life changed abruptly for the Duffys when he was appointed, late in 1951, to the better-paying adult authority.

His days as warden were over; the late Harley O. Teets became warden. They moved from the town that had been home for half a century to a new but temporary home in Kent Woodlands. Their lives however, were not as they might have envisioned for "after San Quentin": less hectic, with plenty of time for their gardens. Clint Duffy went on the road.

NOW VICE CHAIRMAN of the authority, Duffy is away from home three weeks out of every month, hearing cases at the state's eight institutions: Folsom State Prison, the California Institution for Men at Chino, the farm branch of Chino at Tehachapi, Soledad State Prison, the Medical Facility at Vacaville, the Duel Vocational Institution at Tracy, the California Men's Colony at San Luis Obispo and San Quentin itself.

For the most part the seven man board hears cases in panels of two or three, except when there is a case of great public impact. The board reviews the entire history of the man who comes before it before setting a definite sentence, refusing to set sen-

GOOD OLD DAYS — Back in 1898, when Dr. F. J. Hund first came to Marin with his family, he used these time tables to commute to high school in San Francisco. The prices seem miraculous now— $4 a month from Mill Valley, $4 from San Rafael. The time table was printed on a pink cardboard about post cord size. (Courtesy Dr. F. J. Hund of San Rafael)

The Good Old Days Of Commuting

By A. BRAY DICKINSON

Seldom has a brief journey ever yielded such scenic variety and charm as the one along the former North Pacific Coast narrow guage railroad which transported thousands of commuters, picknickers, vacationers, hikers and sportsmen over some 80-odd miles of rails extending into the north coast redwood forests.

The journey commenced from San Francisco's embarcadero at the north end of the old ferry shed and while the new Ferry Building was in process of construction during the middle 1890's a wooden shack, built on the dock planking just to the north, served as ticket office and waiting room. N.P.C. Company was again allotted its usual location after completion of the new building.

When a ferry steamer docked in the old days the captain came ashore with his passengers, opened a rear door to the waiting room and checked all ticket-holders as they filed by to his boat.

This duty completed, he followed the last one aboard and climbed the ladder to his place in the pilot house. A gong clanged in the engine room; the whistle sounded as paddle-wheels began to churn the water. Slowly the steamer backed away from the pier, encireled by flocks of raucous sea gulls.

THE FERRY trip consumed a pleasant 30 minutes, along the city's waterfront to within a stone's throw of Alcatraz Rock and then across the Bay within sight of the Golden Gate, guarded then by old Fort Mason. In those days no lofty span obstructed the view to sea and of ships on the horizon.

The ferryboat came under shelter of Marin hills, skirted sailing yachts anchored off old Sausalito, to finally move alongside the pier. Then came a flurry of transferring mail, express and passengers to waiting trains.

As before stated, N.P.C. coaches were painted a buttercup yellow. Battened sides, with an oval number panel in the center, characterized their construction in contrast to narrow tonge-and-groove used in neater appearing cars of a later period. Arched window frames made a show of decorative art. The overhead ventilator boxing flattened into the roof before it extended out over the platform at either end of the car.

Platform steps allowed passengers to climb on or off both front and rear. An iron guard rail on each platform supported an iron brake wheel for the manually operated brakes.

RUNNING GEAR consisted of two 4-wheel trucks. Coaches were small and narrow, which made necessary a row of single seats on one side of the center aisle with double seats opposite. For better balance this order was reversed half way along which caused a sharp bend or jog in the aisle. Seats were covered with red or green plush. Windows could be raised or lowered but were set well above each corresponding seat so that one could not comfortably lean an elbow on the sill. All interior woodwork was polished and varnished.

Panels, in the natural grain, filled in spaces between the small windows. In one corner of the car a cubbyhole lavatory served both men and women. Perhaps the decorator had a sense of humor for across its narrow door was stencilled the word "Saloon" in gold letters. A shelf on the outside wall of this small compartment supported a metal container for drinking water, painted a deep red and trimmed in gold, with a drinking cup chained to it.

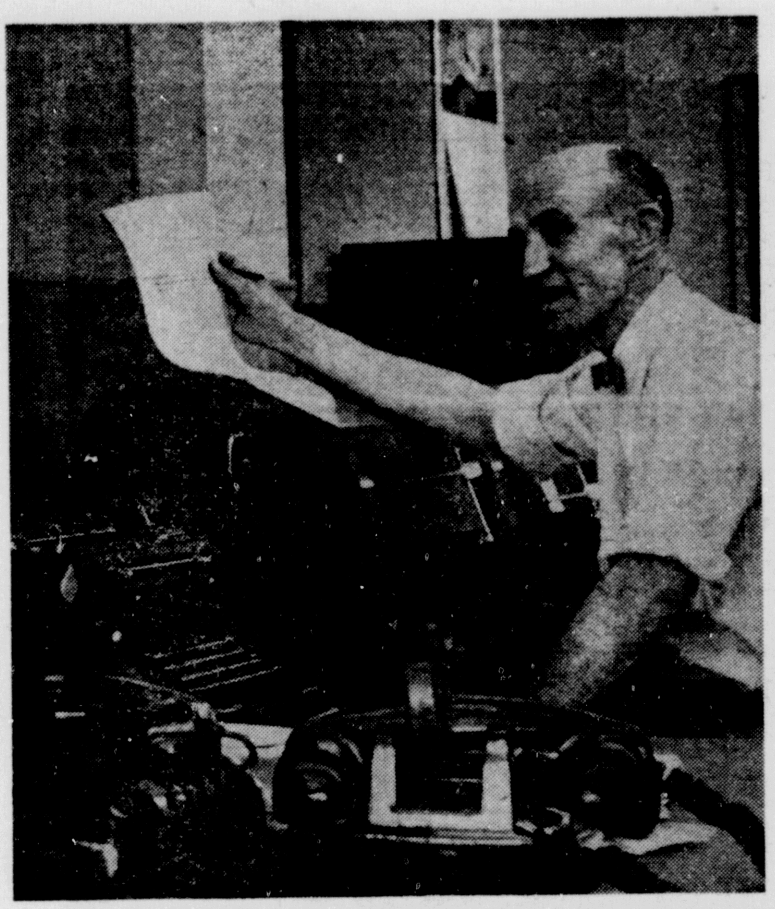
During winter mornings, a pot-bellied "caboose" stove burned wood and coal at the other end of the coach. In case of accident, passengers risked cremation from upset stoves. At best, the few sitting nearby sweltered while those farther away kept to their wraps and endured cold feet.

The ceiling held two coal-oil lamps rigged in metal frames, the lighting of which was a rather complicated task. If the train ran into evening time, a brakeman straddled the aisle by standing on the arms of opposite seats and lit the wick after striking a sulphur match on pants leg. Straps, each with a ring at the bottom, hung from the ceiling at spaced intervals. Through these rings ran a bell cord from car to car and on into the engine cab. Thus the engineer could be signalled in case of emergency.

Trains were usually made up by hooking the express and mail car behind the tender; next came a combination smoking car followed by passenger coaches. The forward end of the smoker contained a freight or heavy baggage compartment with a sliding door on each side. A smoking compartment for men covered approximately the rear two-thirds of the car.

This section had regular passenger car windows but bench seats ran lengthwise on either side. This was a car for drunks and anglers and hunters (who might be placed in the same category after imbibing all day from a pocket flask while in field or stream.)

Tunnel smoke penetrated their compartment with difficulty for the air already was thick with tobacco smoke and whiskey fumes. Jokes and tall tales bandied about were stale as the air, but always brought uproarious laughter.



NEWS IN THE MAKING — City Editor Bryce W. Anderson (right) talks over story with reporter while he scans story coming in from Mill Valley correspondent Larry Lovett. Adjoining teletype brings news from Bob Newcomb in Novato. Three phones on desk ring constantly.

Only The Beginning

Each edition of the Independent-Journal brings together facts from all over the world, pictures and features from all parts of the county.

Gathering the news, however complicated, is just the beginning of a day-long, year-round process. Instead of one deadline, there are many. No sooner is today's news typed, edited and dummied than tomorrow's is on the way. As early as 2 p.m. (perhaps before the presses roll), certain pages of tomorrow!

Scarcely are the plates for today's Page 1 fitted onto the presses than, upstairs in the composing room, certain pages for the following day are being set, proof-read and assembled for first run. The pictures on these pages

WIRE NEWS — Bank of teletypes connected with major news services feed yards of copy on state, national and world events. Assistant news editor Dick Layman (left) cuts off awaited section of story while news editor Beth Burchard (at desk) dummies pages for "first run," or the second section which is made up and printed first. tence, or recommending parole. The board hears 10,000 cases a year.

Duffy is proud of the record of men on parole. Statistics show that of the 7,500 men now on parole from California prisons, about one-third are destined to return. Half of that one third will be returned for technical violation of parole; only 16 per cent will be re-imprisoned for felonies.

Over the last 10 years, these statistics have been reduced one per cent annually on the "success side."

"This represents an improvement in training and treatment in prison, proper placement of men, some better understanding by the public, and better supervision on parole," says Duffy.

DUFFY SEES MUCH MORE to be done, however, and grins when he says so. "I've always got some crazy idea, they say."

"I think we could handle approximately 25 per cent of those who are now committed to prison on a community level, without making ex-convicts out of them. An ex-convict has two strikes against him.

"To do that, we have to have expanded community services, more probation officers, clinical areas where potential convicts could be treated. We should expand counseling services, and the vocational and education training areas. Religion should be encouraged. We should make more use of the Huber plan (where jail inmates are released during the work week, are incarcerated only at night and on weekends.) That way these men can pay their bills, make restitution while earning a wage, support their families —and still not get away with violation of the law.

He feels that men who commit crimes of violence should be confined.)

"I would also like to see established a state department of" (he fumbled for a title) "say, delinquency and crime prevention. To try to detect and prevent crime well before it happens."

SUCH A DEPARTMENT he envisions as tying together and making maximum use of community institutions — schools, church, family, club, places of employment, clinical services. Crime prevention would become a statewide effort, involving every community agency in every town.

"It would be less costly than commitment and surely more effective," he says.

"For example, a teacher might see that Willie's heading in the wrong direction. She could refer him to the department's office. And the department would make maximum use of all the people and institutions in the community who might help Willie turn out to be a good man instead of an ex-convict."

WHAT'S AHEAD, for Clint Duffy?

In the immediate future there's a sightseeing jaunt with Gladys to Mexico where they will see his sister, a trip to Florida and New York City where they will see their son, 36-year-old Jack Duffy, medical director for the International Business Machines.

He will continue a heavy schedule of speeches to Alcoholics Anonymous groups throughout the state ("where sometimes I see as many as 50 men I used to know as inmates at San Quentin."). Clint, who enjoys an occasional highball himself, thinks too much alcohol has a heavy hand in crime.

And for those retirement years? "I hope to keep on in prison work, perhaps as a consultant. I'd like to help clear up public misunderstanding on the issue of capitol punishment." (Duffy's against it). "A lot of people in countries overseas have been interested in our prison system and who knows, perhaps we'll be abroad . . ."

FRED FINSLEY, chairman of the adult authority, sums up Clint this way: "He's one of the most affable men in the world, with a sound understanding of his job and what is required. He's a conservative sort of fellow, mild and not at all aggressive. But when he has a point of view, he expresses it and never backs off."

Al Goodman of Kentfield, a friend of many years, says: "The big thing about Clint is his sincerity. He has terrific insight into the likes and dislikes of other people. With Clint, it's not all one-way; it's about 60-40, with 60 per cent of the giving done by Clint."

Richard A. McGee, director of the state Department of Corrections, praises Duffy's contribution to the acceptance of modern practices in prisons and says: "He is a person of keen perception of personality, and a man of warm human sympathy. In this respect, he has been particularly valuable as a member of the adult authority."

Says his wife, Gladys: "He's a very, very thoughtful and kindly man, with a great deal of patience and a great deal of humility. After 37 years of marriage I can tell you, he's a wonderful, wonderful guy."

GODETIA — (Godeti a amoena), also called Farewell-to-Spring. This four-petaled, showy, rose-pink flower of summer brightens many of our roadside banks and dry hill slopes. The 1- to 2-ft. stem has narrow leaves. The petals may be as much as an inch in length and may show dark splotches at the base. The ovary, which becomes the seed pod, is entirely below the petals (From "Out-of-Doors in Marin," copyrighted by M. F. Austin.)

LINOTYPE BANK — Here, words are turned into metal, not only for news stories but for advertisements. Each story bears an identifying "slug" referring to its heading or "HTK," meaning "hed to kum." A Thousand Tiny Pieces Of Metal

If you felt like counting them, you would find there are approximately 120 lines of type or "slugs" in a single column of the Independent-Journal—not to mention the invisible spacers, the rows of base metal under cuts and the jigsaw puzzles of metal which space out the isolated lines of type in advertisements.

It all adds up to somewhere around 1,000 pieces of metal to be assembled from several linotype machines, the "ad alley" and the makeup drawers.

Finishing touch is to "justify" the page, or take up vertical slack with thin leaves of metal 1/72 of an inch thick. Then the form is tightened to take up lateral slack, the type pounded to tamp it level.

Type metal, often referred to as "lead," is actually an amalgam of lead, antimony and tin. It is somewhat lighter than pure lead and much harder. To further lighten the burden of makeup, each slug has a honeycomb back. Even so, a tray or "galley" of type weighs several pounds.

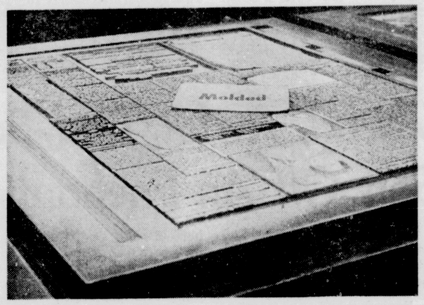
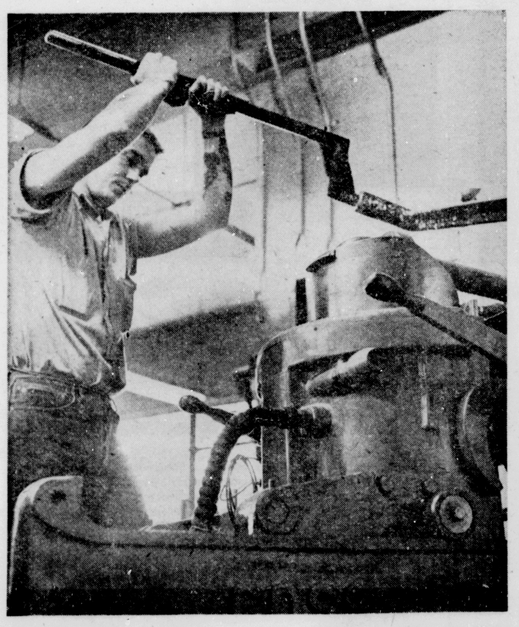
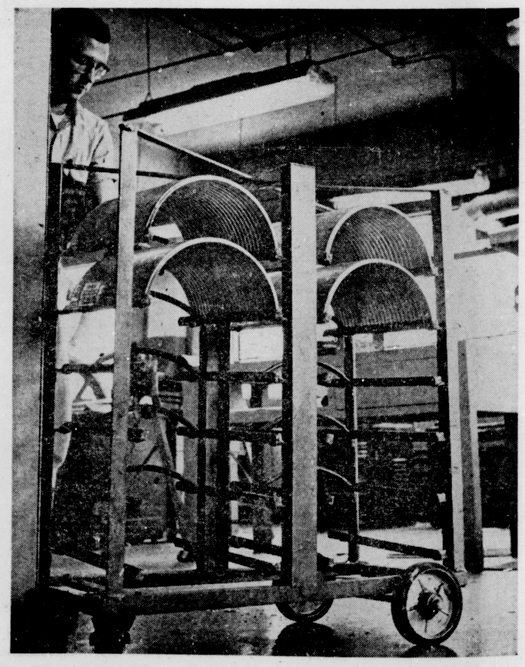
SHRUNK — This printer's version of the electric mangle irons mat into curve and bakes out moisture, shrinking it with microscopic accurancy. Low places in mat have been backed with felt strips.



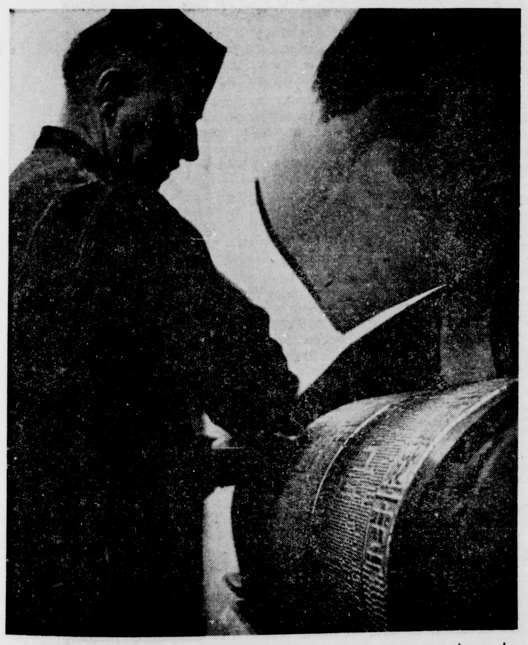
MOLDED! — This cardboard sign marks Women's Page form which has been matted. Pages are not dismantled, however, until it is certain they will not be needed for re-casting.



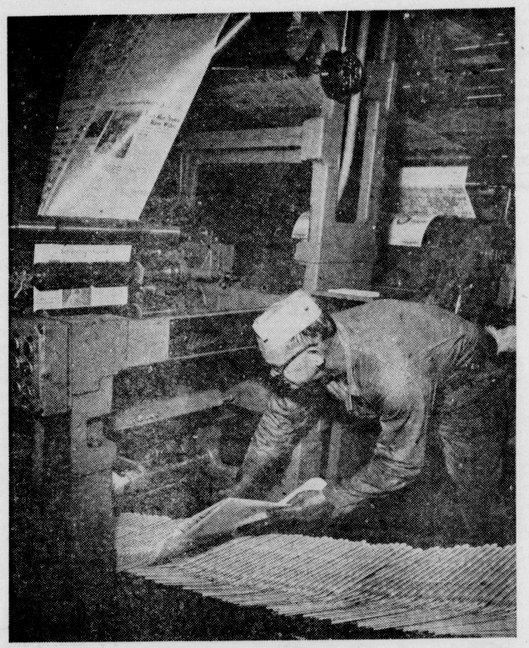
CASTING A MAT — Ken Harris pulls lever which sends molten "lead" into form around mat. Several castings may be made for one mat. Careful check is made of mats to check for air-bubbles (cold type) or other flaws. Plates are then machined to fit precision presses.



LOADING THE DOLLY — Stereotyper Ashton Hutchins loads plates on dolly for elevator trip to basement presses. Top two are duplicates, as are second two. While paper is usually not "off the presses" until 2 p.m., larger and larger papers mean several sections, the earliest of which may be rolled off the presses at 10 a.m.



ON THE PRESS — Plates of paired pages are fitted onto press drums by pressman Morris O. Dahl. Another pair of plates prints opposite sides of paper, which is fed from huge rolls loaded from basement level of two-story presses. From rolls paper weaves this way and that through rollers giving an effect known as "the web." A break in "the web" means stop-page while repairs are made. Press adjustments are made to thousandth of inch.



HERE THEY COME — Pressman Melvin L. Davis pulls paper from outgoing stream to check ink feed and plate adjustment. Machine automatically trips every 50th paper for counting purposes. For each paper pulled from stream, another must be inserted to keep count accurate. Stero flash stops movement of printed strip, but to human eye it appears as blur. This part of press cuts and folds papers.

THE HEN OR THE EGG?

Marin Bookshelf

HOW TO RAISE YOUR CHILD'S IQ, by David Engler; Criterion Books, 153 pp., $3.50.

"Which comes first, the chicken of achievement or the egg of intelligence?"

In posing this "hen or the egg" question, author David Engler gets at the root not only of "intelligence quotient" testing methods, but of their results.

In this day of overemphasis of the results of IQ tests (as opposed to IQ, itself), he shows how the class divisions resulting from often poorly given tests tends to widen the breach. A score of 128, for instance, might bar bright Marsha from the benefits of an enrichment program given to those with scores of 130 or more.

Elsewhere in the book, he notes that the child's score may vary as much as 24 points, depending on anything from a head cold to a fight at home to poor reading ability. Half the children tested will re-test up to six points higher or four points lower on a second try.

The other half will show even more change!

With quite conclusive figures, he shows the startling effect of good foster home environment on children of parents with IQs lower than normal. The youngsters who were put in foster homes before the age of two turned out with a medium IQ of 100.5.

Those who lived in their own subnormal homes for 12 to 15 years of their lives tested 53.1. Interim cases show a distinct parallel between the length of time under subnormal parentage and IQ scores.

For instance, a tot who plays with a toy where he puts blocks into holes will breeze through a test of the same type. A child with a wide range of experience will be much more able to name objects in a picture than one who has been left to his own resources.

The author goes into the art of answering a child's questions, and a delicate art it is. He suggests mind-stretching games, toys and family activities.

The last one-third of the book is devoted to practice exercises similar to standard IQ tests.

His thesis is that the parent can do much to give his child the advantages of a higher IQ score—as well as the higher IQ itself. —A.E.

Reviewed by LEE ADAMS

Ten year old Colin Mason thought he was the biggest and the oldest of four Mason children until that fateful Saturday he discovered he had a mysterious older sister, that "awful, awful, bad, bad girl—Loretta Mason Potts."

Determined to find out Loretta's secret, Colin pursued her over the strange bridge to the flickering lights atop the black hill behind the Potts farm. Consequently, poor Mother Mason suddenly found herself with one angelically transformed Loretta and four newly fallen, unrepentent children, all wearing that same "sly look" and "secret smile" a rebellious Loretta had worn for so many years.

ONCE OVER the initial hurdle of self-consciousness, which makes the beginning of this enchanting tale seem comparatively contrived, the Pulitzer Prize-winning author of Harvey and Mrs. McThing gives the story over to her delightful characters. In their hands the telling takes on its special tone of lyrical and spontaneous magic mixed in a delicate balance with realism.

Indeed, the young reader may half expect Mrs. Newby, who talks to the birds and usually leaves her shoes on the bus, to float to the ceiling a la Poppins.

The incredible becomes convincingly credible as a ten-inch Countess and her bemedaled, be-monocled ten-inch General assume command of the Mason family, and the beautiful ballerina doll, Irene Irene Lavene, unwittingly precipitates Judgment Day on both sides of the strange bridge.

Children will want to read this spell-binding story again and again for its ever fresh imagination, its sparkling humor, and lovable characters.

The Hill street youngsters fabricated a theft story to sell extra copies of their neighborhood newspaper. Then Ooops! The crime was almost simultaneously committed. No wonder the police thought the Editor and Reporters were the prime suspects.

Homey mystery story sprinkled with little clues and deductions. Eight or 12 year old girls could easily identify themselves with these suburbanites.

Director, Junior Museum of Marin

Bounty Offers: Do They Solve A Problem Or Create Another?

The current bounties being offered in Marin County for the tails of skunks and raccoons is apparently based on the idea that there are a great number of skunks, and to some extent, raccoons, to be seen — or smelled. This fact alone does not necessarily indicate (and certainly does not prove) that there are actually more skunks this year than in previous years but rather that they are coming closer to homes and are being observed more frequently.

The reason for this is probably closely allied with the fact that this has been a good year for rodents; the meadow mice, house mice and gophers are quite abundant and their numbers do fluctuate considerably from year to year depending on the weather, available food supplies and the number of natural enemies such as skunks, raccoons, hawks, owls and snakes that are feeding on the rodents.

The skunks and raccoons that are being observed will feed heavily on rodents whenever possible even if it means following the rodents into the close proximity of human habitations. When the predators have depleted the rodent numbers to any great extent they will have unwittingly exercised control on their own numbers because they will have limited their own food supply for the coming year; with a decreased food supply they will find that they are unable to feed adequately their normal litter with a resulting loss of young and a decrease in general numbers.

In addition to the fact that these animals are rendering a valuable service that has been overlooked in the establishment of a bounty system there are several other objections worthy of mention. Although the skunk is classed by the state as a predator and may be killed at any time, the raccoon is classed as a fur-bearing mammal and can only be taken from the 16th of November until the day before the last day of February. Even at this time a trapping license is required for people over 18 years of age. It is fortunate that the bounty period fell by chance within this period.

Another objection to the bounty system is the fact that the animals causing trouble are those that are around homes in most cases. Animals, including fur-bearers, that are causing depredations to property may be taken at any time upon proof of damage; agencies are in operation that are qualified to handle this work. The animals within city limits that are actually the offenders are not usually the ones killed by the bounty system because it is unlawful to shoot in town, trapping is difficult for the average person and poisons are so dangerous where pets and children abound as to be almost criminal in the hands of most people.

Another point is that it is difficult at best to place an arbitrary amount on the head of an animal as its value, dead or alive, because its value still is not completely realized. If parents allow children to hunt for mercenary reasons, they run two risks—of having their children learn to kill for money and of losing their respect for the true value of wildlife.

In effect, we are giving them authorization to shoot at will in the hopes that it will be the right animal and they can collect their $1 reward. It is fervently hoped that the animals will be the only things shot because of lack of reason.

Chamber Music Membership To Include Private Prevues

By GRACE BEALS

Chamber music is as intimate a form of musical expression as its name may imply. Its performance involves a small group of string instrumentalists each contributing an individual musical voice to an integrated whole. Occassionally a wind instrument or two is employed in the musical work with the total number of instruments in any ensemble designated in the title of the work, as in duos, trios, quartets, quintets and on.

The quartet form is probably the best known and most popular of the chamber music groupings today.

Chamber music was first conceived as early as the 17th century when members of the royal houses began to commission musicians to compose and play for them. These performances took place in the "music rooms" of the royal palaces whence comes the derivation of the name, chamber music.

Besides the advantage of involving only a small number of musicians, chamber music has the enviable reputation of being one of the most dignified of musical literatures. It proves a bountiful source of pleasure to those who would try the field. The musical amateur often makes chamber music his hobby and considers it the mainspring of his musical existence. The layman finds himself richly rewarded for his intelligent listening, and the professional musician turns to it for a kind of pleasure that no other field offers.

THE POTENTIAL for the continuing development of this field, by amateurs and professionals alike, is encouraging and unlimited. In these days of increased leisure time, we find ourselves in search of new and satisfying recreational fields. As an outlet for self-expression as well as fulfilling a need for social participation, chamber music knows no equal. We can expect and probably will see a new surge of musical activity as cognizance is given this idea.

The Marin Arts Quartet, founded last year, is a chamber music ensemble of top professional caliber. Believing that the residents of Marin County, in their appreciation of good music and fine art generally, might welcome and support a chamber music ensemble here, the Marin Arts quartet offered a series of three concerts of chamber music at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley last year.

The response was so warm and enthusiastic that the quartet made plans for another concert series again this year. Its first program will take place at 3 p. m. Sunday, Dec. 7, 3 p. m. at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley, with two other concerts scheduled for Feb. 15 and May 24, 1959. The members of the quartet are Charles Meacham and William Pynchon, violinists, Albert White, violist and Jean Maguire, violin-cellist. All are members of the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra and each enjoys an enviable musical reputation in his own name.

"I WISH I knew more about the background of the music," a comment made last year by a member of the listening audience prompted the quartet to inaugurate a special feature this year in conjunction with its regular concerts.

This new feature will be an abbreviated musical appreciation course given in the form of prevues. Before each concert, the quartet will give an exposition or participate in a discussion of the selections to be played at the forthcoming concerts and will play musical excerpts.

These programs, to be held in private homes on the Thursdays preceding the concert dates are invitational to season subscribers. It is hoped that they will provide a greater appreciation of the forthcoming programs. It may be that they will serve to dispel certain popular illusions that surround this kind of music.

That chamber music is beyond the comprehension of the uninitiated, that it holds little joy for other than the "long-hairs," that it is always solemn, serious and heavy are some of these popular myths that the quartet will quickly tell you and can easily prove are certainly not true.

THERE IS, for instance, a number in the Marin Arts Quartet's repertory that is more Gershwin than Gershwin himself. Interestingly enough, the work in question was composed before Gershwin's time.

And who would suspect without knowing that the popular "Baubles, Bangles and Beads" had its origin in a form of chamber music? However, in their programming which is done with minute, painstaking care it is not the intent of the Marin Arts Quartet to project any special kind of chamber music over any other. Their goal rather is to provide a well-rounded course of programs which will be geared to every listening taste. Its first program will include the Mozart "Quartet, No. 19 in C" (K465), the "Quartet No. 1" (opus 10) by Paul Hindemith and Brahms' "Quartet in C Minor," (opus 51, No. 1).

MEMBERSHIPS, (single $6, double $10) and inquiries may be made by mail, Marin Arts Quartet, Box 95, Mill Valley or by phoning Mrs. Norman Beals of Mill Valley.

To celebrate the reconstruction of the organ of the S. F. Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, Ludwig Altman will give an organ recital at 4:45 p.m. on Nov. 30 in the Montgomery Chapel.

Not only Altman's reputation as an organist makes this recital significant. The important fact is that the organ has been rebuilt in baroque style with the great division entirely exposed in the chapel. While most organs in this area reflect the style of the 19th century this organ will from now on allow true reproductions of compositions from the baroque era which has created the most outstanding masterworks written for organ.

Altman's program, of course, will indulge in the new possibilities for baroque music and therefore lists mostly music of this style. The great Bach will fill the second part of the program while Hofhaimer, Palestrina, Sweelinck and Buxtehude, the organ masters before him, can be savored in the beginning of the recital. Compositions by Haydn, Schumann and contemporary composers will round out the program.

THE NEW REGISTERS of the organ have been made to order by Fr. Jacques Stinkens, of Zeist, Holland. They have been installed by John Swinford, of Redwood City, who has built many organs in the central part of California.

The majority of the new pipes are upper register, and they give a great deal more clarity and brilliance than could be achieved before. The principle of the baroque organ is not to melt the harmonies to one compound (the ideal of the 19th century) but to make each voice distinctly audible. Only when each voice is clearly separated from the other the polyphone lines of the composition will become clear to the listener.

To hear the restyled organ will be a great experience.

Student Photo-Bugs Focus On Scholastic Competition

The 1959 Scholastic-Ansco Photography Awards competition for junior and senior high school students has been announced by the joint sponsors, Scholastic Magazines and Ansco. This competition, which will be marking its 32nd year, has been placed on the Approved List of National Contests and Activities for 1958-59 by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

All students in junior and senior high schools in the United States and its territories may enter. The competition has four divisions, with a total of 15 classifications: Division I—Black and White, for 7th, 8th and 9th grade students; Division II — Black and White, for students in the 10th, 11th and 12th grades; Division III—Color Transparencies, for both junior and senior high school students; Division IV — Snapshots, for students in grades 7 through 9.

Ansco will award cash prizes of $100, $50, and $25 in each classification and will double these awards when the prize-winning photograph is taken with Ansco film. Sylvania Electric Porducts, Inc. will award supplementary cash prizes for winning pictures taken with Sylvania Blue Dot flshbulbs, and two enlargers and darkroom kits will be awarded by the Charles Beseler Company.

Award-winning photographs from the 1958 competition—21 black and white photographs and 10 color transparencies—are included in 70 traveling exhibits, which are available free of charge from December through May to all junior and senior high schools requesting them. Requests should be addressed to: Scholastic-Ansco Photography Awards, 33 West 42nd Street, New York 36, New York.

Dominican Presents Music Sundays On KTIM Show

When the first rainy Sunday of the season canceled the temptation of the outdoors, it was at last possible to listen to a valuable radio program, "The Pageant of American Music," over KTIM. It has been heard for half an hour at 3:30 p. m. every Sunday since Oct. 5, a presentation of the Radio Players of Dominican College.

The program is directed by Sister M. Cyril, O.P., in collaboration with Sister M. Dominic, O.P., and Mrs. Winifred Baker, all of the college music department.

This series is to continue to May 1—the ninth season, of Dominican College broadcasts, by the way—giving an excellent opportunity to become familiar with American composers in perfect reproductions, judging from last Sunday's presentation.

The program started with four short pieces for piano as recorded by Andor Faldes, the works being by Samuel Barber, Walter Piston, Roger Sessions and Virgil Thompson, of which the Thompson work with a simple rag-time with a simple rag-time rhythm was most appealing.

Also presented was "Tryptic" for soprano (Maria Kraft) and a string quartet (Walden) by Shepherd, based on three Indian poems by Tagore.

Gayle Charles, a sophomore, was the clear-speaking announcer, giving a brief explanation of each piece of music. It was also welcome to have the poems read before they were sung.

Perhaps a word also could be said about each composer, his birthday and where and how he makes his living. Then the name could be repeated (for newcomers) before or after the playing of the composition. It is important to get the name through when introducing American composers to a wider audience. M.B.

NEW YORK BACKGROUND

Sausalito Sculptor Receives Award At Oakland Exhibition

Mary Perry Stone of Sausalito won honorable mention in the sharply juried Oakland Art Museum sculpture annual. She has previously had shows in Sausalito, San Francisco and in the East, where she studied at the Traphagen School of Design.

Her work has been shown at the Metropolitan Museum of Art and Rockefeller Center, among other New York galleries.

The Oakland show was juried to David Slivka, who recently came from New York to join the University of California faculty. He admitted only 25 pieces to the annual, which will be on exhibit through Nov. 26.

Authors By Dozens To Meet Public At Big Party Tomorrow

More than 30 prominent Northern California authors have already accepted invitations to the ninth annual Author's Party, to be held Sunday, November 23, from 3 to 6 p.m. at the Press and Union League Club, 555 Post St., San Francisco.

Authors who have published within the last year will be honored at this traditional affair, sponsored by the San Francisco alumnae chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national fraternity for women in journalism. The public is invited to attend, and proceeds will go toward the group's scholarship fund for journalism students.

Among Marin authors at the parley will be Clement and Edith Thacher Hurd, authors of "Faraway Christmas"; Evans G. Valens, "Me and Frumpet" and Stanton A. Coblenz, with his "Out of Many Songs."

NUMBERED AMONG the Northern California writers who will be present to autograph their books are Eugene Burdick, co-author with William J. Lederer of "The Ugly American," an October Book-of-the-Month selection about Americans in the Far East; Ada Cook Lewis, whose historical novel, "The Longest Night," concerns itself with Paris and the conflicts that led to The Massacre of St. Bartholomew; Mortimer Adler and Louis Kelso, co-authors of the best-selling "Capitalist Manifesto," which calls for a re-examination of American Economic principles; and San Francisco historian Oscar Lewis, with his two literary contributions for 1958, "Fabulous San Simeon" and "The Autobiography of the West."

MODERN GRANDMOTHER

Storms Cut Electric Power But She Kept On Cooking

The storms raged, the power failed, but Lennie Lee went on cooking. In her sleek yellow tile and mahogany kitchen, this pert, modern grandmother was only slightly inconvenienced by the lack of electricity. A few blocks away, her children—also very modern -- were learning to cook over a grate in the fireplace.

"The great thing about gas is that during the storms the electricity is off so much," says Mrs. Lee.

Mrs. Lee might have been in the same fix as her offspring, except that, when she went shopping for a retirement house after her husband, Alfred, died, she fell in love with a view of Mt. Tamalpais.

"I'LL TAKE IT," she said from the front door, looking over a clutter of sawhorses and planks to the big picture window.

Up to this time, Mrs. Lee had cooked with electricity in her old-fashioned two-story house. The new home, which promised convenience at every turn, happened to be far enough along that the kitchen range and oven — automatic gas units—were already installed. They were the choice of contractor Charles Hendrickson, who had intended the house for himself.

The units were surfaced in a rich bittersweet brown porcelain. Since colors were Mrs. Lee's choice, she had the mahogany finished in a cocoa tone with walls painted nearly matching. Over the stove are plain and patterned tiles in butter yellow, with ceiling to match. Linoleum is cocoa flecked with color.

THE OVEN ALL but thinks for itself. When Mrs. Lee leaves her Marin County retreat for luncheon or shopping in San Francisco, she sets the oven to turn on at a given time, cook at pre-set temperature for the required number of minutes and turn itself off. Range burners can be adjusted to exactly the right height. The overhead fan whisks off all cooking odors.

While Mrs. Lee need not pinch her pennies, the gas appliances are saving her money. In the city of San Rafael, where she lives the supply is piped-in gas. The same appliances would also burn liquid petroleum gas, such as butane or propane from a tank.

"If it is intended for a kitchen," Stroeberger said, "I cut every piece of wood paneling to fit, then add color and install it. Of course, this applies to paneling and all sorts of built-ins throughout the home. Do your finishing and your coloring before you install the wood."

By finishing out your panel boards where you can work on them easily on your bench, Stroeberger said, you insure even color coverage.

FOUR STEPS in good wood treatment in any room, he said, are:

1. Sanding, the key to satin smooth finishing, using coarse sandpaper first, then finer grades until the wood achieves a soft, delicate touch;

2. Sealing wood on both faces, edges, and ends to insure adequate protection from moisture and temperature changes;

3. Staining, whether color or paint, to be applied to the wood before installing. If clear varnish or lacquer is used, then apply to wood after sealer has been added;

4. Installing pre-finished panels: Drive finish nails blind at angle into tongue so next panel will cover, being careful not to mar the wood.

YOU SHOULD sandpaper wood after the sealer has been added, and you should use steel wool after each coat of lacquer.

You may use lacquer several coats deep over stain, paint, or clear wood to bring out the beauty of texture and grain of such lovely panel boards as west coast hemlock or Douglas fir.

LUPINE (Lupinus sp.) — Many lupines, varying from low annuals to woody shrubs, grow in Marin. However, whether their flowers be yollow, white, or blue, or whether they grow in grassy fields, open woods, roadside cuts, or sandy dunes, they may be recognized by their pea-shaped blossoms and palmately compound leaves (3-17 leaflets from a common center). In some years they form solid sheets of blue make an especially beauon our open hills, and tiful display if intermingled with the poppy's gold. (From Out-of Doors in Marin, Copyright by M. F. Austin.)

Indoor Geraniums

You can keep a potted geranium blooming unseasonally —in fact, all year along — by moving it indoors when cold weather sets in. Keep it near a window where it gets as much light as possible. Since it probably won't dry out as fast indoors, take care not to overwater: lightly every third day should be enough. A light application of complete plant food will also help at this time.

Put In Primrose Seedlings Now For Gay Spring Border

With all the good things that come to gardeners in the Spring, perhaps one of the most eagerly awaited events is the first bloom of the primrose border. And the California Association of Nurserymen suggests that you can assure yourself of this pleasure and save money to boot by planting these charming perennials right now in their inexpensive seedling form.

Although there are more varieties of primroses than you can shake a trowel at, perhaps the type most closely associated with the name is the polyanthus. This type is characterized by the attractive clusters of individual flowers in gorgeous colors. These are borne on stiff straight stems that emerge from bright wooly green leaves at the base of the plant.

FOR MOST EFFECTIVE results, many people prefer to plant the primrose in borders —especially large drifts of single colors alternated with other contrasting or complimentary shades. Others enjoy the rainbow effect of mixed colors against a background of evergreens. But whichever way you plant these lovelies, they will be a treasure.

Primroses have simple cultural requirements. They like rich humus worked into the soil before planting and a mulch afterwards. They need water during the growing period and at least partial shade during the summer.

The primrose lends itself happily to pot culture. You can plant them in pots now and set them in the ground where you desire the spring color. Or you can mass them in pots and move them on to your porch and patio once they start blooming. The main thing about primroses is—everybody wants them.

So, for well established plants this spring at lower cost, be sure to make your selection now at your local nursery.

GARDENER'S CHECKLIST

- ✔Get after those earwigs. You'll find them in damp places, under boards or at the base of a fence. Ask your nurseryman to recommend a spray.
- ✔Start crab grass control now with one of the pre-emergence seed killers. Several applications between now and next summer may be necessary in order to get all the seed in the ground.
- ✔If you have a camellia that needs moving, now is the time. Make sure soil is moist before you dig it up.
- ✔Keep planting perennials. You'll never get them any cheaper than they are this time of year as seedlings.
- ✔Long new canes on climbing roses must be tied to maintain their form and resist winter weather. Tie loosely rather than taughtly.

Tarnished Camellias

Nothing more frustrates the gardener than a camellia which persists with yellowed leaves despite repeated feedings. This is usually a telltale sign that the plant lacks iron, but stubborn plants even resist iron sulfate at times. If such is the case, the plant cannot assimilate iron. Often the soil is not acid enough, but sometimes the plant is just plain stubborn. In either case, an iron chelating compound, which holds the iron in suspension until it is absorbed by the roots, will be your best bet to green up the plant.

ALL-AMERICANS

The All-America Award is a symbol of quality and distinction to home gardeners everywhere. The testing programs established by the various groups of All-America Selections have given encouragement to gardeners and is taking the "guess work" out of a fascinating hobby that is growing by leaps and bounds.

Just announced are the All-America Gladiolus selections for 1959—Joyous and Sparkler. An exciting new creation of John J. Flad, Joyous is an elegant, rich deep rose colored glad. It is formal in type and eight or more lovely florets open at once, with the rich deep color spreading throughout the flower as each floret opens. The plants are healthy and vigorous.

AS GRACEFUL as a butterfly and just as colorful, Sparkler is a gay, happy combination of yellow and red. Carl Fischer has created this skillful blending of colors. The florets are ruffled and triangular in shape, giving an airy butterfly-effect. The color combination is most intriguing, being both striking and harmonious.

Each All-America winner is grown and rated in each of the 35 All-America trial gardens located coast to coast in the United States and Canada. All North American gladiolus hybridists have the privilege of entering their outstanding new originations for the All-America Award, and recommendation by this non-profit industry-wide organization is recognized as the most coveted award for any gladiolus.

All-America glads are protected by United States plant patents. They are sold at uniform, low prices by reputable dealers throughout the United States and Canada. Each bag contains the registered trademark which is your assurance of genuine bulbs.

Ay, An' A Wee Bit O' Heather Brightens Th' Heart O' Many

Mention Scotch heather to anyone and chances are you'll strike a sentimental note somewhere. It makes little difference that he's not a Scotsman nor even seen Scotland. For heather—like wee bonnie lasses and the banks of Clyde—has earned universal fame. Many are the non-Scots who cherish it.

We might do well to overlook the fact that much of the "Scotch heather" sold by florists in the U. S. is grown in California. Yet if this seems unromantic, it's still nice to know that we can grow it with such success.

Most widely grown of all heathers in California are Pink Scotch Heather and Red Scotch Heather. Vigorous members of the family, they reach five feet in height, occasionally more. Flowers come from late fall to early spring on long sprays. Depending on variety, they are lilac pink to deep rose with black tips. Best ask a member of the California Association of Nurserymen which you are getting.

There may be room for only Scotch heather in your heart, but there is room for other members of the family in your garden.

TURKEY FOR PANHANDLER

Red Skelton plays Freddie the Freeloader who has to get a Thanksgiving Day turkey dinner the hard way from a stone-hearted restaurant owner, portrayed by guest star William Frawley, in an all-pantomine broadcast of "The Red Skelton Show," 8:30 p.m. Tuesday over KPIX (Channel 5).

'Dr. Zhivago' Case Topic Of TV Report

"The Case of Dr. Zhivago," a special feature report on Boris Pasternak, this year's Nobel Prize winner in literature, will be presented at 2 p.m. tomorrow over KPIX (Channel 5). The special program will tell the story of the controversial author whose prize-winning novel, "Dr. Zhivago," is banned in the author's own home nation, the Soviet Union.

The position of the author in Communist society will be discussed and reported by Harrison E. Salisbury, former Moscow correspondent of The New York Times; George Reavey, former deputy press attache of the British Embassy in Moscow, long-time friend of Mr. Pasternak and translator of many Pasternak poetic works into English; Jerry Cooke, who recently photographed the Russian author for Life magazine; and Marvin Kalb, CBS News staff writer, whose new book, "Eastern Exposure," is based on his experiences while attached to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

Russ Dance Troupe

Disney Duplicates 'Oldest Building'

Among the edifices lining the new "western street" set at Walt Disney Studios in Burbank is a replica of the oldest public building in the United States—the Palace of Governors at Sante Fe, New Mexico.

It has been constructed for use in "Elfego — Lawman or Gunman," next Friday's offering of "Walt Disney Presents." This is the third in the group of "Disney Presents" dramas dealing with the life of Elfego Baca, colorful real-life lawman, attorney and politico of New Mexico. (KGO-TV, Channel 7 at 8 p.m.)

'Science Capsules' To Be Expanded

Tom Groody's "Science Capsule" programs, originally packaged as five-minute digests of scientific information explained in a layman's language, will now be presented as quarter-hour shows in a regular weekly series on Channel 7, beginning Friday, Dec. 12.

Slated for late afternoon viewing (5:15-5:30 p. m.) these "Science Capsule" programs feature Dr. Tom Groody of Belvedere in the role of an 'answer man,' who gives scientific reasons behind the answers with appropriate visual demonstrations, drawings and other aids.

That Noise You Here On TV Is Conversation

NEW YORK (UPI) — That strange sound coming from television sets these days is something called talk. You know—chit-chat. Conversation. The spoken word.

The talking that's going on in TV has the trend-spotters talking.

Money doesn't matter. Nor does music, choreography, scenery or song. The emphasis is on talk. And making up this talk-trend are such loquacious luminaries as Jack Paar, Arthur Godfrey, Jackie Gleason, Oscar Levant, Ben Hecht, Edward R. Murrow and David Susskind.

TALK SHOW BOOKED

Significantly, when the "Big Daddy" of the big quizz shows, "$64,000 Question" passed away early this month, it was replaced by "Keep Talking," a game show in which the talkers compete by trying to insert weird phrases into wild stories.

Arthur Godfrey and Jackie Gleason eariler this month held five televised morning conferences on Godfrey's CBS-TV show.

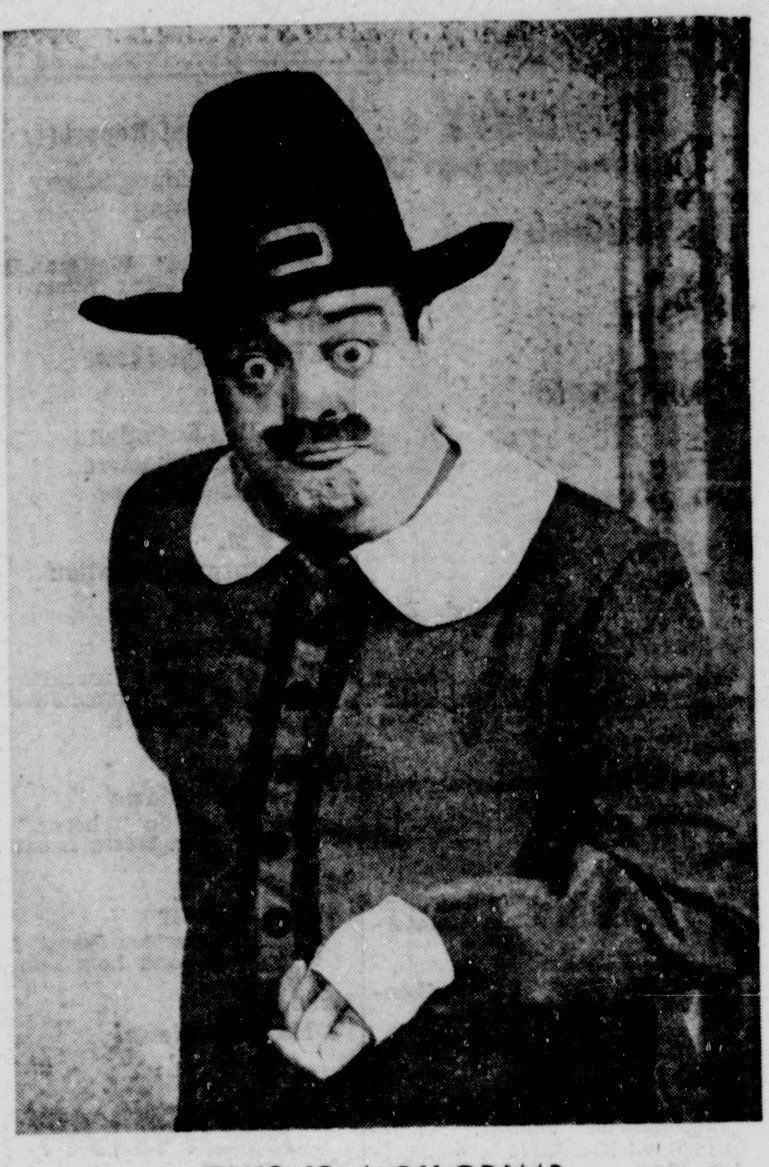
All they did was sit and talk about such things as TV critics, booze, golf, booze, smoking, show business, and booze, and let the laughs fall where they might.

DADDY OF CHIT-CHAT

Jack Paar, of course, has been engaging in midnight chit-chat with his guests ever since July 1957, and many regard him as the original talk-trend pioneer. However, others in the industry believe the talk-trend's roots can be traced back to 1956 and "The Mike Wallace Interview."

In Hollywood, Oscar Levant is the televiewers' chief talk-trender. Levant's emphasis is on id stuff rather than kid stuff and when he and Jack Paar got together recently for a nationally televised chat, Oscar unburdened himself of such major conversational chords as: "I have my own hallucinations. I don't have to go to Disneyland." Or, "He thought everything was wonderful all the time—you know, like Dinah Shore?"

Ben Hecht, self-styled "author and iconoclast," spends 25 minutes each weekday night in New York talking to a guest. The chatter is long on reminiscences about the roaring 20s and usually short on time.



THIS IS A PILGRIM?

If this puckish Pilgrim had attended that first Thanksgiving at Plymouth in 1621, it's unlikely we'd observe the day with such solemnity. For the man in the mustache is Jackie Gleason, the man who likes to leave 'em laughing.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation
